SENATE PASSES BILL PROVIDING FUND FOR EMPLOYMENT RELIEF

Strikes Out the Provision Giving Hoover Entire Control of Plan.

VAST PUBLIC WORKS PROGRAM PROVIDED

Amendments to Require House Reconsideration of Measure.

REPUBLICAN CHIEFS WORK FOR HARMONY

Senator Watson Tells President He Should Cooperate on Tactics of Party.

(Associated Press.)

The emergency public improvements appropriation was passed late yesterday by the Senate as administration leaders undertook new steps for a harmony relief program.

The Senate struck from the bill the provision giving President Hoover a free hand in the use of the fund, on motion of Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the Democratic leader. This and other amendments, including an addition of $5,000,000 to the $110,000,000 voted by the House, require reconsideration of the legislation by the House.

The huge fund to be spent on a vast public improvements program throughout the Nation will become available immediately upon enactment and final congressional approval is expected by early next week at the latest. Sponsors of the legislation assert it will give immediate employment to thousands.

Republicans Seek Harmony.

As the Democratic storm in the Senate against Mr. Hoover's denunciation of those advocating added relief measures subsided, the Republicans went into conference to seek some manner of harmony and cooperation.

Earlier, President Hoover communicated with Senator Watson, of Indiana, the Republican leader, expressing a desire to send his experts before Congress to back up the administration contention on the extent of the necessity for relief legislation.

Mr. Watson called the conference of party leaders when discord developed in the Republican ranks. Some held the view that Mr. Hoover should have consulted his party chieftians before issuing the statement he did. Others felt the party should have given a more vigorous defense to the Democratic attack.

After the conference, Mr. Watson called the President and assured him of cooperation by the party in keeping relief legislation within bounds, but also asking him to cooperate with the party on tactics to be pursued in advocating the relief program.

Capper Resolution Studied.

Meanwhile, the Senate agriculture committee appointed a subcommittee to study and report on the Capper resolution to authorize distribution to the needy of 40,000,000 bushels of wheat held by the Grain Stabilization Corporation. Chairman Legge, of the Farm Board, in appearing before the committee, said the board would have to repurchase the wheat in the open market in order to maintain the present price level.

The Senate also added to the public improvements appropriation measure an amendment by Senator Couzens, Republican, Michigan, requiring the contractors using the funds to employ only local labor and maintain a wage scale equal to the highest paid in the locality.

An attempt by Senator Connally, Democrat, Texas, to liberalize the provisions to permit a direct appropriation of half of the $80,000,000 for Federal road aid to the States was rejected, 42 to 32.

Senator Oddie (Republican), Nevada, offered the amendment adding $5,000,000 for use in constructing roads on the public domain and Indian reservations.

Senator Wagner (Democrat), New York, in a speech criticizing the attitude of the Hoover administration toward relief demanded that the administration permit final action on his bills to set up an employment planning commission and to provide for collection of more accurate employment statistics.

About this time, Director Steuart, of the Census Bureau, announced that a supplementary survey of employment conditions in 20 cities would be undertaken January 15 to get the latest available picture of the situation.

The Senate also accepted amendments by Senators George (Democrat), Georgia, and Black (Democrat), Alabama, to authorize the expenditure of the balances available for road construction in the flood-stricken areas of their States without requiring the States to match the amount. About $506,000 remains for Georgia and $1,600,000 for Alabama.

Calvin Coolidge

Says: When there are so many evidences of unreasoning mental disturbances, in the country it could not be expected that all official Washington would remain calm and collected. That would not happen under a system of representative government. What the Government needs is not the influence of the disturbed elements of the country so much as the influence of the less vocal reason and sound economics. To arouse these conservative forces into action required vigorous language from the President. He could not sound a fire alarm in whispers. Senator Robinson has displayed good judgment and leadership by refusing to become involved in nonessentials and reiterating his purpose to cooperate in relief measures. The final results of our Government are generally sound. The Senate or House sometimes starts wrong, but second thought usually sets them on the right track. The responsible elements in the Government, regardless of party, in a situation like the present, need more public reassurance and support from the conservative forces of the Nation. These forces are predominant but they often lack expression. It is time for them also openly to manifest their obligation to cooperate.

SENATOR OVERMAN IS "CRITICALLY ILL"

North Carolinian Had Been Thought to Be on Road Toward Recovery.

HEMORRHAGE SUFFERED

(Associated Press.)

Senator Overman, of North Carolina, was said last night by his physician to be "critically ill."

The North Carolinian, who is 86 years old and has served in the Senate since 1903, has been ill with a cold and indigestion for several days and was thought to be on the road to recovery. Dr. Sterling Ruffin, his physician, said last night, however, that he had a severe hemorrhage of the stomach yesterday afternoon and that his condition was extremely serious.

"I hope he will live through the night," the physician said, "but he is very low."

White House Reception Is Held for Judiciary

(Associated Press.)

President and Mrs. Hoover last night entertained for the judiciary at the second of the formal White House receptions.

Headed by the Supreme Court, the Federal judges and attaches of the various courts, the reception line included virtually all of the ranking officials of the Department of Justice. The House and Senate judiciary committees also were guests.

Clarksburg, W. Va., Dec. 11.—Robert Hollins, Negro chauffeur, was sentenced to a life term in the Moundsville Penitentiary today, in criminal court. # NINE ARE SENTENCED IN DANVILLE STRIKE

Seven Men and Two Women Found Guilty After Disorder Monday.

ARE GIVEN 30-DAY TERMS

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., Dec. 11.—Following an all-day session of police court today, seven men and two women were sentenced to serve 30 days in jail and to pay fines of $50 for disorders at the gates of the Riverside Mills last Monday morning. Appeals were noted in each case.

Another batch of the 40 persons arrested went on trial this afternoon, 21 in all, but so wearily did the case drag that at 5 o'clock adjournment was taken with only half of the witnesses heard. There remain successive groups to be tried tomorrow.

Police witnesses were severely cross-examined by H. T. Williams, attorney for the defendants. Testimony of the officers was that those arrested failed to move on when warned, or used abusive language toward nonunion workers. The defense was that none of those arrested was guilty of an unlawful act.

The long silence maintained by the mill management was broken today, but not in Danville. Malcolm K. Harris, attorney for the corporation, was called into conference by Gov. Pollard, at Richmond, and at the end of the two-hour interview the attitude of the mill company toward the strike became known for the first time. Mr. Harris issued a statement bearing on his interview with the governor, in which he said that newspapers have taken a wrong attitude toward the strike; that there is no controversy between the mill management and the strikers, but that there is a controversy between those who want to work and those who do not.

It is understood that the governor is concerned over the continued cost

TWO-CENT RIDE FOR STUDENTS SIDE-STEPPED

District Committee Drops Problem of Reduced Fare for Pupils.

CITY'S UTILITY GROUP TO WORK OUT CHANGE

CONGRESS SHOULD FIX COST, STATES NOONAN

Commission and Street Car Lines to Speed Plans on Enactment of Bill.

A 2-cent street car fare for school children was definitely eliminated yesterday from the list of things the people of the District may expect at this session of Congress.

The 2-cent fare provision was informally but none the less definitely eliminated from the pending fare bill at a public hearing on the measure by the Senate District committee.

In its place, at the suggestion of representatives of the tarect car companies and with the approval of the Public Utilities Commisson, was proposed a new plan, under which the whole question of reducing fares for school children would be left to the Public Utilities Commsion to settle.

Senator King (Democrat), of Utah, and Senator Copeland (Democrat), of New York, sponsored the plan to turn the whole question over to the Utilities Commission, and at the close of the hearing it was agreed that the commsion and the transportation companies should get together to frame a law satisfactory to both, clothing the commission with specific authority to provide special fares for school children.

Senator Copeland proposed that the rate fixed by the commission should not be more than one-half of the regular fare. William F. Ham, president of the Washington Railway & Electric Co., said that he would not quarrel with that, but he thought the limitation should not be placed on the commission.

Limitation Plan Defended.

"Let me say," William McK. Clayton, chairman of the utilities committee of the Federation of Citizens Associations, "that unless there is that limitation this plan will mean nothing to us, absolutely nothing."

Senator Blaine (Republican), of Wisconsin, declared in the discussion over the propriety of Congress fixing specific rates that if that were done the companies would still have legal right and authority to appeal to the utilities commission for relief if the rate fixed justified such action.

John H. Hanna, president of the Capital Traction Co., and E. D. Merrill, president of the Washington Rapid Transit Co., joined with Mr. Hamm in agreeing to speed up actino by the

WORLD COURT ENEMIES SHOW GAIN IN SENATE

PROTOCOLS DOOMED, WATSON PREDICTION

Proponents Want Root to Explain Formula He Drafted.

FORMER SECRETARY GUEST OF PRESIDENT

Swanson Would Defer Debate, Fearing Extra Session of Congress.

(Associated Press.)

Leaders of opposing sides in the Senate controversy on the world court agreed yesterday that it could not be disposed of at this session, but a division developed among its friends over whether to urge a special session of the Senate.

As the chieftains in the impending contest considered a program, word was passed out by the court foes that a new check-up led them to count at least 28 votes in opposition. This was eleven more than voted against entry five years ago and is near the one-third necessary to defeat ratification.

Friends of the court said they were optimistic.

At the same time President Hoover had to luncheon Secretary Stimson and Elihu Root, who helped to draft the revised formula to meet the objections of other nations to the Senate's reservation, adopted five years ago.

Mr. Root Will Explain.

It is the intention of the court advocates to have Mr. Root, a former Secretary of State, appear before the foreign relations committee to explain the modified proposal.

While many Republicans are opposed to reporting the protocol from the foreign relations committee now, lest it precipitate an extra session, there are apparently enough votes to get an early report.

Chairman Borah, although an opponent of American participation, wants to have the protocol reported. Senator Swanson (Democrat), Virginia, a leader of the court proponents, likewise wants the committee to put the issue before the Senate at this session.

However, Swanson proposed yesterday that the debate be deferred until next session, a year hence. He said it was "obvious" that the Senate could not act upon it at this session.

Sees No Action This Session.

Senator Walsh, of Montana, a Democratic member of the committee and a court advocate, likewise agreed it would be "utterly impossible" to dispose of the court and the urgent domestic problems at the short session. He urged a special session of

NEW STUDENT RIOTS BRING SUSPENSION OF CUBAN CIVIL LIBERTY

Virtual Martial Law Is Invoked by Machado Over Island.

DECREE WILL OBTAIN FOR 60-DAY PERIOD

Firing Is Heard in Streets as Police Attempt to Halt Trouble.

RUMORS ARE RIFE PRESIDENT TO QUIT

One Youth Killed and Six Are Wounded—Bombs Found in Provinces.

Havana, Dec. 11 (A.P.).—Amid new disorders by students and with rumors buzzing through the city that he soon would resign, President Machado today suspended constitutional guarantees throughout the whole of Cuba.

This is tantamount to martial law and is similar to the suspension decreed in Havana and environs which ended last month. Both were authorized by Congress after much debate, but whereas the first decree was confined to the capital and for only 20 days, the suspension invoked today will run for 60 days over the entire island.

Student activities not only continued but increased, meanwhile, and the sound of firing was heard in the streets as police attempted to break up demonstrations. Numbers of business and professional men, graduates of the National University, pledged their support to the rioting undergraduates.

Secret Cabinet Meeting.

The president's action followed upon a secret meeting of the cabinet, at which American Ambassador Harry F. Guggenheim was reported to be present, and it was known that important developments were expected.

Havana at the same time was swimming in a flood of rumors. There were numerous reports the president would resign, another that he already had placed his resignation in the hands of the supreme court, and still another that Ambassador Guggenheim had summoned two American cruisers from the United States naval base at Guantanamo. All were denied.

Complicating the situation, and adding to several cabinet changes during the week, was the resignation of Miguel Angel Campa as attorney general.

Summer of Unrest.

The latest developments climax a summer of unrest in Cuba, with disorders and demonstrations growing since the congressional election of last month. Hundreds of students, who are prime movers in all the disturbances, have been arrested in various parts of the island.

In the past two days one youth was killed in Sagua la Grande in a fight with police and six others were wounded; Havana students battled against police in Havana; the rural guard and youth enrolled at the Camaguey Normal School clashed, with the result that the school was closed today; at Matanzas there was a bomb explosion; three bombs were discovered in the Provincial Institute at Santa Clara; at Guantanamo students bombarded the Catholic School with tomatoes when its faculty refused to close the institution, and numerous minor squabbles were reported.

Six Reported Injured.

Six students were reported injured in the clashes of today. As before, the declaration of suspension of guarantees seemed to exercise an immediate pacifying effect and no disorders were reported afterward.

But although the military was not ordered out, some of the most vital rights enjoyed by Cubans under their constitution were taken away.

The privileges of free speech, free press, assembly and habeas corpus are

Kansas City, Kans., Dec. 11 (A.P.). From love letters and the quavering lips of Miss Grace Brandon, blonde stenographer, the prosecution in the murder trial of Maj. Charles A. Miss Brandon, the Government's star witness, testified Shepard wrote her from Fort Riley, Kans., a few weeks before, the prosecutor alleges, he poisoned his wife because Mrs. Shepard had refused to divorce him.

Attention of State Department and diplomatic officials in the Capital centered again last night on the Cuban situation, with the resignation of President Machado considered a possibility.

Word that "great preasure" was being brought to bear on the Cuban President to resign was received in Washington by a reliable source last night. The message came on the heels of many rumors throughout the day hinting that the Cuban Chief Executive would resign.

U. S. Studies Deportation Of Gangsters as Weapon

Hoodlums' Life Histories Being Scanned by Authorities.

(Associated Press.)

Life histories of some of the country's most notorious gangsters are being studied by the Government to see if they can be deported.

William N. Doak, the new Labor Secretary, said yesterday the list included racketeers in New York, Chicago and other large cities, but he mentioned no names. Immigration authorities, however, are understood to have enough data for biographies of some of the men on Chicago's list of "public enemies" looking toward giving them a one-way ticket on outbound ocean steamers.

Secretary Doak said the department's activities were a continuation of the work under Secretary Davis and explained the gangsters combatted deportation with shrewd lawyers and in every other way possible.

The growth of racketeering in some sections brought announcement some time ago that the Government was cooperating with local authorities in combatting gangsters. Failure to pay income taxes has been used by the Department of Justice as a weapon against affluent criminals. President Hoover said recently, however, he would make no recommendations for new laws to combat them and that what was needed was an awakening of public conscience and the enforcement of State laws.

Secretary Doak said his department also was continuing its cooperation with the State Department in checking immigration and added he would transmit figures covering the last few months to Congress soon.

President Hoover has recommended revision of the immigration laws for "selectivity," and Senator Reed (Republican), Pennsylvania, sponsored pending legislation to suspend all immigration for two years.

Campaign to Double Holiday Fund Starts

Happiness of Children May Depend on Support in Post Drive.

Plenty of toys. Plenty of joys. For plenty of girls and plenty of boys.

This sort of thing might go on, far into the night or morning, but the main idea is to let you know that the bigger The Post Christmas Cheer Fund grows, the more children will spend happy Christmas days in Washington, and after all, that is the essential thing.

There are several hundred children in the Capital who face "empty stockings," unless enough people come to the rescue, with money to buy them the things which their parents, this year especially, can not afford.

The Post has no doubt but Washingtonians will respond to this appeal, in the way in which Capital residents have always supported worthy causes. If they do, then a merry Christmas is assured these children and for thousands of others who have "given," it will be a brighter Christmas because of the knowledge of having helped some one else enjoy the holiday.

Nothing can make Christmas more miserable than the thought of small children, minus a tree, minus candy and minus the thousand and one little trinkets which gladden the hearts of boys and girls on the day following Santa Claus' annual visit. Nobody wants to think that there are such cases. But unless some-

Referendum on Prohibition Favored by One Dry Group

Leader Says Poll Would Prove Country Wants Law Retained; Wet Convention Advocates Government Dispensaries for Control of Liquor Sale.

(Associated Press.)

An outline of the reasons why the drys should favor a prohibition referendum was given last night as wet and dry advocates left the Capital after agreements upon their respective plans.

Patrick H. Callahan, of Louisville, secretary of the Association of Catholics Favoring Prohibition, said in a statement a group of prohibition leaders believed a referendum would prove the country definitely dry and after such confirmation violators would see they would remain outside the law all their lives unless they observed it.

The antiprohibitionists had agreed upon a Government liquor dispensary plan and the drys left behind them an enlarged board of strategy to work out a program for the 1932 presidential campaign.

Prohibition Director Woodcock, meanwhile, made known plans for organizing his corps of dry agents on an efficiency rating system, comparable to that of the Army.

Woodcock said he would like to see prohibition "disappear entirely from the front pages of the newspapers."

It was his experience, he said, that sensational raids upon cabarets and citizen, noncommercial violators generally were productive of small results and that he favored a continuance of a steady pressure the year round. He said he contemplated no special concentration of agents during coming weeks.

The dry leaders' board of strategy at a meeting yesterday, appointed a subcommittee on plans composed of Mrs. Ella A. Boole, of Brooklyn, president of the W. C. T. U., chairman; Oliver W. Stewart, of Chicago, president of the Flying Squadron Foundation; Dr. Ernest H. Cherrington, secretary of the World League Against Alcoholism; F. Scott McBride, superintendent of the Antisaloon League; among those which Cuba is destined not to enjoy again until after February 8, 1931. Censorship was not invoked.

The president tonight made a direct reply to the rumors which said he would quit.

Not Thinking of Resigning.

"I have not resigned," he declared, "and I am not thinking of resigning. I see no reason for giving consideration to such a move on my part."

Concerning the lifting of guarantees, Dr. Richardo Herrera, minister plenipotentiary and personal secretary to Machado, explained: "It is merely a means to insure peace in Cuba during these weeks when trouble seems to have increased. The president is determined that order shall prevail."

The decree ordering the suspension was signed by the president and by the new secretary of the interior, Jose C. Vivanco. It was the latter's first official act since taking over his new post, formerly held by Manuel Delgado.

Text of Order.

It read, in part: "Inasmuch as during these last few days the campaign against the government has assumed greater proportions and is characterized by crimes against property and order, and inasmuch as there is evidence that those inspiring this seditious move are attempting to spread it to all parts of the republic, and inasmuch as it is the poorer class of people which is suffering the misdeeds of the higher classes in paralysis of commerce, and inasmuch as the social order must be given protection so that business and the tourist season may enjoy normal development, I am carrying into effect the authorization granted me by law."

against Machado also was reported in the message telling of the move to have the president resign.

State Department officials remained silent, but the impression was that they considered a settlement of the long-standing political turbulence through a strictly political move would be much better than an outbreak of open hostilities against the government.

The department's silence was generally interpreted as a change in attitude toward conditions in Cuba.

For many weeks there have been a succession of reports and rumors, all of them unsubstantiated by developments, that a revolution against the regime of Machado was imminent. Throughout this period, the department maintained an openly asserted attitude that conditions in the republic were little other than normal. A close touch with the situation was maintained, however, by cable and telephone between the State Department and the American Embassy at Havana.

On numerous occasions, the embassy reported formally to the department on incidents which press dispatches generally indicated were of a somewhat disturbing character. Each of these incidents was minimized by the department at the time and emphasis was placed on reports from the embassy when individual cases could be described as "returned to normal."

Last night, however, for the first time in a long period, the State Department declined to comment on the situation. Even declining to reiterate its often repeated declaration that conditions were virtually normal. It was admitted that the department had received reports from the Havana Embassy, but their character was but even hinted.

Considerable weight has been attached by State Department officials, despite their outward calm, to the many rumors of an impending armed outbreak. Their attitude appeared to be summarized in one official's assertion that in a country where such a situation had existed over so long a period, the occurrance of almost anything could not come as a surprise.

Ambassador Orestes Ferrara of Cuba last night said he could not give credence to reports current that pressure had been brought to bear in Havana to get Machado to resign.

The Ambassador said it was evident Cuba's major difficulty lay in an economic situation which reflected similar depressed situations throughout the world, and was aggravated in Cuba by conditions rising out of the low price of sugar.

of keeping soldiers in Danville, but the executive said that there are "no present prospects" of withdrawing them. The eviction question also was entered into by the governor, who was assured that no more families will be dispossessed unless exceptional cases develop requiring such action. The governor was told that there are many unoccupied houses in Danville, and that those turned out of mill-owned houses will not be homeless.

No disorders of any kind marked the conduct of the strike today, but there was no relaxing of either military or civilian police vigilance. Representatives of the Friends Relief Society, of Philadelphia, accompanied by Judge Ricks, of Richmond, were here in conference with union leaders yesterday, and offered to place a trained nurse here to care for illness among strikers.

The union is definitely at work on a Christmas entertainment for 7,000 children of Danville strikers. Just where the entertainment can be held is not known but several offers of aid from local people have been received.

The congregation of the Lee Street Baptist Church has requested the pastor to bring his influence to bear at the next ministerial association meeting on united action by Danville ministers, "in a neutral way," to bring about settlement of the strike.

EVENTS IN MARYLAND AND VIRGINIA

PITTS TAKES STAND TODAY FOR DEFENSE AT SMITH CO. TRIAL

Former Chairman of Board to Testify After Accountants Leave Stand.

WITNESSES CONTEND FUNDS NOT DIVERTED

Missing Key and Incorrect Records Slow Proceedings of Court.

G. Bryan Pitts, former chairman of the board of the F. H. Smith Co., and one of three defendants being tried in District Supreme Court on charges of conspiracy to embezzle funds of the company and to conceal its records, will take the witness stand today or tomorrow to tell his own story.

Defense attorneys have announced that Mr. Pitts would be placed on stand and that testimony of their witnesses will be concluded this week. With H. O. Hart, expert accountan now on the stand, yet to undergo cross-examination, and with other accountants and auditors yet to be called, Mr. Pitts may not testify before tomorrow morning.

Throughout a day which dragged slowly the defense built up a wall of evidence tending to show that specific checks, named in the Government's bill of particulars, were not diverted to the personal use of any of the defendants, but were handled regularly and legitimately. Mr. Hart, the defense's star witness, traced a score of such items through books of the company which the prosecution has placed in evidence.

To Trace Items.

Wilton J. Lambert, of defense counsel, said last night that each item in the bill of particulars would be traced by Mr. Hart through the books in evidence to its ultimate destination.

In addition to Mr. Pitts, C. Elbert Anadale, and John H. Edwards, jr., former officers of the company, are on trial on the conspiracy charge.

The day began speedily enough, but progress slowed up early, crept through the early afternoon, moved dreamily toward adjournment, and finally faded out with hardly a perceptible halt. Justice William Hitz, presiding, took notice of this phenomenon.

"It seems to me, gentlemen," he said, just before adjourning court ahead of the usual hour, "that we've had more or less lost motion this afternoon."

Key Was Missing.

"It's only the key to the box," said Nugent Dodds, Assistant Attorney General.

"I'll use what influence I have to see that he brings his papers," Justice Hitz added.

This cryptic conversation alluded to the two factors which had most affected progress during the afternoon. At one time in his testimony, Mr. Hart stated that he had taken certain information from a file of cards relating to stock ownership. Upon learning that these cards had not been admitted in evidence, Mr. Dodds objected to the witness' testimony until the cards were produced and placed in evidence.

The cards were brought into the courtroom in a steel filing case. Then the prosecution announced that the key to the case was not present.

Wrong Records Brought.

Turning then to another item in the bill of particulars, Frank G. Raichle, defense attorney, called Frank G. Cunningham, clerk of court, who had been subpenaed to bring with him certain court records, relating to the hearings in bankruptcy of the Consolidated Hotels Corporation, a Smith subsidiary. Mr. Cunningham was placed on the stand, and it was then discovered that he had brought the wrong records.

It was to this key and these papers that Justice Hitz and Mr. Dodds referred just before court was adjourned until today.

In its testimony submitted yesterday, the defense endeavored to break down, one by one, the allegations contained in the indictment. One witness, Robert M. Klinger, of the accounting firm of Murphy, Lanier & Quinn, told the jury that he had used the records alleged to have been concealed in making an audit of the company's books in June and July, 1929. The concealment was alleged to have taken place in May of that year.

Says Records Useless.

A preceding witness, Charles M. Wentz, a former Smith company employe, testified that the records hauled by truck to Mr. Pitts' farm in May, 1929, were useless. Mr. Klinger testified also that he found the company's books in order.

To combat prosecution testimony that several employes of the Smith company had at various times cashed checks made out to them but for which they did not receive the proceeds, the defense introduced testimony of William Shumate, a former employe of the Merchants Bank & Trust Co. Shumate stated that he had often cashed checks for large amounts made payable to him. This, he said, was to enable the bank to take out bills of large denominations, and have them changed for smaller bills at the Treasury Department.

In one case, the defense introduced Dr. David O. Smith, who identified his signature on a Smith company check for $10,000, and stated that he had cashed the check. It had been issued to him, he said, as a loan on Smith company securities deposited with the firm.

Used Money Himself.

"Did you turn the money over to Mr. Pitts?" he was asked by Mr. Raichle.

"I did not."

"What did you do with the funds from this check?"

"I used them for my own purpose," the witness replied.

In several instances Mr. Hart testified that he had checked exchanges of securities between the Smith firm and its clients, and had found differences in accrued interest amounting exactly to the amounts of checks named in the bill of particulars, and on corresponding dates. In one of these instances, the bill of sale covering the transaction bore the name of "John Doe" as purchaser.

It is generally believed that the trial will not extend beyond next week.

'WILD MAN' CAUGHT IN PRINCE GEORGES

GUARDS FINGERPRINTS

Prince Georges County police last night captured a white man believed to have been the mysterious "wild man" who has been seen at several places in the county. He was caught by a posse headed by former Constable A. C. Thompson, who brought him to the county jail at Upper Marlboro.

The man ran for some distance before he was captured. He did not put up any appreciable fight against capture, police say. He refused to tell police his name or anything about himself.

The man is 5 feet 10 inches in height, weighs about 160 pounds, and has steel gray eyes. He wore khaki thousers, an old blue coat, a blue striped vest and a light slouch hat. The name "Jordan Brown" was written in the sweat band with crayon.

When Deputy Sheriff Henry Morris attempted to take the man's fingerprints, he found himself unable to take prints. U was finally found that he hed secreted a cake of soap in his pocket an dwas soaping his fingers.

Sheriff W. C. Hopkins yesterday made a personal investigation of the man's latest appearance near T. B. He was also reported at Waldorf. He has also shown up at Glenndale, Suitland and near District Heights. He has gone into several stores and talked wildly on biblical subjects. He often buys candy and gives it to children. He told one storekeeper that he had worked with Bill Sunday for twenty years, and had 27 cities to visit that night.

Pending a conference with the county commissioners and the delegation to the State Legislature, the Prince Georges County School Board has refused to promise any community that its school will be included in the building program for 1931-32. Their stand was made plain at a recent meeting when representatives of two towns appeared to ask new school buildings. This conference will be held sometime in January.

Requests for schools which have already been made to the board will neocssitate a bond issue of about $300,000, if all of them are granted. It is doubtful, however, that all of the requested extensions will appear on the building program. With about $1,000,000 now outstanding in school bonds, observers think that as few schools as possible should be erected in the next two years.

Fourteen hundred square feet of land, needed for an extension to the Hyattsville School, was offered to the board for $2,000 by the owner, H. L. Howard. He also wanted an additional $500 for a barn on the property. The school board is willing to buy the land at his price, and offered to allow him to remove the barn, which they will not purchase.

The Parent-Teacher Association of the District Line School told the board that they had an option on 4 acres of land near the school for $500 an acre. This tract will be needed for enlargement of the school. The board agreed to take up the option when the money was available. Henry Lemons, trustee of the Fairy Springs School, asked and received permission to use the school auditorium for a dance.

A request for the deepening of the well at the Suitland School was granted, but the work will have to wait until money for the purpose is available, the board said. Milton West had appeared and cited the need for the deepening. Nicholas Orem, superintendent of schools, was instructed to investigate complaints that unfit school busses were being used between Riverdale and Wildecroft. An extension of the Hyattsville bus line 1,000 yards, to Hyattsville Hill, was denied, on the ground that bus lines were not contracted for for less than 1 mile.

Four members of the Prince Georges County Volunteer Firemen's Association have been appointed to interview the new sheriff, W. C. Hopkins, and try to work out an agreement to prevent friction between county agencies and the firemen. The members are C. Earle Wyvill, William Tierney, H. E. Stansfield and E. A. Davis.

Assistant Forester Walter J. Quick, jr., has drawn up a set of rules to govern the relationship between county policemen and firemen, which was approved by the former sheriff. The county commissioners presented the rules to both the association and the sheriff for their approval.

Editors of school papers throughout Maryland will meet today and tomorrow at Maryland University for the convention of the Maryland Scholastic Press Association. A dinner will be the main feature of today's program. Dr. Raymond Pearson, president of the university, will speak.

Tomorrow, the sessions will begin at 9 o'clock and continue throughout the day. The principal address will be "The Romance of Editing," by Norman W. Baxter, managing editor of The Post.

Tobacco Holidays Set at Petersburg

Market Will Close December 17; To Reopen January 6.

Special to The Washington Post.

Petersburg, Va., Dec. 11.—December 17 has been set for the closing of the Petersburg tobacco market for Christmas holidays, it was announced today. Suspension of sales on bright and dark tobacco for the yuletide originally had been scheduled for December 19, but the Petersburg market is falling in line with other markets in the old belt in moving up the time of closing.

Closing December 17, the local market will be at a standstill insofar as sales are concerned until January 6, when sales business will be resumed.

Receipts were light on the market here today, the total offerings being estimated by warehousemen at 65,000 pounds. While a good percentage of the offerings consisted of tobacco of quality which commanded strong prices, much common leaf was in evidence and sold at low prices. Some lots of quality tobacco sold as high as $50 a hundred pounds, warehousemen stated.

HOMESICK STUDENT SETS SCHOOL AFIRE

Youth in Hagerstown Jail Confesses Act Designed to Win Vacation.

GIRL FAILED TO WRITE

Special to The Washington Post.

Hagerstown, Md., Dec. 11.—H. Richard Clayton, 21-year-old student of the Pennsylvania State Forestry School, near here, is facing a charge of arson because homesickness got the best of him. Remorseful, Clayton sits tonight in a Franklin County Jail cell, after confessing to two members of the Pennsylvania State constabulary, Corpls. Frutchey and Kelley, who investigated the fire which threatened destruction of the school dormitory Monday night.

Until two weeks ago Clayton, a two-year student at the forestry school, was leading his class and was a model student, according to school officials. Suddenly he became morose and one day last week he was missing from the school.

Fiancee's Letters Ceased.

This is Clayton's story, contained in his confession to the police: His fiancee, who resides in Ilion, N. Y., which is also Clayton's home, and who had been writing to him an average of two letters daily since he came to the school September 20, suddenly stopped writing two weeks ago. Letters asking for an explanation were unanswered.

Clayton asked permission of school officials to return to Ilion, but they refused. He then became absent without leave and returned to Ilion. His fiancee's father, who is financing the youth's education, rebuked him for leaving school without leave, and Clayton said he phoned the school and apologized for leaving without leave and was instructed to return, which he did.

Homesickness returned as soon as he arrived at school and he said he became so morose he decided to destroy the dormitory because he believed that he then would be sent home until a new one could be built.

Betrayed by Nervousness.

Monday night he went to a sawmill near the school, got a bottle of kerosene and returned to his quarters, where he undressed and prepared to take a shower. Attired in his bath robe, he went to the boiler room in the basement, threw the kerosene upon the rafters above the furnace and set a match to it. Then he went to the shower, took a bath and returned to his room.

A short time later the fire was discovered and the alarm sounded. He joined fellow students in helping to extinguish the blaze, which was confined to the boiler room.

School authorities were suspicious and so were the two members of the State constabulary. They decided it was an inside job and began to question students. Clayton appeared nervous when they began questioning him, and soon broke down and confessed.

Suspect in Slaying Eludes Police Hunt

Cumberland Gets Word After Man Has Passed Through on Train.

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., Dec. 11.—Cumberland police received notice a little too late today to keep a look-out for William Bishing, 35, of Meyerstown, Pa., suspected as the slayer of William McCracken, 35, superintendent of Miller Run Mine, of Cosgrove & Co., Central City, Pa. He was seen boarding a freight train at Meyersdale. When the police here were notified the train had passed through this city.

McCracken was shot four times. He died at a Johnstown hospital. He was sitting at home about 10 o'clock last night listening to the radio, when a masked man shot seven times through an open window.

Bishing is said to have been angered over an attack on his wife some time ago, and had accused the mine superintendent of being the guilty man. Bishing carried a wound in his left arm, which police say, was self-inflicted in a suicide attempt several weeks ago.

Loudoun Schools' Holiday Is Set

No Change in Dates Can Be Made by Any Institution, Board Rules.

Purcellville, Va., Dec. 11.—At the meeting of the County School Board, held in the superintendent's office, it was ordered that no change in the dates fixed for the Christmas holidays shall be made by any school.

A bill of $736.76, presented by Earl Poston for completion of the Thompson-Selby contract at Lucketts, was ordered paid.

W. T. Smith and Supt. O. L. Emerick were authorized to have radiation installed in the basement of the Lincoln High School Building in their discretion. Ten dollars per month was ordered to be paid Frank B. Williams for hauling children from the Watson neighborhood to Aldie, beginning with January, 1931.

MONTGOMERY IDLE NOW ASK FOR HELP

Savings Gone, They Go to Social Service League to Get "Chance."

COURT CLERK INDUCTED

Montgomery County is beginning to show the pinch of the Nationwide economic condition and the staff of the Montgomery County Social Service League is mobilizing to alleviate the situation, according to Miss Irene Shields, executive secretary of the league, which has headquarters in Rockville.

The league had not felt untoward effects until about the beginning of this month, Miss Shields said, but in the last few weeks applications for aid have been pouring into the office. The surprising thing is that the applicants are not asking for material aid but for jobs—any chance to earn their own way, Miss Shields said.

Miss Shields has asked that any person in the county who has an opening, or hears of an opening which would provide a job for these applicants, communicate with the league at once, that proper measures can be taken. Most of the applicants so far have been laborers and skilled carpenters, Miss Shields said. The women who have applied are mostly houseworkers.

Material aid will be given persons who require it, but the league is anxious to provide employment instead of mere charity, believing this is more helpful than the carting of groceries and coal to the home.

The sudden increase calls for aid is believed to be caused by the disappearance of the savings of workers who have refused to ask aid until they exhausted their every effort. In other cases, the unemployed persons have been aided by relatives who no longer can afford to carry the added burden.

"We sincerely urge that county residents who have any work planned for the near future, and are able to have it done at the present time, do so as their contribution to the general welfare," Miss Shields said. "No better demonstration of the Christmas spirit can be had than to provide the mean of maintaining a man's self respect through an opportunity to earn his own bread."

Preston B. Ray, who was reelected clerk of the Circuit Court at Rockville in the last election, was given the oath of office yesterday by Judge Robert B. Peter. Mr. Ray then administered the oath to his deputies and assistants, all of whom he reappointed.

The deputies are: Clayton T. Watkins, chief deputy; Miss Margaret Scherrer and J. William Wiley. The assistants are: Miss Helen Kirkland, Mrs. Mary E. Ward, Miss Elizabeth Virts, Mr. Edna Pumphrey, Mr. Ella Dayhoff, Miss Noami Bogley, Mrs. Louise Bogley, Mrs. Edna King and Robert Hughes.

Mr. Ray was appointed cyerk of the court in 1914 to fill the unexpired term of the late John L. Brunett, and in the following year was elected to succeed himself. He again was reelected in 1921, in 1926 and in 1930. He has served 16 years as clerk of the Circuit Court, in which time even his political foes have admitted their admiration for his character and his ability. He is probably one of the most popular officials in the county.

Philip Norman Peter, 36 years old, a chemist in the Department of Agriculture, died in his sleep yesterday at his home in Kensington, Md. His death was discovered when his parent tried to awaken him to go to work.

Mr. Peter was the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Peter, of Kensington, with whom he lived. He was unmarried. He was as secbnd cousin of Judge Robert B. Peter, of Rockville.

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the colonial funeral home of W. Reuben Pumphrey, Rockville. Burial will be in Rockville Union Cemetery. Funeral and burial will be private.

Business and professional men of Kensington met last night to organize a Kensington Chamber of Commerce at the home of Harry Martin, real estate dealer. The committee in charge included R. H. Chappell, R. F. Green, Alfred Ray, William A. Wagner, C. F. Chisholm, W. I. Cleveland and Mr. Martin.

Three men were arrested and two were taken to the hospital yesterday as the result of a fist fight at the entrance to the White Fig Barbecue, Georgia avenue, north of the District line.

Those arrested were Chester H. Keller and Louis Keller of Aspen street northwest near Third street, and George M. Johnson, of Celesville. The men taken to the hospital gave their names as James B. Allerten, 25 years old, Fourth street northwest near Oglethorpe street, and Clyde Rickman, 30, an orderly at Walter Reed Hospital.

The latter two were knocked down and beaten in a fight after an argument over precedence in entering the lunchroom grounds, police say. They were not seriously injured. The prisoners were charged with disorderly conduct and posted a collateral of $27.50.

County Policemen D. L. Snyder, Wondsor Poole and Robert Howes responded to the call for police.

Kensington has started a campaign for a high school in or near its limits to care for the rapidly growing group of communities along the road which leads from Wheaton to Garrett Park. A committee conferred with the board of education on the subject and the board agreed to study the problem.

The committee includes John Lewis, Kensington, speaking for Chevy Chase View; the Rev. Fred A. Kullmar, pastor of the Kensington Presbyterian Church; John L. Lewis, Kensington; Alfred Ray, Kensington; H. P. Hartshorn, representing the Kensington town council; George Stang, Kensington; Harry Martin, Kensington, representing Wheaton and Glenmont, and a group of women, headed by Mrs. Lewis Merriam, Kensington.

The committee told of the rapid growth in population in the towns of Glenmont, Wheaton, Capitol View, Chevy Chase View and Kensington and declared Kensington to be the center of population in that area. The children in this area now must go to Bethesda-Chevy Chase High School, to Takoma-Silver Spring High School, or to Rockville High School, all of which are especially hard to reach from Kensington.

Danville Man Said to Admit Beating Farm Boy, Later Found Dead.

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., Dec. 11.—George Muse, 25, who obtained work in the Schoolfield mills Monday, was held in jail today charged with murder last Saturday of Claude Allen, Pittsylvania farm boy who was found dead in some woods near Cascade by Ely Allen, his father, yesterday.

James Muse, 16, also is detained. George Muse made a voluntary statement in his cell this morning admitting that he had beaten Allen on the head with an ax handle when he found him attempting to force liquor down the throat of James Muse, his younger brother, after threatening to tie him to a tree.

Muse said, however, that he did not know he had killed Allen. Muse will be given a preliminary hearing tomorrow.

Charlottesville Resident Is Accused of Killing Her Husband.

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., Dec. 11.—S. D. Timberlake, jr., of Staunton, Va., has been retained to assist Allen, Walsh & Waddell, local law firm, in defending Mrs. Essie C. Smith, charged with the shooting to death of her husband, John Alexander Smith, in this city, on the night of November 7. This announcement was received here with much surprise, since it had been freely rumored that Mr. Timberlake would be employed by the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen to aid in the prosecution.

Although one month has elapsed since the tragedy, mystery yet shrouds the cause of the killing of the 40-year-old fireman whose body was punctured in nearly a dozen places by bullets from two revolvers in the hands of Mrs. Smith.

CURRENT EVENTS IN VIRGINIA AND MARYLAND

MRS. DODD GRANTED DIVORCE IN VIRGINIA

Both Parents Given Voice in Rearing of Daughter, 7 Years Old.

ALIMONY NOT SETTLED

Mrs. Catherine Filen Dodd, Washington society woman and heiress, has been granted a limited divorce from her husband, Alvin Dodd, assistant to Gen. R. E. Wood, president of Sears, Roebuck Co., of Chicago, on charges of desertion.

The decree, signed by Judge Walter T. McCarthy, of the Fairfax County Circuit Court, was entered yesterday on the records, following filing of the suit on October 18. A master commissioner of the court, John M. Whalen, of Fairfax, held a hearing there last Friday in which Mr. Dodd appeared and failed to contest the charges.

In her petition for the limited divorce, Mrs. Dodd had sought the separation "to be enlarged into a permanent divorce" at the end of the Virginia statutory period, which permits her to file this latter action in two years.

Made Property Agreement.

Mrs. Dodd, the daughter of A. Lincoln Filene, wealthy Boston merchant, said in her petition that she and her husband had made an agreement on property rights, including extensive holdings in addition to their home on Q street near Thirty-third street northwest.

Although she asked custody of their 7-year-old daughter, Joan, the court ordered both parents an equal voice in the control, custody and rearing of the child, providing that during the school year of approximately nine months, the child shall remain with Mrs. Dodd. This was made subject to the right of Mr. Dodd to see the child whenever he desires, and to have her on short visits, such as holidays. It specified Thanksgiving, Christmas and Easter.

He was granted the child during summer vacations, provided he gives her constant personal care. He was ordered to pay $1,500 yearly for support of the child if he is unemployed, and from $1,800 to $2,100 annually, depending on his income. Although she asked that Mr. Dood pay temporary alimony, the court was silent on the request. The court ordered that she lose her dowry rights and that Mr. Dodd lose his right in her estate upon her death.

Established Virginia Residence.

Mrs. Dodd filed the suit after having established one year's residence on Wolf Trap Farm, Vienna, Va., which she purchased. Her father is chairman of the board of William Filene Sons Co., of Boston. He is a prominent clubman and is president of the National Retail Research Association. Her uncle, Edward A. Filene, is a former vice president of the international congress of the Chamber of Commerce, and was chairman of the finance committee of the League to Enforce Peace. He has ben decorated by several foreign governments for his work for world peace.

Mr. Dodd was formerly manager of the domestic distribution bureau of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. Two years ago he assumed his present position with Sears, Roebuck & Co. His address is given as the Lake Shore Athletic Club in Chicago.

The couple were married on December 10, 1921.

AVERAGE VIRGINIAN'S SPENDING CASH $400

Results of Inquiry Into People's Buying Power Is Given in Report.

FARMS PRODUCE MOST

Richmond, Va., Dec. 11 (A.P.).—The average spendable money income of the citizen of Virginia is $400 a year, exhaustive study of the buying power of the people of the United States reveals. Report of the study, just completed by the magazine sales management, was released today through the Virginia State Chamber of Commerce.

The figures given were compiled on a basis of the 1930 census, which credited Virginia with 2,418,075 inhabitants, and the 1929 compilations of figures on numbers of industrial workers and workers on farms, on incomes and other figures that were the closest available for comparison.

7,677 Above $5,000.

The compilation showed 61,125 Virginians had incomes of from $1,000 to $5,000, and that there were 7,677 incomes of more than $5,000, or 66,802 having incomes of more than $1,000. It credited industry with producing $8,170,000 of all spendable money income and agriculture with $150,183,000.

Virginia was credited with having in use 262,541 automobiles that cost less than $1,000 and 66,463 which cost more. The figures were worked out by counties, showing a range of spendable money income per capita of from $781 in Newport News and Warwick County to $128 in Rockbridge County.

Richmond and Henrico County, with 2,436 incomes above $5,000, had the largest total in this classification in the State. The other communities having over 1,000 incomes above $5,000 were Norfolk and Portsmouth and Norfolk County, grouped together, with 1,292.

Listed by Groups.

The all-spendable money incomes listed for some of the Virginia cities and the counties with which they were grouped in the classification follow: Warwick and Newport News, $781; Roanoke and Roanoke County, $526; Norfolk-Portsmouth and Norfolk County, $731; Lynchburg and Campbell County, $618; Petersburg and Dinwiddie County, $607; Richmond, $757.

Counties listed as having spendable money incomes of over $500 per capita, with the exception of those mentioned, included, Albemarle, $640; Alleghany, $596; Arlington, $638; Northampton, $643.

The compilations were carefully studied by the research department of the Virginia State Chamber of Commerce, to arrive at a conclusion as to their value.

839 ARE ENROLLED IN RED CROSS DRIVE

Indications Are Fairfax May Fall Short of Goal of 2,500 Members.

NEW BRANCH IS FORMED

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 245, Fairfax, Va.
Phone Clarendon 2324-W-2.

A partial report of the Fairfax County Red Cross drive that has just been completed indicates that the county will exceed its quota of 1,000 members but will fall short of the goal of 2,500 members set by the Fairfax County drought relief committee, according to the members of the County Red Cross executive committee, which met in Fairfax.

The various community leaders reported 839 members to date with reports from the leaders of the Annandale, Centreville, McLean, Merrifield and Seminary communities still out and only partial reports from Vienna and Mount Vernon districts. The executive committee urged the drive captains to make their reports immediately by sending the money and membership cards to the treasurer, Mrs. E. D. Vosbury, at Merrifield.

Lieut. Col. Stephen R. Wood, chaplain of Fort Humphreys, reported that on December 1, this year, a distinct branch of the county Red Cross had been organized at the military reservation. Heretofore the territory of the fort has been included under the county chapter without separate organization or officers. The officers of the Fort Humphreys branch include Col. Edward H. Schultz, commanding officer, branch chairman; Col. Henry F. Pipes, vice chairman, and Lieut. Col. Stephen R. Wood, secretary treasurer and chairman of the executive committee. The other members of the executive committee include First Lieut. Beverly S. Snow and First Lieut. Wilson B. Higgins.

Col. Wood reported that the Fort Humphreys branch is pledging $50 toward the next quota of the county chapter toward the support of the county health nurse and made a payment of $30 toward the pledge at the meeting. Fairfax branch also pledged $50 for this purpose. The other branches will make their pledge at the January meeting.

The report of the treasurer for the period beginning July 1, 1930, showed receipts in the health fund of $667.12 with disbursements for salary of the Red Cross nurse in the county amounting to $416.65, leaving a balance of $260.47. The Mount Vernon district local account has a balance of $1 and $28.67 remains in the general county fund.

The statement of pledges for the 1930-31 $1,000 pledge for support of the county nurse shows the following pledges paid in full: Mount Vernon district, $100; Falls Church district, $105; Centerville district, $15; Vienna, $50; Fairfax, $150; town of Falls Church, $100. In Lee district $68.50 has been paid on a pledge of $118, with $49.50 still due; Herndon owes $100; McLean has paid $50 on a $100 pledge, and $100 is still due from the county tuberculosis unit.

The executive committee decided to postpone any appeals to the national chapter for specific assistance in Fairfax County until after the State and county relief bodies had acted. The members reported the number of calls on the county chapter for assistance had been rapidly increasing. It was advised that all calls for help be first referred to the county nurse for investigation so that the funds may be spent wisely.

The members of the Fairfax County Farmers' Advisory Council are mailing an appeal to the leading farmers in each community which reads as follows:

"We are asking you to help your farmer neighbors by impressing them with the necessity of coming to Fairfax and see what their new tax assessment has been placed at. Our farmers are suffering under a fearful handicap and any additional taxes may ruin some of them. We know that some people are not paying enough taxes, so compare your assessment with your neighbor's and see if you have been treated alike. If you are dissatisfied, you must appear before the board of equalization at Fairfax on the dates given below and make a complaint. Don't blame or fuss with the board. It had nothing to do with the assessment. That was done by the three appraisers during the past summer.

"Centreville taxpayers only have one day to protest and that is December 16. After that you can't do a thing. Lee district only December 17. Danesville being so large, has three days, December 18, 19 and 20. Falls Church district, December 12 and 23; Mount Vernon district, December 26 and 27, and Providence district, December 29, 30 and 31.

"If you do not appear on the above days the board has a right to feel that you are satisfied with the assessment, and you have no further recourse."

The Guild of the St. Paul's Episcopal Church at Baileys Cross Roads held a call meeting yesterday at the home of Mrs. C. W. Oliver. The guild of the church donated the money for this improvement, and is planning to improve the interior of the chapel as well.

PERRIE E. WATERS DIES AT HIS HOME

Register of Wills for Montgomery Will Be Buried Tomorrow.

TO REST IN MARYLAND

Funeral services for Perrie E. Waters, Montgomery County register of wills, who died when at work yesterday, will be held at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning at the Colonial Funeral Home of W. Reuben Pumphrey, Rockville. Burial will be at Neelsville, Md., in the cemetery of the Neelsville Presbyterian Church, near Germantown. The Rev. Henry K. Pasma, pastor of the Rickville Presbyterian Church, and the Rev. Franklin Tyler, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church of Rockville, will officiate.

Mr. Waters' death came as a distinct shock to his many associates and friends in the courthouse and county. He had been in ill health for several years, but apparently was improving.

He chatted with Clayton K. Watkins, deputy clerk of the circuit court, and then went to his desk and took some medicine, as was his custom since his return from the Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore, several weeks ago. Several minutes later, Mrs. Lydia F. Prettyman and Miss Ella Plummer, deputies in his office, heard him gasp and fall. They called Mr. Watkins, whose office adjoins.

Unable to Recognize Son.

Richard L. Waters, a son, arrived before his father died, but said his father had not recognized him. The cause of death was given as heart failure.

Mr. Waters, who was a native of Germantown, the son of the late Horace Waters, of that town, had moved to Rockville since he entered public office. He was 63 years old. He was proprietor of the largest mercantile store in the county for twenty years prior to the time he received an appointment as supervisor of assessments. In 1923 he was appointed register of wills, to fill the vacancy left by the death of Henry C. Allnutt. He was reelected in 1924, in 1926 and this year.

He was well known and generally liked, especially in the upper end of the county. One of his chief qualities was a firm refusal to say anything derogatory about anybody, friend or foe. He was prominent in the Masonic Fraternity, being a member of Pentalpha Lodge, Gaithersburg; Montgomery County Commandery, Rockville, and of Boumi Temple of the Mystic Shrine, Baltimore. Members of the Masonic Lodge will act as pallbearers. The funeral which will be conducted under Masonic auspices.

Married Twice.

Mr. Waters is survived by his widow, the former Miss Bessie G. Stone, of Potomac, whom he married in 1924, his first wife having died in 1916; six children, Harold G. Waters, Atlanta, Richard L. Waters, Rockville; Clinton C. Waters, Baltimore; Mrs. C. D. Griffith, Rockville; Mrs. Thomas Butler, Baltimore, and Mrs. Beverly A. Davis, Rocky Mount, Va.; four brothers, Bowie F. Waters, Rockville attorney; William A. Waters, Julian B. Waters and Eugene H. Waters, all of Germantown. He also leaves a half brother, H. D. Waters, and a half sister, Mrs. Nettie Etchison.

Mr. Waters was the fourth county official to die suddenly in the courthouse. Police Judge Samuel Riggs died there in the summer of 1929. State's Attorney Alexander Kilgour and George Peter, father of Judge Robert B. Peter, died at their work in the courthouse. Judge Edward C. Peter, son of George Peter and brother of Judge Robert Peter, died suddenly in Vinson's drug store, across the street, after leaving the courthouse building.

the Senate in the spring for consideration.

Swanson fears any attemptt to bring about a special session of the Senate will lead to a meeting of the entire Congress, to which both he and the administration is opposed.

Senator Watson, of Indians, the Republican leader, an opponent of American adherence, predicted the Senate would defeat the protocols. However, other foes contented themselves with the declarations that their force had increased more than heretofore believed.

Of the seventeen who voted against adherence five years ago, only eleven are now in the Senate.

POULTRY RAISERS OF VIRGINIA MEET

Federation Opens Annual Session at Orange; Loucks on Program.

WILL CONTINUE TODAY

Special to The Washington Post.

Orange, Va., Dec. 11.—Many poultry raisers from throughout the State are in Orange for the annual meeting of the State Poultry Federation today and tomorrow, at the Orange County Fair Grounds. At opening session this morning Dr. F. B. Perry, mayor of Orange, welcomed the visitors. M. C. Ellpatrick, executive secretary of the federation, was the first speaker on the program. He made an excellent address on ways and means of increasing poultry profits.

Nelson A. Loucks, of the division of markets, talked on Federal and State egg grading plants in Virginia.

A general discussion by representative Virginia poultry producers followed on the question "How can the Virginia State Poultry Federation best serve the Virginia poultry producers?" At noon there was a meeting of the Virginia Baby Chick Association at the James Madison Hotel.

At the afternoon session the principal speakers were K. N. Ellis, of the Petersburg Produce Exchange, who discussed the poultry feed situation, and Dr. E. P. Johnson, of the Virginia Experiment Station, who spoke on plans for prevention of poultry diseases.

A musical program arranged through the courtesy of the Orange County Chamber of Commerce, was given at the evening session in the Orange High School auditorium. Short addresses were made by J. H. Meek, director of the Virginia division of markets; John R. Hutcheson, director of the division of agricultural extension, and Reese V. Hicks, managing director of the International Baby Chick Association.

utilities commission, and Gen. Mason M. Patrick, commission chairman, said that he felt sure the commission could hold the necessary public hearing within twenty days after enactment of the measure. It was agreed to submit an amendment to the committee very soon.

Quick Action to Be Sought.

Senator Capper and other committee members said that the committee would act quickly on the amended measure, but an amendment will send the bill back to the House for action again.

John J. Noonan, wealthy retired business man, who has sponsored the 2-cent fare bill, held out for that fare to be fixed by Congress rather than to leave the matter to determination by the utilities commission. He pleaded that action be taken immediately to relieve school children in the District who are now dependent on charity and many of whom often go to school without breakfast.

Evan H. Tucker, president of the Northeast Citizens Association, asked for immediate action; John P. Smith, and Mrs. Frost Mills, of the Business High School Parent-Teachers Association, and H. Lee Smith, of the McKinley High School Parent-Teachers Association, asked that the age limit be increased from 16 to 18 years, saying that 18 was the usual age of pupils finishing high school.

LOVE LETTERS READ AT TRIAL OF MAJOR

and listened to the reading of ardent missives which he had sent her along with a shower of gifts.

It was a story of an affair that began more than seven months before Mrs. Shepard's death and continued afterward with an engagement and plans for a honeymoon until Government agents stepped in with the arrest of Shepard at Denver last March.

Shepard sat through the session watching the witness intently, taking notes on her testimony, drawing caricatures and consulting frequently with his attorneys. Several times he laughed at phrases of his letters to Miss Brandon as they were read to the jury—passages which brought tears to the eyes of the girl.

Miss Brandon will resume the witness stand again tomorrow for examination by defense attorneys and redirect questioning which is expected to consume most of the day.

After she was dismissed late today, Curtis McCoskey, of Los Angeles, a brother of Mrs. Shepard, identified a mesh bag given to Miss Brandon by Shepard as one of McCloskey's Christmas gifts to Mrs. Shepard in 1927.

Mrs. Theodore McCoskey, sister-in-law of Mrs. Shepard, said one necklace Shepard gave Miss Brandon had belonged to Mrs. Shepard.

Further intimate details of the romance were contained in letters to Shepard from Miss Brandon, a stenographer at Brooks Field, San Antonio, not yet in evidence in the case. These letters were made public by defense attorneys.

The girl herself testified that she met the major about November 1, 1928, when he was taking a course in flight surgery at Brooks Field. She said she knew he was married and that Maj. Shepard had asked whether she would marry him if he got a divorce.

No Engagement, She Says.

She added, however, that there was no engagement and "no real understanding" when he left San Antonio in December, approximately six months before the death of Mrs. Shepard at Fort Riley, June 15, 1929.

The major, she said, had mentioned an "unhappy home life" a number of times and had said he had not been getting along with his wife for five years, but that they had been keeping up congenial appearances at social functions because of his rank in the Army.

In June, 1929, she testified, the major wrote from Fort Riley that he was "depressed and brokenhearted over failure of his wife to divorce him and that life was not worth while."

Ten days before her death, the girl said, the major wrote that his wife was "drinking herself to death and he was sure she would not recover."

RUM AGENTS SEIZE FOUR MEN IN RAIDS

100 Gallons of Maryland Liquor Confiscated in Yule Campaign.

ELABORATE STILL TAKEN

Federal dry agents, pushing their relentless drive to clean up southern Maryland in the hope of curbing the flow of bootled Christmas cheer into the Capital, staged five reported forays during the last two days to seize four men, an inconsequential 100 gallons of liquor and approximately 11,100 gallons of mash.

They nabbed two brothers, Frank and Edward Wrzinski, no address given, near Fort George G. Meade on charges of operating two stills, one of 250-gallon capacity and another of 150-gallon capacity. The confiscation of 100 gallons of liquor and 4,500 gallons of mash there also was reported.

Joe Mattey, of Greensburg, Pa., was arrested near St. James in St. Mary's County on charges of operating a 150-gallon capacity still, with 500 gallons of mash also confiscated.

St. Mary's County also was the scene of two other raids. Near St. James the Federal agents seized a 500-gallon capacity still and 1,500 gallons of mash. Near Valley Lee they captured a 300-gallon capacity still with 3,000 gallons of mash. This equipment was said to be one of the most elaborate found during the present drive.

They also arrested Lawrence Lees at his home at Poplar Hill in Prince Georges County on charges of operating a 300-gallon capacity still. Mash totaling 1,600 gallons was reported taken.

"Conversation is a lost art with many a successful business man. No wonder many a wife becomes discontented when she reflects that her husband is obsessed with business and can not talk of anything else. The remedy for this state of affairs is a inter cruise. Take him away from drudgery. See him expand—develop—under the suasive influence of salt air, ocean sunlight, new environment." Advertisement by a steamship line.

"CHIDSEY, we're going abroad," announced Mrs. Chidsey G. Hubbell, abruptly, as they arrived home from the bridge party at the Waddinghams.

"Abroad?" repeated Chidsey.

"And at once," insisted Mrs. Hubbell. "I think a Mediterranean cruise will be the thing for you. How soon can you be ready?"

"Don't be silly," snapped Chidsey, yawning.

"You're sailing immediately," declared Mrs. Chidsey. "After your conduct at tonight's party it is imperative."

"What did I do?" asked Chidsey, apprehensively, trying to recall if he had any cocktails. "What did I say?"

"That's just it," replied Mrs. Hubbell. "You didn't do anything and you didn't say anything. You haven't in months."

"But I don't * * *"

"We'd better arrange a sailing next week," interrupted Mrs. Hubbell. "I understand the air in Naples is splendid for drawing-room sphinxes."

"For what?" asked Chidsey, quite baffled.

"Drawing-room sphinxes," repeated Mrs. Hubbell. "You're one, you know."

"Don't be like that," said Chidsey.

* * * *

"EVERYBODY has noticed it lately. You sit around and never open your mouth except when somebody brings up the drop in commodity prices or the situation in the crockery industry or something. I guess maybe a stop at Algeria would help some. After that we can go on to Cairo and * * *"

"You don't expect me to babble about night clubs, Rudy Vallee's latest conquest and the technique of backgammon like that silly Winterbottom fellow, do you?"

"I think Freddie Winterbottom is very interesting. He at least helps keep up the conversation. I'll bet he's even bee nto the Orient."

"I can talk as well as the next man," insisted Chidsey, "but I don't see the sense of gabbing away just for the sake of gabbiness."

"The Holy Land and Egypt will change all that," said Mrs. Hubbell, flatly. "Can you be ready by Wednesday?"

"Now lissen: I just can't go to the Holy Land and Egypt," argued Chidsey.

"Well, a West Indies cruise might make you a little better conversationalist," suggested Mrs. Hubbell. "Say Port au Prince, Kingston, Vera Cruz, Nassau and Bermuda. You would expand under the influence of the salt air and ocean sunlight."

* * * *

"CHINA and Japan would be perfect," went on Mrs. Hubbell. "A new port a day keeps the bromides away."

"Think so?" sneered Chidsey.

"That's a sample of your best repartee!" exclaimed Mrs. Hubbell. "Your case is really urgent. I think we'd better sail Tuesday for a ten-week cruise."

"Izzat so?" asked Chidsey.

"Fifteen weeks. In view of that clever remark," snapped Mrs. Hubbell. "We'll do Java, too."

"Says who?" demanded Chidsey.

"That settles it," concluded Mrs. Hubbell. "Your case is worse than I thought. We'll sail Monday * * * and it'll be on a three-month trip around the world!"

"Oh, yeah," said Chidsey.

Mrs. Hubbell made no reply. She was already looking through a steamship line's folder in the full realization that Chidsey's plight as a conversationalist was desperate, even among friends.

And knock off a rhino, too.

Eugene Crawford, representing the Methodist Episcopal Church South, all of Washington, and Dr. Arthur J. Barton, of Wilmington, N. C., chairman of the social service committee of the Southern Baptist Convention.

When these plans are completed, leaders said, they will be laid before an assembly of the full committee of sixteen, the other members of which are: Daniel Poling, New York, head of the World Christian Endeavor movement; Mrs. C. Munns, of Evanston, Ill., of the W. C. T. U.; Dr. Clarence True Wilson, secretary of the Methodist Board of Temperance; Dr. James A. Crain, of Indianapolis, secretary of the Disciples of Christ; Mrs. Elizabeth Tilton, of Boston, representing the Women's National Committee for Law Enforcement; Carlton Sherwood, of New York, representing the Christian Endeavor movement; Mrs. Leigh E. Colvin, of New York, of the W. C. T. U.; Robert Watson, of Boston, representing the International Reform Federation; A. H. Briggs, of San Francisco, superintendent of the California Antisaloon League, and Clinton Howard, of Rochester, chairman of the National United Committee for Law Enforcement.

Stewart said he would have to resign from the board because of a speaking tour in the West, but that his place would be taken by Dr. Edwin C. Dinwiddie, of Washington, head of the Order of Good Templars.

Meanwhile the "National Constitutional Convention for the Solution of the Prohibition Question," came to an agreement upon resolutions proposing Government controlled dispensaries to handle liquor. The plan also would provide for amendment of the Volstead act "to permit the manufacture, transportation, and sale of wines and beers of an alcoholic extent not intoxicating in fact."

Leaders said the resolution was intended as an answer to the demand by prohibitionists that some one plan be offered as an alternative to prohibition before attacks upon its laws were continued. Neither the association against the prohibition amendment nor the Crusaders were represented at the convention.

POWER BODY CHOICE IS SILENT ON BONNER

Nominee for Chairman Will Not Pledge Ouster of Board Secretary.

AIRS VIEWS ON CONTROL

(Associated Press.)

George Otis Smith, of Maine, nominated as chairman of the power commission, explained his views on power regulation yesterday before the Senate interstate commerce committee, but refused to say whether he would discharge the commission's executive secretary, F. E. Bonner, even when told the committee favored this action.

Smith was the first of the five named to the reorganized commission by President Hoover to be called before the committee in its investigation of their fitness.

He was followed by Marcel Garsaud, of Louisiana, but the committee did not finish his examination and will continue tomorrow.

Makes No Pledge.

The climax to Smith's testimony came when Senator Wheeler (Democrat), Montana, told him a "great majority" of the committee was opposed to the retention of Bonner because of his "attitude on permits" to power companies and asked for Smith's views.

"I intend to make no pledge before taking my oath of office—that will be my sole pledge," Smith replied.

No member questioned Wheeler's statement or challenged Smith's reply.

Smith testified he was opposed to Government operation of public utilities, believed regulation of them had been successful and said regulation of intrastate transmission of power should be controlled by the States.

Opposes Finance "Frills."

He said he opposed including in the valuation of power companies any more than the "net investments," without "frills," and opposed including the cost of financing the companies.

Senator Wheeler questioned him about articles he wrote in 1924, favoring exportation of power from Maine, as advocated by the power companies of that State.

He agreed he was on the side of the power companies, but said it was not in order to help them, but because he believed it best for the people of the State.

Garsaud was questioned briefly about a protest from Gov. Long of Louisiana that he was "too friendly" to the power companies. Gov. Long never explained his action, however, and no charges were made, he added.

Concerts Planned By Idle Musicians

Little Symphony Orchestra to Start Winter Series January 11.

The Little Symphony Orchestra, composed of 40 local musicians thrown out of work by recent curtailment of theater orchestras, will inaugurate a series of winter concerts at the Jewish Community Center January 11.

Unable to obtain employment in their chosen profession, the musicians recently organized the symphony orchestra under the direction of Leon Dashoff, formerly of the Imperial Conservatory of Odessa. Rehearsals are in progress.

In announcing the series of concerts Mr. Dashoff said: "This program will be offered to the Washington public with a dignity becoming the Little Symphony Orchestra and the Washington musicians. The unemployed musicians are ready to offer their talents and services to the public, and ask you, the public, to come and hear their organization and to encourage the life of music."

Tickets for the concert may be obtained at the Jewish Community Center or at the American Automobile Association.

Plans for Addition To School Approved

Drawings and specifications for the Anthony J. Bowen Elementary School addition of twelve rooms were approved yesterday afternoon by Maj. H. L. Robb, Assistant Engineer Commissioner, and will be submitted to the District Commissioners for approval today.

The addition is estimated to cost $130,000. The school is at Delaware avenue and M street southwest.

Man Files $25,000 Suit After Auto Accident

John Clay, of 1312 Fairmont street northwest, yesterday filed suit in District Supreme Court against Miss Frances Gray, of Rosecrest, Alexandria, Va., seeking to recover $25,000 damages.

Clay alleges that he was injured October 4 last by an automobile operated by the woman. The accident is said to have occurred on Fourteenth street northwest near N street at a safety zone.

EINSTEIN BEARS WITH COURAGE WELCOME THAT AGONIZES HIM

keen as their own. Time after time they laughed aloud with him, yet a moment later his grave, round, brown eyes seemed to be gazing far past the packed circle of auditors, as if seeking escape.

In messages intended for a wider audience he dropped the jesting pose, talking over the radio about suppression of militarism, and hitting unemployment in a statement prepared for the press. He told the United States:

"You can entirely destroy militarism whenever you set your hand to it."

Seldom has a distinguished visitor faced such a varied array of publicity as broke over Einstein soon after his ship, the Belgenland, anchored in the harbor this morning, at the end of the first lap of a passage on which Einstein originally intended to be incognito. He was going to California, wishing to avoid all publicity, just to rest—and think mathematics.

In a gray dawn, a revenue cutter and tugs took newsmen and women, cameramen, sound-picture men and representatives of Nation-wide broadcasting chains down the bay. Into the Belengland they climbed and parked on an upper deck in a salon at the end of a long corridor.

Down the corridor near the opposite end was Einstein in his suite. With him were his wife and Dr. Walter Mayer, his scientific aid.

Avoids "Relativity."

It was 20 minutes before Einstein came down the corridor to make his news-radio-picture debut.

In the interview he avoided "relativity." Only three questions about it were asked, and he replied with jests.

Frau Einstein was always at his side, except when she was a little ahead as he lagged. Often his position in a crowd was spotted by the word:

"Here comes Mrs. Einstein."

Modiah, with charming smile and ready answer to questions, she was half the party. More than half, said some of those in the throng who came bearing gifts to which business proposals were attached. The gifts were offers of emolument, which would go to Mrs. Einstein for Jewish charities.

There was, for example, the National Broadcasting man's idea. After Mr. Einstein had done so well over the radio as the boat docked he went to Mrs. Einstein with a suggestion that Dr. Einstein talk again Sunday night.

Wife Guards His Time.

"No, no," replied Mrs. Einstein, "that would not do at all. He can not go out nights."

The Belgenland docked about 10 o'clock, but it was long after noon before Einstein had seen all the pressing special callers. Among them were his first private interviewers, representatives of the Jewish Telegraphic Agency. To them he talked wholly about Zionism.

"There is something indefinable," he said, "which holds the Jews together. Race does not make much solidarity. Here in America you have many races and yet you have the solidarity.

"Race is not the cause of the Jews' solidarity, nor is it their religion. It is something else—which is indefinable."

Physically, Dr. Einstein seemed to endure the greeting well. As 1 o'clock in the afternoon approached and callers kept sending in cards, he remarked:

"Don't we have to eat?"

He dined soon afterward with his family party aboard the Belgenland, where he expected to spend the night. In the afternoon he and Frau Einstein came ashore briefly to call on Mrs. Paul Schwarz, wife of the German consul. Tomorrow he will go ashore to attend a luncheon given by Adolf S. Ochs, publisher of the New York Times.

PARCEL POST RATE INCREASE IS URGED

Tilton Says Department Is Helpless in Face of Heavy Deficit.

BACKS 5 PER CENT BOOST

(Associated Press.)

Citing a parcel post deficit of $15,570,730 last year, Assistant Postmaster General Tilton yesterday urged adoption of the 5 per cent increase in parcel post rates, proposed by Postmaster General Brown to the Interstate Commerce Commission.

He issued a statement saying the Postoffice Department was helpless to deal with the deficit.

Major expenditures of the postal service, he said, are almost entirely beyond control of the Postoffice Department, the basis of expenditures being fixed by Congress, and salaries by law.

Tilton held an Interstate Commerce Commission order of July 10, 1928, granting increased compensation to railroads for transporting mail, responsible for a $8,500,000 per annum increase in cost of handling parcel post.

He said salary increases and postal reductions by acts of Congress added $13,000,000 to the loss.

Intensive studies in economies, he commented, had shown that "even the most drastic measures in that direction" could not overcome a major portion of the loss.

The theory of eliminating the deficit by increasing volume of business is untenable, he argued, since "it would probably necessitate an increase of 60 to 75 per cent in the volume to overcome the $15,570,000," and would be "in direct competition with other media of transportation operated for profit."

"Any new schedule of parcel post rates," Tilton said, "should be in the form of a scientific readjustment, based upon actual cost of the service, with due consideration for what the traffic will bear."

Express Firm Accused In $25,000 Damage Suit

Suit for $25,000 damages was brought yesterday in District Supreme Court by Joseph Canter, of 1815 Bay street southeast, against the Railway Express Agency, Inc.

Canter alleges that he tripped over a plank that was extending from an express truck to the sidewalk several months ago. He alleges that he suffered permanent injuries.

Reform Federation To Hold Session Today

The International Reform Federation will open a day of activities with a memorial breakfast, in honor of members who have died, at 20¢ Pennsylvania avenue southeast today. Various meetings will be held during the day, with every section of the country represented.

The evening program will start at 6:30 o'clock tonight with a dinner at the "Ugly Duckling." Dr. Robert Watson, of Boston, president of the federation, will act as toastmaster. The principal speakers of the evening will be the Rev. Clifford Twombly, of Lancaster, Pa., whose subject is "Movie Menace Still Grows," and Clinton N. Howard, of Rochester, N. Y., who chooses as his subject "The Walling Wall of the Wets."

Commission Reports Bad Bus Ventilation

The Public Utilities Commission yesterday sent copies of a report by the District Health Department, on improper ventilation on busses operating within the District to the operating companies, and asked them to make the necessary adjustments.

The health department, which made the investigation at the direction of the commission, found that in one bus there was 16 per cent carbon monoxide in the atmosphere, and in another 20 per cent. A request from the Congress Heights-Cleveland Park Citizens Association that the commission order the traction companies to remove the safety zone buttons on Wisconsin and Connecticut avenues was refused.

AMERICANS TO PAY GERMANY'S DEBTS?

Senator Copeland visited Germany last year and was so impressed with the struggles of that unfortunate land that he has initiated what appears to be a campaign to have Germany's tax burdens transferred to the United States. He presented to Congress, in the form of a magazine article, a detailed argument for cancellation of war debts owed to this country. What the senator fears is that "in our insistence upon the payment of reparations we are choking ourselves to death." To avoid that contingency he would, apparently, have this country throttled with taxation to pay debts that are owed by Europe.

The chief fact of which Senator Copeland complained is that Germany is called upon to pay $480,000,000 per year in reparations. Last year the United States paid $673,000,000 on the principal and more than $650,000,000 in interest on its war debts, making a total of $1,325,000,000. During the last ten years the public debt has been reduced at the rate of nearly $1,000,000,000 annually. At the beginning of that period American taxpayers were supplying another $1,000,000,000 per year for interest. Germany's burden is dwarfed into insignificance by the burden that rests upon American taxpayers. In spite of hard times, the United States this year will devote more than twice the amount of Germany's reparations payments to liquidation of the public debt.

Germany's obligations to the allied nations can not be wiped out without jeopardizing the debt-funding agreements of those countries with the United States. As pointed out by Senator Reed, if Germany's reparations are forgiven taxes upon the European allies will be increased. "The next inevitable agitation," he said, "would be for a further cancellation of the debts which those allies owe to us, and, in the last analysis, we would find the American taxpayer bearing the burden that belongs upon the shoulders of the German taxpayers."

The United States has gone far enough in relieving European nations of the cost of the war. Debts of the allied nations were trimmed to a fraction of their original size. Europe has been given 62 years to pay at low rates of interest. This Government's liberality to Europe has already laid heavy burdens upon American taxpayers.

Instead of talking about cancellation of foreign debts Congress ought to be thinking about adjustment of the sinking fund schedule, so that American taxpayers will not be called upon to pay that portion of the public debt which is owed by foreign governments.

UNSTABLE GOVERNMENTS.

For more than a week France has been floundering without an administration. Three different political leaders have attempted to form a government and failed. A fourth, Theodore Stegg, radical Socialist, is engaged in conferences with the warring factions in an effort to form a cabinet. There seems to be little hope that he will succeed.

France often faces a dilemma of this kind. Its Parliament is split into so many factions that it is difficult to form and maintain a government under any circumstances. But factional strife is unusually keen just now. It is probable that Parliament may have to be dissolved before a new administration can be formed.

Senator Pierre Laval tried for three days to form a cabinet. During that time he interviewed hundreds of senators and deputies, without success. "France needs a government and needs it at the earliest possible moment," he declared. But he was unable to form any sort of workable combination from the hectic political elements that compose the French Parliament. In spite of the urgent need for an executive, France may remain impotent for an indefinite period.

France is the only European country that has escaped suffering and hard times as a result of the world-wide depression. But it is impossible for one country to live in the midst of adversity without feeling its effects. Unemployment is now gaining in France, production is falling off and there is retrenchment in the manner of living. This adds to the bitterness of the controversies between the radical Socialists and the conservative groups.

Every major government in Europe is in a precarious position. Spain's attempt to restore constitutional government is marked by plots, intrigue and threats against the monarchy. The Labor government in England holds on to power only through sufferance of the Liberal party. In Germany the Bruening administration is hard pressed by radicals of every stripe, and it is still uncertain whether or not arbitrary power must be exercised to avoid chaos.

Americans may take comfort in the thought that regardless of the political squabbles that may develop over the depression and methods of relief this country will always have an administration at the helm. Those who would make government immediately responsible to the people have but to look at Europe at the present time to see the logical results of their schemes. America's political system insures a stability that is unknown on the continent. This Government should never entangle itself in the politics of Europe.

ALCOTATE.

Two questions arise with the official announcement of the discovery of a new alcohol denaturant that will make possible the elimination of poisons from industrial alcohol. They are: "Will use of the new denaturant result in decreased conversion of industrial alcohol?" and "Will use of a highly obnoxious but nonpoisonous denaturant result in decreased consumption of alcoholic beverages?" The new substance is the product of the research of Government chemists, who have been searching for upward of three years for a denaturant that would render industrial alcohol unfit for drinking or unsuitable for modification for beverage purposes but which would not impair its commercial value or render it potentially death-dealing. Alcotate, as the substance has been named, has the compounded aroma of chloroform, benzine, overripe eggs, garlic and strong onions. "Apparently alcotate is proof against removal by the most severe bootleg processes," says Dr. Doran, "while if consumed accidentally or purposely it is nonpoisonous and does not have the blinding effect of wood alcohol."

As to whether or not alcotate will result in decreased conversion of industrial alcohol it is necessary to know first how extensively bootleggers are employing industrial alcohol in their trade. Not many months ago the Treasury reported that only a trickle of industrial alcohol was finding its way into bootleg channels. Just the other day it was reported in New York that deaths from alcoholism were on the decrease, and one of the explanations was that the practice of the Government of frequently changing its denaturing formulae had so increased the practical difficulties of "cleaning" industrial alcohol that bootleggers generally had scrapped their purifying plants and were depending upon the output of illicit sugar distilleries for their basic raw material. Actual figures as to the extent of industrial alcohol conversion are not available, but it does not seem improbable that "cleaned" alcohol has become a very minor source of bootleg supply.

The use of alcotate as a denaturant will have little effect on the consumption of illicit liquors. It is not impossible that bootleggers, if they were driven to it, would discover some sort of process for removing alcotate from industrial alcohol, but so long as substitute sources of supply are available they will not go to the trouble or expense. Several times in the past the discovery of a denaturing process or formula that would defy every attempt of the liquor "cleaner" has been announced, but always the bootleg element, through the skillful chemists it has in its employ, has succeeded ultimately in breaking down the formula or process.

Use of a nonpoisonous denaturant, however, may be regarded as a step toward humanitarianism in the enforcement of the prohibition laws. The discovery and use of alcotate should at least stop the perennial squabble between wets and drys as to the wisdom and justice of utilizing poisons for the purpose of rendering industrial alcohol unfit for consumption.

APPROACHES TO WASHINGTON.

A concerted movement has been inaugurated to rid the approaches to Washington of their unsightliness before the George Washington bicentennial celebration takes place. Washington is the most beautiful city in the United States. It is the principal center of attraction for tourists. Yet many of its highways just outside the city are defiled by dumps, hideous billboards, and "hot dog" stands.

Washington ought to set an example in civic pride to the entire country. Commercialized ugliness and civic untidiness have no rightful place in or near the National Capital. At present the principal approaches to Washington are, in this respect, a national disgrace.

Can the Government consistently invite the world to view, during the coming two years, the countryside which George Washington loved and which is so closely connected with his name, without chagrin, in view of the destruction of its natural beauty? It is time for civic bodies to unite and demand a restoration of these highways to their original beauty. The movement deserves the support of every citizen and of every commercial enterprise.

THE FOOTBALL SEASON.

Except for the specially arranged Army-Navy game that will be played in New York tomorrow, and the intersectional holiday games on the Pacific Coast, the 1930 football season has become a memory. It was a successful season from every standpoint. Each Saturday afternoon witnessed at least one thrilling clash, and toward the end of the season football fans had difficulty choosing the game they would attend or follow over the radio. Football this year was of the open, passing variety that makes great appeal to the spectator. Despite the depression, stadiums all over the country were thronged, as a result of which the athletic funds of the various institutions of higher education are well filled.

The steady march of the Notre Dame team through all opposition to the national championship was the high light of the season. Starting with its victory over Southern Methodist, working its way through a schedule that included such stalwart teams as Navy, Carnegie Tech, Pitt, Pennsylvania, Northwestern, Army and Southern California, Knute Rockne's warriors closed their campaign as one of the three undefeated teams and the undisputed "best team" of the country. In the East, Western Maryland was the only unbeaten team, but, on the basis that its schedule was far stiffer than Western Maryland's, Colgate is looked upon as entitled to the mythical sectional championship. It won nine games and lost but one.

The Army-Navy clash and the Alabama-Washington State game, scheduled for the holidays, will give the final fillip to a notable season. But the outcome of these encounters will have no effect upon the national championship. Notre Dame's team was the best Knute Rockne has ever produced. If in no other respect, this season may be counted unique in that every one is agreed that Notre Dame had no peer on the gridiron.

TARIFF SHELTERS ALL

By E. C. STOKES,
Former Governor of New Jersey, in a Letter to the New York Times.

I quote from the Times of November 30 the following by Raymond B. Fosdick: "The recent tariff act was a blow struck by one nation at the economic stability of 60 nations. It was the blind, desperate effort of a great country to hang on to the top of the ladder by kicking at every other country."

The writer apparently fails to state that practically every country of industrial importance is raising its tariff walls against American products—as, for instance: Italy, England, France and Germany against our automobiles; the recent enactments by Canada and the action of other countries favoring the protective policy for their own lands. The protective policy is growing in favor throughout the world. It is intimated that America is the sole champion of this policy, which is contrary to the facts.

The truth is that America is the greatest free trade country on earth, with the exception of England. I quote the figures vouched for by former President Coolidge, which may need some slight revision, but which are still practically true: "The value of our imports for the last fiscal year showed an increase of more than 71 per cent since the present tariff law went into effect." In other words, President Coolidge shows that the tariff is not a bar to purchases by us from foreign countries, that they sell more to us under the protective tariff than otherwise, because we have a greater buying power.

The increased duties allowed by the bill are mostly in favor of agriculture. Duties levied on agricultural raw materials are compensatory duties allowed industries using those materials and account for approximately 68 per cent of the total increase. Agricultural duties will jump from 38.10 per cent to 48.92 per cent on raw materials; compensatory duties on agricultural products made from agricultural raw materials, from 36.15 per cent to 48.87 per cent; but the increase in industrial rates in which the compensatory element does not enter is only from 31.02 per cent to 34.31 per cent. The tariff measure is preeminently an agricultural revision upward.

On the basis of these facts, charges that industry stands to gain millions of dollars from this act at the expense of the public are absurd.

The insignificance of the increase of our tariff rates on our industrial products certainly does not warrant the misleading propaganda and indictment of the last tariff legislation that is now being spread throughout the country.

The competition from other countries has grown keenly since the war. The low wages of 140,000,000 Russians, all conscript labor; the low wages of China and Japan, of Germany and Czechoslovakia, with other illustrations that might be cited, make the dumping of foreign products on our shores inevitable unless we raise a protective barrier.

These foreigners pay no taxes in this country, they do not contribute to our churches, or our charities, or our colleges or universities, or schools, and in case of war they might fight against our flag. Why should they have the privilege of our markets, which they in no sense create, against our own people and to the detriment of the latter? Not all, but a large part of the goods that come in from other countries take work from the American people and reduce the American pay roll.

There is apparently an almost universal demand in this country, whether wise or unwise, to stop immigration; and yet we allow that would-be immigrant to work abroad for beggarly wages, the product of his handicraft being shipped over here, thus preventing the sale of American-made goods and throwing the American workman out of a job.

We forbid the sale of prison-made goods in this country on the ground that it displaces free labor. That policy is universally adopted and is a good one. The same principle applies to the cheap goods that are made by the low-paid labor from other countries.

This free-trade propaganda makes one wonder what has become of our boasted Americanism. Are there no Americans in America to speak for our country and resent the gospel of these internationalists, who seem to have hysterics over American legislation, and who in spirit are foreigners first and Americans last? They are so solicitous for the nations over the seas that one wonders if they are Americans at all.

America has been most generous to the other nations of the world. In the last few years she has sent $13,000,000,000 of capital abroad to help other nations. We helped to fight their battles in the World War. We aided the starving children of Russia and Germany. We were first on the ground with assistance at the time of the Japanese earthquake. Our hand is always extended to aid and help other peoples, and yet if we try to protect our own people, so they can have work and wages, a set of dilettante internationalists howls about the barriers of trade.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

COACH YOST DISCUSSES A GOOD LOSER.

Said the gray old coach to me: "Once
I heard a fellow say,
The good loser is a sham, think about it as you may.
There is not a man on earth who can wear a cheerful grin
When he has to lose a fight that he really wants to win.
That is merely idle talk, every loss is hard to bear,
And I wouldn't give a dime for the chap who doesn't care."

"Nor would I," the coach replied, "but let's have it understood,
Ere the problem we decide, what we mean by losers good;
There is anguish in defeat; it's a heavy cross to bear,
But my loser, though in pain, still remembers to be fair.
Still stands up and takes the blows;
still face front to battle keeps,
Still is generous to his foe; though inside his spirit weeps.

"There's no laughter in defeat; there's no losing with a grin.
My good failure gives his best to the fight he can not win;
Has no poor excuse to make when a better man he meets;
Gives his conqueror a cheer; but comes back from his defeats Still to fight and still to try, and when victory has flown
Quits the field, his head still high and goes home to weep alone.

"My good loser knows the game, with its odds and chances strange;
Knows an inch this way or that may the tide of fortune change,
And he spends his strength to win,
and he gladly pays the cost,
But his soul is wracked with pain
when the victory is lost.
Still he clings to what is best; what is honest; what is clean,
And he quits the field a man—that's

When All Are Invited to Come for Soup, the Failure Brings a Fork.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

THOUGH chance makes some men rich and keeps others poor, as a general rule the man who fails in the midst of opportunity has only his own stupidity to blame.

Some years ago a young man bought a printing business in a town that offered no competition. Peculiar advantage gave assurance of rapid expansion and eventual wealth. One day he was offered a contract to print a little-known periodical. The price offered guaranteed him a profit, and the making of profits was the purpose of his business, but he couldn't resist the temptation to be a censor. Because he disagreed with the politics of the periodical, he declined the contract to print it.

Today he earns a bare living and never has enough cash on hand to discount his bills. Did he fail because of loyalty to his principles? No; he failed because he was stupid. A railroad doesn't accumulate wealth by refusing to haul passengers who disagree with the political views of its president.

During the war an influential citizen employed by the Government received an appeal from a youth who was in trouble and needed a good word from somebody in authority. The influential citizen had offered his services in many similar cases, but this time he refused. The young man's religious faith was one he had been taught to dread and abominate, and to none of that faith would he give a helping hand.

Today he is bankrupt. Did he fail because of his uncharitableness? No; he failed because he was stupid. The mind small enough to value religious prejudice above justice and mercy is not big enough to engineer a great success.

When Spain was in the midst of might and glory, her king drove out the Jews. Thereafter her power waned year by year until the last of her rich colonies was taken from her and her ships almost disappeared from the seas.

Did she fail because of cruelty and injustice to the Chosen People? No; she failed because she was ruled by stupidity. Nations do not become great by exiling their richest men and shrewdest merchants.

In a world where success is the rule rather than the exception for those who are industrious and trustworthy, the prospects of a young man can be estimated with unfailing accuracy by observing whether he is blessed with the quality called common sense.

Genius is rare in the ranks of the conspicuously successful. The one quality they have in common is horse sense—the reverse of stupidity.

The few win because they are brilliant—the many merely because they aren't "dumb."

PRO AND CON

Comment Upon Acts and Actors in the Great Show, "Politics," Staged in Congress.

Government Power at Muscle Shoals.

New York Herald Tribune.

When the House and Senate deadlocked on the Muscle Shoals bill in the last session the House conferees offered a compromise under which the Government would run the fertilizer plants, but would lease the power plant to be privately operated. Senator Norris, devoted to the public sale of power, refused. Now the House has offered to lease the fertilizer plants and let the Government sell the surplus power. The terms of the compromise, however, are such as to make this less a surrender to the advocates of Government sale than might appear upon its face. Perhaps that is why Senator Norris is reported to be still adamant. If the report is correct, it strengthens the impression that the real issue has little to do either with Muscle Shoals or with fertilizer (as the senator says, his own State does not use much fertilizer), but is a battle over putting the Government into the power business.

Inadequate Army and Navy Pay.

New York Herald Tribune.

Both the Secretary of the Navy and the Secretary of War have now added their recommendations to the many which have already been made for an improvement in the pay of Army and Navy officers. The inadequacy of present pay conditions, especially as they apply to junior officers, is so obvious as to need no detailed analysis here. As Secretary Adams says in his annual report, "the increased pay received since 1908 is only 11 per cent over that received in 1908, whereas during the same period of time the cost of living has more than doubled." To give these officers merely a decent financial remuneration is only simple justice to them and enlightened self-interest where the general public is concerned.

People Want Treaty Navy.

Philadelphia Public Ledger.

There will be the usual "fight" in Congress, especially in the Senate, over the new naval construction. But the administration, as a result of the naval treaty, is in a powerful position. Public opinion is overwhelmingly in favor of building up to the schedules negotiated in London. Pressure should be brought to bear upon Congress at the first sign of any disposition to deviate from the "treaty Navy."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

North Carolina Defends Frank R. McNinch and Accuses Tammany Democrats of Malice and Jealousy in Opposing Him.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Those living on the taxpayers of North Carolina and eager for the scalps of the anti-Smith Democrats are on the warpath again. This time they seek to place the grand old State of North Carolina in the background by telling his excellency, the President of the United States, the members of the United States Senate and the readers of the press that Frank R. McNinch, prominent lawyer, civic leader and churchman of the Queen City, is not worthy of appointment to the Federal Power Commission because he (McNinch) refused in 1928 to stand for boose. North Carolina will never receive national recognition so long as political jealousy bubbles out of the breasts of our State leaders.

According to the News and Observer, our governor declared: "I do not know that McNinch possesses any fitness or training for the position." Hundreds of thousands of North Carolinians said the same thing of Gov. Gardner in 1924 and in 1928, but he is holding down his job very satisfactorily. According to the News and Observer, Chief Justice Stacey declared: "I do not see how Mr. McNinch could represent North Carolina on anything." When did the time arrive when the judiciary of North Carolina holding in its right hand the golden scales of justice should ever give birth to a passing thought of politics?

To whose door shall the blame be laid in case North Carolina fails to get political recognition on the Federal Power Commission? No one save a few hot-headed politicians living on the taxpayers of the very State they seek to injure. Is not this a fine spirit when the recognized leaders of a great Commonwealth tell the President of the United States and the members of the United States Senate that a citizen of our State is not worthy and intimate that he is not competent because he refused at a certain time to step around his own conscience and do the thing great in the hearts and minds of the North Carolina backers of Tammany? Not a public official who has criticized Mr. McNinch through the press or otherwise has the ability or the nerve to meet him in public debate on any question. The people of North Carolina know that Mr. McNinch is competent and worthy to fulfill the duties of any office to which the President of the United States can appoint him. They further know that coupled with this ability and worthiness he is a high-toned Christian gentleman. The opposition to Frank R. McNinch is not half so much party loyalty as it is that most dangerous and disgusting old demon known as "political jealousy."

As to the funds handled in the 1928 campaign, if there is to be a report made concerning the source of donations, let us also have a complete report from all State officials, from our distinguished governor down.

Foot Patrolmen Necessary, as Well as Men in Motor Cars.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The Congress Heights Citizens Association has asked the District Commissioners to restore foot patrolmen in the Eleventh Police Precinct in place of "the motorized patrol system." It is stated that many more robberies have occurred since the motor patrol started.

If my memory is right, The Post editorially said, when the motor system was being tried out, that foot patrolman would always be necessary, as they come in closer personal contact with individuals and special conditions, at the same time urging that radio-equipped motor patrol is absolutely essential in modern law enforcement.

I have all along had an idea that the new system would be part motor and part foot patrol, so proportioned as to meet the varying conditions of different localities. Certainly it looks as though that would be a sensible arrangement. The chief merit of the motor patrol, I should think, would be in its long-distance, city-wide efficiency.

Uncle Sam Has No Place in the European Huddle.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In Calvin Coolidge's pithy front-page paragraph, in The Post of December 9, it is pointed out that "by observing developments in Europe we can see certain advantages of stability and security which we enjoy from a fixed tenure of office." Follows this pertinent summary:

"The French premier has been forced from office after serving a few months. The British premier has an uncertain tenure and the German chancellor has just escaped defeat. In those countries the continuation of a party in power may rest on what kind of a speech some one can make in a parliamentary body at 2 o'clock in the morning."

I would like to remark that the idea that the Yankee is cute and hard-hearted is not verified when we join that kind of a huddle on the European gridiron.

KEEP OUT.

Let Congress Throw Repeal Question Into the States and Go Ahead With Country's Business.

To the Editor of The Post-Sir: If Congress but had the gumption to submit the proposal for the repeal of the eighteenth amendment to the States, the prohibition controversy would at once be converted from a question of Federal politics to a question of State politics. A congressman who voted to submit repeal would in no wise be committed to support repeal in the States. By this means the most acute and active factor in the prohibition controversy would be localized and provincialized for a decade or decades to come, and Congress could resume consideration of the normal affairs and proper problems of the Government.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

ABOUT COMMON COLDS.

THIS is the season for interest in the common cold to arouse from its summer sleep and to look about for facts and theories on which to browse. Here are some, gathered from several sources.

Dr. A. Hilding is of the opinion that coryza may result from exposure to inclement weather or from exposure to persons who have colds. So far as he has been able to decide there is no difference between the two diseases, if they are two, and not one due to choice of causes.

The proofs that colds are due to exposure he groups as follows: Some comparative studies of the prevalence of colds were made among 8,000 soldiers. One group of 2,700 were exposed to rain and cold in the trenches; 5,300 were held in barracks. The coryza rate was four times as high among those in the trenches. Four thousand five hundred were overexposed to high, cold winds, while 3,500 were held in barracks. Again the rate among the exposed was four times that among the non-exposed. It is a matter of common observation and belief that getting the feet wet causes one to catch cold.

Some research done by Drs. Grant, Mudd and Goldman showed that chilling the skin lowered the temperature of the breathing tubes in their upper stretches, thus tending to cause colds. Various experiments on lower animals have shown the harmful effects of wetting and chilling. The proof that some colds are the result of infection he also gives.

Nearly every one knows of some person who has caught a cold from contact with some one who is affected. When a mother gets an acute cold her baby is very apt to become infected with it, and, at times, it operates in the other direction. Colds traveling through a family from one child to another, or through a school from one child to another, have been noted frequently. There are a fair number of observations, some recent and some historical, in which some infected individual has landed among an isolated colony whereupon the infection has flashed through the local people like a heat lightning.

And, finally, bacteria have been recovered from people with colds and used to infect laboratory animals. Such experiments have been successful. The result of Dr. Hilding's studies is a conviction that the battling scientists can compose their difficulties and limit themselves to fighting the enemy, for both are right.

BRONCHITIS SYMPTOMS.

J. T. writes: What are the symptoms of bronchitis. Is it accompanied by severe coughing and expectoration? Does smoking in a temperate way hurt?

REPLY.

Chest cough.

Bronchitis means inflammation of the bronchial tubes. The only symptom always present is the cough. There are many kinds of bronchitis, such as acute and chronic, tubercular, whooping cough, asthmatic, bronchilectic. A diagnosis of bronchitis merely starts you on the way to knowing what is the trouble. The cure journey takes up where the diagnosis journey ends.

Jane Interprets the MODE

Gracious and lovely is this black velvet evening gown, with its interestingly draped back decolletage. The insertion is pink tulle, on which are black velvet flowers outlined in strass. (Courtesy of Ardanse, Paris.)

Aboard S. S. Ile de France, Dec. 11.

AS I said the other day to the little lady who wrote in and asked how "we woiking goils" could dress, the first thing is to know yourself, as to the colors and general lines that are becoming to you, and here's the second thing:

Even if you have only one ensemble, see that that is complete in every detail as to color, type of outfit, accessories. See also that it is an ensemble for which you have the most use. For instance, if you are a business woman and for any reason can afford only one outfit, have that be one suitable in every respect to your work. If you are a home body and go out seldom in the daytime, then your one outfit should be a dressier affair, one that is neither too dressy for afternoon shopping, nor too simple for evening dinners, visiting, &c.

And don't buy any single solitary thing else, until this first, say, "basic outfit," is complete.

Then start, perhaps piece by piece, on the second one. And so on. Never consider even for an instant that you have an outfit until it is complete to its smallest detail.

Ardanse has such a flare for the gracious! Her model that I have sketched for you today was just exactly that, being of that most gracious of materials, black velvet—and then having a most flattering decolletage. It just couldn't show itself up in the sketch, but I'm sure that any woman's imagination can picture the effect of the upper part of this lovely gown being of pink tulle, with black velvet roses appliqued on to this tulle and outlined in the kind of dressmaker's diamonds that used to be called "rhinestones" and are now called "strass."

A gift should either be presented by hand, or be charmingly wrapped. There are ever so many reasons for this, not the least of which is that the way you wrap your gifts is an indication of your own good taste.

To save you pondering the matter, then, we have all pondered it for you, and evolve several new and different and delightful ways to decorate the boxes into which the gifts go, and to wrap and seal these boxes afterward. And some of these wrapping and sealing ideas are for any gift at any time, not merely Christmas time. So better send that stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for it before the door bell rings or something and you forget all about it.

It was the most melancholy looking dane—(now I mean canine) who ever decorated the handle of a walking stick for Miladi Athlete.

And lo and behold, it turned out to be even more practical than at first glance by proving to be an umbrella cane—and one that actually looked like an umbrella when it was supposed to be "umbrelling," and a walking stick when it was no longer working at being an umbrella.

Au Revoir.

WORK ON BRIDGE

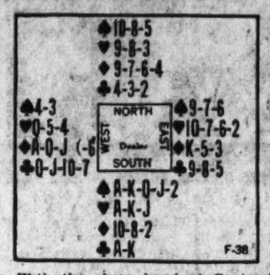
ESTABLISHING A LONG SUIT.



With the above hand at Contract Bridge, South made the artificial bid of two Clubs in order to see whether North would bid two No Trumps to show an Ace and a King. If he did, South would risk a small slam bid as North would have to have the Ace and King of Diamonds. But North has two Diamonds to signify weakness; and South held the contract with a bid of four Spades which showed that his hand demanded a Spade contract and warranted a bid of four even without help from North. In this hand if South had bid four Spades originally, which would have been followed by three passes it would have produced the same result.

Playing Auction Bridge, South would bid one Spade, West two Clubs and after two passes, a second Spade from South would end the auction.

In the play West led the Queen of Clubs. South won the trick and at once realized that he wanted to finesse a Heart and that dummy's Ten of Spades was an entry. South led the Ace and King of trumps, then the Ace of Hearts before trying the finesse to keep a possible singleton Queen from winning; a third trump exhausted the adversaries and put dummy in; after which the Heart finesse was tried and it lost. As the Declarer also lost three Diamonds he did not make his game, but the game was there for a Declarer who was watching every opportunity.

THE CORRECT PLAY.

When South won the first trick, he should have led a diamond. Of course, the adversaries would win and lead a second Club, and then South would lead a second Diamond. A third Club doubtless would be led which South would ruff with an honor and lead a third Diamond. If the Diamonds proved to be evenly divided (the chances are against this, but it will happen in some hands), North would be put in on the third round of trumps to cash his thirteenth Diamond and go game. If the Diamonds proved to be unevenly divided, the Heart finesse still could be tried; but by trying to establish the Diamonds, the Declarer would have two strings to his bow.

GOOD NEWS, BRIDGERS.

We are pleased to announce we can now renew the offer of Milton C. Work's greatest Contract and Auction booklet entitled the PLAYING PROBLEMS. Bridgers who received copies from previous offers are most enthusiastic over it.

PLAYING PROBLEMS presents eighteen hands, the complete auction and contract bidding for each hand with reasons for each bid, the answers to every question and the reason for each answer in complete detail.

PLAYING PROBLEMS which will be of much greater value to the auction and contract player than many high-priced textbooks, is not for sale. It has been prepared exclusively for readers of The Washington Post by special arrangement with Mr. Work. One copy will be mailed to you upon request if you send self-addressed, stamped return envelope, together with 6 cents in stamps to defray part of the cost of printing and handling this 48-page booklet. Requests not complying with these conditions will be ignored. Address Milton C. Work, care Washington Post.

Indoor and Outdoor Gardens

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

DECEMBER AMONG YOUR FLOWERS.

THIS is the time to cover all leaf mulch with boughs or light, narrow boards to keep the winter winds from blowing the leaves away.

All bulbs which were planted in October or November should now be mulched. You can use dead leaves, little or well-rotted manure for this purpose.

Do not forget to keep your cold frames well ventilated. This can easily be done if you remember to raise the sash for a few hours in the middle of the day. On all fair, sunny days you will be safe in opening the frames between 11 a. m. and 2 p. m.

This is supposed by landscape men to be the season when you can transplant large trees. We are told to dig the trees with a large ball of soil about the roots and then to allow the soil to freeze before really moving the tree. If you have a large and valuable tree you want to move to some other place on your grounds, I think it pays to employ a skilled workman to do the work. Any one can transplant a small tree or bush, but in the case of a tree 20 feet tall I do not feel that an amateur had better attempt to do it, as it requires special equipment to do the work successfully.

This is the season of the year when evergreens, especially those planted the last season, are apt to suffer permanent injury from snow. In order to avoid such damage, better go out into your garden and shake the snow from all boxwood or low-growing evergreens. This applies to old as well as newly planted stock.

This is the time to give your poinsettias an application of liquid manure. Such stimulation will result in larger, finer flowers. At this time be sure to sponge the foliage of your house plants with soap solution and top dress the soil in which they are growing with bonemeal. This applies to all varieties except the geranium. The geranium does better without food.

There's Still Time

To plant amaryllis bulbs. Choose the colors you like best—though how you're going to decide among all the lovely ones available is a mystery.

But—first write for the leaflet which Dr. Kift has prepared, since upon the care you take before and during planting depends the beauty of the blossoms. Be sure to inclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope when you write, and address

JANE LESLIE KIFT,
Care of The Washington Post.

All readers' questions on growing and care of indoor and outdoor flowers and floral decorations for social functions will be answered by Miss Kift, directly in this column if addressed in care of The Washington Post, or directly to readers if a self-addressed, stamped envelope is supplied.

Guiding Your Child

By MRS. AGNES LYNE.

Naughty Children.

From now until Christmas children will often hear the threat, "Santa Claus doesn't like naughty boys and girls. He won't leave you anything!"

The older child is told that if he can't behave his father is not going to buy that bicycle he promised him.

The children listen and know quite well that mother is only talking. They know that no matter what she says today, no matter how angry she may be, Christmas morning will surely bring its tree and gifts.

Children are discerning and pre-Christmas threats are taken lightly, serving only to make mother's word lose some of its prestige.

Occasionally, however, a stern parent may actually punish his child and Christmas morning bring no tree nor a single gift.

In the two instances of this which have come to my knowledge the subsequent gloom, the disappointment and resentment which the children felt indicated that it is possible to pay too high a price for disciplinary consistency.

It is wrong in principle either to threaten or bribe children to be good with an eye to Christmas presents. Christmas gifts are rightly given to children as an expression of love and good will.

There are gifts which children do not need to earn and should not be withheld for anything a child is capable of doing.

Indeed, if it were necessary for children to deserve the good things of Christmas, then the whole idea of a festival which is the celebration of love and compassion would be pointless.

Uncle Sam's Home Hints

RICKETS AND SUNLIGHT.

(Children's Bureau, Department of Labor.)

Sunlight is a most important factor in the life of a growing child especially a baby. Although this has been known in a general way for a long time, it has not been given sufficient attention until recent years, during which knowledge of the effect of sunlight on the growth of children has become more specific.

Normal growth of bone is dependent not only on the food that the child eats, but also upon direct sunlight that he receives, for the sunlight provides the body with the power to utilize the food. If a baby is constantly deprived of direct sunlight, his bones will not develop normally, his muscles will be flabby and his skin will be pale. He will probably have rickets.

Rickets Caused by Lack of Sunlight.

Rickets is a disease of growth, affecting the whole body, but most strikingly the bones. In hot climates, where children are outdoors in the sun throughout the year, rickets is little known; in temperate climates where children are indoors a large part of the year, rickets is prevalent. Since rickets is a disease resulting primarily from lack of sunlight it can be prevented or cured by sunlight.

To ward off rickets preventive measures must be begun very early in an infant's life, for rickets makes its appearance in very young infants. These preventive measures are the giving of sun baths and the administering of cod-liver oil, the so-called "bottled sunshine."

What Today Means to You

"SAGITTARIUS."

IF December 12 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11 a. m. to 1 p. m. and from 8 p. m. to 10:30 p. m. The danger periods are from 8 a. m. to 9:30 a. m. and from 3 p. m. to 5 p. m.

An improvement in conditions over the last few days is indicated for this date, although some unexpected disappointments may occur. Do not offend a superior, or ask for favors at this time. Lucky for family affairs.

The children born on this December 12 will have extremely sensitive natures, and will suffer from imaginary hurts. They will have refined and artistic tastes, and will strive for peace and harmony. They will be emotional, and will be ruled by their hearts.

You have a very unusual and in some ways an unfortunate character—you always manage to put your worst foot forward. People never know where they stand with you, as you often sacrifice sincerity for the sake of your own popularity. You are reserved, so much so that others call you secretive and cold. You quickly sense any animosity of people with whom you come in contact, and instead of thawing out, you only present a more frigid exterior.

You are extremely intelligent, and worship at the shrine of intellect, and you do not "suffer fools gladly." Your very warm affections are seldom revealed, even to those who have a right to expect some outward demonstrations. You are not in the least responsive, and seldom enter into the moods of "outsiders." It is easy for you to give sympathy.

If you be a man, you prefer the companionship of other men—women you do not understand. If you be a woman, you also prefer the friendship of the masculine sex, and have more of a man's type mind and attitude toward life. There is very little frivolity about you. You are fitted for creative work, such as art and writing, or some department of finances. You rather scoff at love and romance, but it is not probable that you will live a solo life. You will not be especially fond of children, until you have your own.

Wives of Tomorrow

—FRANCES M'DONALD

Morbid Views.

DEAR FRANCES McDONALD—I am 25 years of age and have been going with a young man of 30, for the past two years. He has always been so nice to me, taking me places and showing me a good time. I've always found him honest, liberal, generous and truthful.

We were engaged to be married in the near future. But mother found it out, now she has come in between us, and trying to break it up, said I must either give him or her up. And I love them both. What must I do? She does not want me to marry. She and dad separated when I was young. Afraid we might do the same. How does she know? Is she giving us a fair trial after letting us go together for the past two years? She didn't object to our going together as friends. Now she won't let me see him. I see him occasionally on the sly. I know he loves me and does not want to give me up.

Please let me have your opinion on this soon. HELEN.

Your mother's attitude is entirely unjustified, despite the fact that it is based upon real concern for your happiness. One of the sad things about the failure of a marriage is its effect upon the woman. To woman the emotional life is transcendent, while to man it is incidental. When it fails, she feels completely defeated. Your mother is that type. But because she submerged herself in a marriage that was a mistake is no indication that you would do the same.

Without doubt such women invite emotion castastrophe. They are so intense that they charge the atmosphere with vibrations too oppressive to be borne by the average temperament. What her morbid absorption in you is doing to your feeling for her as a mother, her absorption in your father did to his feeling for her as a wife.

You must be normal and balanced. You are a woman in your own right and must marry as other women do. Show her gently that she is not acting quite normally on the subject of marriage, and go on with your life. You will find that there will be no question of who gives up whom. She will come around to a wholesome outlook and all will be well.

Jean's Santa Claus

By JULIE ANNE MOORE

SYNOPSIS OF PRECEDING CHAPTERS.

Jean Melba, a small town girl from Kelsey Corners, who sometimes thinks she is in love with Phillip Baldwin, an ardent suitor who promises to appear Christmas morning with a marriage license. Losing her Kelsey stenographic job, Jean looks for work in New York, planning to live with Mollie Wilder, a more sophisticated friend. To her dismay, Jean learns that Mollie has married and left town. The situation is saved by Sandy Clause, a handsome but enigmatical young man who protects her from a masher's advances, and since he has lost her traveling bag in the shuffle, arranges for Jean to spend that night at the apartment of Marcia White, whose quasi-hospitality does not blind Jean to the fact that her abode is no haven of safety. Sandy leaves but Jean's fears are indorsed by the appearance of two sinister men, Slim Digrers, and Fargeson, alias Sampson. Jean flees the apartment and observes Sandy returning. The next day he gets her a job with the I. P. P., and learns that Fargeson was murdered the night before in Marcia's apartment. Sandy tells Jean he did not return—although she knows she saw him—and he later tells her he did come back—but not to Marcia's apartment. The I. P. P. is the Institute of Practical Philanthropy which Sandy manages; it aims to fulfill the wish of an eccentric but benevolent millionaire to encourage motherhood ideals among little girls by giving them Christmas dolls, to be known as miniature babies. Jean makes out a campaign to give every poor little girl in New York a miniature baby, and also locates Mollie, whose marriage has ended disastrously. The two girls live together in the meantime.

Lionel Gilman, Sandy's assistant, takes advantage of the latter's absence in Boston to make love to Jean. Phil Baldwin arrives in town to look over the situation and when Lionel and he start fighting Jean realizes she can never care for either of them. Sandy returns from Boston and accidentally meets Jean on Fifth avenue where she is staring covetously at an ermine wrap in a show window. Jean discovers little Ellen, daughter of Farreson, and coming home one night finds Mollie mysteriously disturbed. Soon after, while taking Sandy on a visit to little Ellen, Jean learns that Marcia is the child's mother.

Marcia accuses Jean of the murder; the latter tells Sandy that Marcia is lying. He rebukes by Sandy for attacking Marcia's character—and slams out of the office.

Still furiously angry with Sandy, Jean writes Phil suggesting a reconciliation.

A little later, when Mollie observes Lionel calling on Jean to keep a date with her, Mollie admits that he is her husband. Phil writes from Connecticut that he is willing and eager to marry Jean on Christmas morning.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XXIII.

December 12.

Ten working days to Christmas * * * and to dear, darling, faithful Phil * * * I'm almost happy this morning. * * * I ought to be completely happy, but there's something inside that I can't quite analyze. * * * Maybe it's just old human discontent without which we wouldn't be humans at all, but gods. * * * Even now I can't be absolutely sure that I love Phil. * * * But it must be love. * * * His letter was wonderful. * * * "I love you. Can anything else matter?" * * * That's the way it began. * * * That's his answer to my effort to explain why I sent him away after he and Lionel had fought in the hall. * * * Surely nothing else does matter. * * * And Christmas morning he'll be waiting. * * * Yesterday was a good day all around. * * * I took lunch with Mollie and Lionel at Simmons' and they told me what they had decided. * * * Mollie went with him to meet his parents and to go to a show with them. * * * They must have given her a good time, for she was all aflutter about it when she came back last night. * * * Fell in love with Lionel's mother. * * * And met this morning before she left for the store she repeated what she said yesterday about getting a divorce from Lionel after Christmas. * * * Funny girl! * * * I don't understand her. * * * Lionel's like a reed in the wind, emotionally. * * * He's likely to fall in love with every pretty girl he sees. * * * But at the same time, he's mad about Mollie, and if she would treat him half decently, she could wrap him around her finger. * * * Sandy sent me a note yesterday asking me to come to the office sometime today. * * * Strictly business, he said. * * * I wonder. * * * I must write Phil at once.

Sandy was engaged with a visitor when Jean reached the office. Lionel, humming softly, looked up as she entered and quickly went to her, both hands extended.

"Jean, if you only knew how much I appreciate what you've done. Did Mollie tell you?"

Jean gave him her coat and dropped into a chair by his desk. "About the show yesterday?" she asked innocently. "Very little."

"The show was incidental," he told her. "Meeting mother and dad, I mean. She was a hit, Jean. I mean it." He leaned against his desk, and gazed off thoughtfully. "Do you know, she's marvelous when she wants to be. I hardly knew her. And was mother pleased? You could see that she was relieved. I suppose she thought. * * * Well, mothers are funny that way."

"About in-laws? You can't blame them. The trouble is, they don't trust their own children. Not in the matter of picking dates, anyway. And I don't know that I blame them there, either."

Lionel grinned guiltily. "You're not getting personal, are you?"

"I wasn't, Lionel; but I will. Your mother's daughter-in-law is all right. If she can just get over one or two silly ideas she has about marriage, she'll make * * * some man a fine wife. * * *"

Lionel's smile had flown. Soberly, silently, he met her quiet gaze, knowing well what was in her mind.

"And you're not without your points, Lionel," Jean continued after a moment. "Never mind the bow. I'm talking straight from the shoulder because you're both friends of mine and * * * I'd like to see you gather up the wreckage and make something fine out of it. * * * Your trouble is that you're too eager for affection. If one girl won't give it to you, you try another * * *"

"Wait a moment," Lionel protested. "You're not suggesting that * * * that I made love to you simply because * * *"

"Because I happened to be the first girl who came along after Mollie had left you? * * * No, I'm not. Frankly, I'm a little flattered to think that you chose me in preference to * * * well, say, Miss Trelling!" * * *"

Lionel's face colored. "You think did put you two in the same class?"

"No? I don't know why not. She's a nice, intelligent girl. And after all, you did find her attractive enough to kiss, you know * * * I shouldn't have seen it, I know, but it was accidental, I assure you. * * * But don't let that fuss you. It is simply a case in point. You wanted to kiss a girl and Miss Trelling happened to be handy. There's your weakness, Lionel, and if you have any hopes of winning Mollie back, you've got to guard against it."

Lionel said nothing, but stared at the shiny toes of his shoes, knowing quite well that she had spoken the truth.

"Kissing Miss Trelling didn't amount to anything, Lionel," Jean added gently. "The little things never amount to much in themselves. But they're dangerous risks. Mollie's a liberal thinker, when she thinks at all; but she won't do much thinking if she ever discovers that you're not devoting your entire attention to her. She's that kind. * * * By the way," Jean asked suddenly, "you didn't do something foolish like that the day you were married that caused Mollie to leave you * * *?"

Lionel turned on her quickly. "Good Lord! You don't think I'm that much of a rotter, I hope." And then, lowering his voice: "I've never known why she left me, though I've suspected it was because I lied to her. Little things again," he smiled sadly. "Little lies. I met Mollie at a dance one night. She thought I was a student at Columbia and I let her think it. And when she asked me my name, I gave her the name of a friend of mine in Moberly, Syril Tatcher * * * I don't know why I did it, except that it didn't matter then. Later * * * I had to admit the lie about my name the night we were married, of course."

"But you still let her think you were a Columbia student?"

Lionel nodded gravely. "Until next day. She came across a track medal I won at the University of Missouri, and I told her the truth * * *."

A sharp click warned them that Sandy's visitor was about to leave his office.

Lionel said quickly: "She didn't seem to mind, then. She didn't even ask what I did for a living. But * * * I left the room a little later, and when I went back * * *" He shrugged meaningly, and made a little movement with his head that caused her to turn and look behind her.

A short, corpulent man of 40 or 45 was crossing to the hall door. Behind him, in the doorway of his office, stood Sandy, tall and still, his eyes fixed on Jean.

Presently he bowed, slowly, and waited for Jean to pass into his office. When she was seated he pulled the door to quietly, and stood gazing down at her curiously.

Jean was irritated by the silence. "You wanted to see me * * * on business * * *?"

And still he gazed at her fixedly, in silence, as if he were reading her thoughts. But at last, with an abrupt movement, he left the door and went to his desk.

"Yes," he said then, his eyes on a pad before him. "There are several minor matters I wanted to discuss with you." And after a brief silence: "The Miniature Baby Plan seems to be going along according to schedule. * * *"

"So much so," Jean told him, "that my conscience hurts me. There does not seem to be much that I can do but look wise."

He gave her a gentle smile. "Because you've done the preliminary work so well," he told her. "Your job now is to do just that, look wise. That's every executive's job, by the way. It's your looking wise that keeps the wheels turning, Jean."

Jean nodded, soberly, because she could think of nothing to say, nothing that she could trust herself to say.

"However," Sandy resumed, "I want you to take an afternoon off in the next day or two for another job. Do you think you would enjoy buying some Christmas things for little Ellen?"

"Of course," Jean said quickly, too quickly for she realized that she had let the first bar down by her eagerness.

"I'll have Lionel give you a check," he told her. "If you find it isn't enough, let me know. Use your own judgment, of course. You know what little girls like besides miniature babies. I'd suggest a nice little wardrobe in addition to toys, by the way."

"She needs it," Jean agreed. And: "You might include a little something for Miss Wood."

"Yes, of course. By all means. I don't know why I didn't think of it."

A silence fell upon them. Sandy fingered a paper cutter nervously. Jean watched him with growing concern. She thought she saw the signs of an abrupt turn in the conversation.

Presently Sandy said: "This may not sound like business, but I can assure you that it is * * * strictly business * * * Do you still plan to leave New York after Christmas?"

The last time he had asked that question Jean reflected, she had told him she wasn't sure. There was no doubt in her reply now.

"I'm leaving New York Christmas morning." Very positive.

"Would you consider an offer from the I. P. P. at an increase in salary * * *?"

She shook her head firmly. "No, for two reasons. I'm not worth what I'm getting now, and—I'm going to be married Christmas morning * * *"

Sandy stared at her, his face pale, two little lumps moving high on his cheeks. His hard, hurt expression told Jean more than he could have said with any number of words. She was immediately sorry she had put it so bluntly.

When, after a time, he was still staring, silently, she got up and moved toward the door.

"I appreciate the opportunity to stay with the I. P. P.," she said softly; "but—as you know, I came for adventure, and I've had it. You've been more than nice to me, but when the job's done—I'm through with New York—for good."

Sandy was not looking at her now, but sat staring, blindly, toward the window, his hands opening and closing slowly on his desk.

Softly Jean opened the door and went out.

196,632 NEW BOOKS ADDED TO LIBRARY

Congressional Collection Is Credited With More Than 4,000,000 Volumes.

GAIN IN APPROPRIATIONS

Twenty-two new books were added to the Library of Congress every hour throughout the last fiscal year, day and night, Sundays and holidays included, with 3,912 volumes added at the end of the year for good measure, according to Librarian Herbert Putnam's annual report, submitted to both houses of Congress yesterday.

Among the outstanding acquisitions of the year was the Vollbehr collection of 3,000 incunabula, or "cradle books," printed in the first half century after the invention of the art of printing. The collection was purchased for $1,500,000, under the terms of a bill introduced by Representative Collins, of Mississippi. Its most famous item is the Gutenberg Bible, the first book printed in Europe from movable type, and one of three perfect originals known to be in existence.

The 196,632 new books added to the library during the fiscal year 1929-30, represents the highest annual increase since the institution was founded in 1800. At the close of the year, the total number of volumes was 4,103,936, which places the library equal in quantity to any library in the world, the report states.

In addition to its books, the library contains 1,161,478 maps, 1,062,194 musical compositions, 498,715 prints and photographs and an uncounted number of manuscripts.

Dr. Putnam's report notes several increases in appropriatoins for 1931, and the authorization of an appropriation of $6,500,000 for the proposed annex on Second street to the east of the present building. Permanent endowments in the trust fund were listed at $643,275, with a present market value estimated at $765,000. Gifts for immediate disbursement totaled $290,337.87.

Among other new departments established during the past year is the division of aeronautics, founded through congressional appropriations and a gift of $140,000 from the Guggenheim Fund. Dr. Albert F. Zahm is head of this department.

Three students of the California Institute of Technology are making a ten-week tour of Europe inspecting dormitories of foreign universities.

CARNEGIE EXHIBIT OPENS TOMORROW

Information Gained Through Scientific Research to Be Display Basis.

CONTINUES THREE DAYS

A three-day exhibition of the Carnegie Institution of Washington, representing the results of research activities will open tomorrow at the administration building of the institution, Sixteenth and P streets northwest.

The exhibit will be open to the public each afternoon from 2 o'clock to 5:30 o'clock and each evening from 7:30 o'clock until 10:30 o'clock and will continue through Monday. Lectures will be given each day by members of the Carnegie staff.

In the department of embryology new data obtained during the current year relative to movements of white blood cells and wandering tissue cells will be revealed. Successful use of stereoscopic photography in the study of embryos in their early stages will also be demonstrated. Moving pictures will supplement this exhibit.

Check Plant Energy.

Another exhibit will show how certain plants absorb, transform and store up sunlight in the form of chemical energy which is used by animals and man as food and fuel. The amount of energy which the body requires from food consumption when it is in health and at rest, will be demonstrated through apparatus designed for this purpose. In this connection, the term basal metabolism will be explained. Those who are overweight or underweight should be particularly interested in this exhibit, according to authorities at the institution.

Functions of the ductless glands will also be described. It will be shown how an oversupply of secretion in the gland at the base of the brain will cause giantism and an undersupply dwarfism.

The display of excavation work in the Maya region of Middle America and the Pueblo region of the southwestern United States, showing an altar pyramid recently found at Guatemala and reproductions of animals that roamed this country a million years ago is also expected to be of special interest.

Moderator Outlines Churchmen's Task

Dr. Kerr Says Religion Must Capture Intellect of World.

Cincinnati, Dec. 11 (A.P.).—The Rev. Dr. Hugh T. Kerr, of Pittsburgh, moderator of the Presbyterian General Assembly, in a keynote address to the Interdenominational Churchmen's Congress today, said the church must capture the intellect, must challenge the conscience and must satisfy the spiritual aspirations of the modern world. His address was made before 1,000 delegates from 22 Protestant denominations who plan to organize cooperation among all churchmen.

Dr. Kerr said it was the task of laymen of all denominations to voice the moral conscience of the church in politics, the home and other elements of life.

"We have come here as to a clinic," he said. "We have come not to engage in a postmorten but to seek the cause of weakness and the secret of an imperishable spiritual vitality."

Your Name WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

By HARRY A. DEFERRARI, Ph. D.

THE personal and family name "Willard" (also spelled "Wellard") seems to have always been especially common in County Kent. It is the modern form of the Anglo-Saxon personal name "Wilheard," which means "resolutely brave." This name with its many variations is found in the very earliest of English records. A few instances are Wehelardus de Trophil (1168), Walard de Pikeden (1227) and Emayn Wylard (1379).

The family name "MacArdle" (also spelled "MacCardle," "Cardle" and "Cardell") is of Celtic origin, and means "the son of Ardghal." "Ardghal" was an old personal name meaning "high valor" or "mighty valor." "MacArdle" is especially common in South Ulster.

The family name "Eberhard" is a modern form of the original Germanic "Eburhard." "Eburhard" was an old personal name meaning "the bold wild boar."

The family name "Faber" is a Latin form which may be translated "the smith" or "the carpenter." The history of family names throughout Europe shows that certain families in all European countries have frequently adopted Latin versions of their names. This practice has been especially common in Germany. Thus "Faber" generally stands for the German "Schmidt," although it may also represent the English "Smith" or "carpenter," the French "Ferrier," &c.

The family name "Drummond" is of Celtic origin. Its source is the Gaelic and Irish "druiman," and its full significance is "he who lives at or near the ridge." It occurs with a great number of variations. A few of its frequently found forms are "Drumyn," "Drummane" and "Dromond."

Hollywood Screen Life

By HUBBARD KEAVY.

Hollywood.—Mack Sennett's is the only studio where stories are still actually conceived "in conference."

Sennett believes that wits are sharper when his story constructors and "gag men" are working together, exchanging ideas, even if they have to shout each other down to be heard.

DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS, JR.

The Sennett conferences are by no means quiet, or even orderly. When six or more writers, each with ideas to tell and sell, get together in Sennett's office the verbal and mental pace is terrific.

Writers at other studios work singly or in pairs and when their stories are completed they are read and discussed at orderly, calm meetings.

Sennett's plan is a holdover from the early days of pictures when the entire staff met to turn out a scenario a day. Sennett expects one every two weeks.

Doug, Jr., Progresses.

When Douglas Fairbanks retires in the not so distant future his name will be carried on in films by his son. Young Fairbanks has made notable progress in the last year and unless something unforeseen occurs, he will be starred next year.

Already he has been starred in one picture, a talkie made here in French, a language he speaks well.

Doug, sr., has never called himself an actor. He is an athlete who knows how to buil'd a good story around himself, with the help of a technical staff.

Once he told a friend: "I reach great emotional heights and then jump off—and it's up to the technical department to catch me."

Douglas, jr., is more of an actor than his father. He will never need to resort to mechanical appliances.

The Wrong Picture.

Andy Clyde, who used to be in vaudeville himself, tells about the town in New York so small that only third and fourth rate acts played there. Most of them couldn't afford photographs so the house manager, who had a trunkful of pictures, tacked up in the lobby any he thought appropriate.

He asked a native one day how he liked the bill.

"I don't care much for that fellow Barrymore," he replied, "he fell off his bicycle three times."

A model canning factory, manned by inmates, has been placed in operation on the State prison farm at London, Ohio.

Fifth Ave. Fashions NEW YORK

One can do much toward attaining a youthful, slender appearance by choosing the right silhouette.

It's the duty of the French V front of this model to minimize the breadth through the bodice.

Plaits placed at either side of the skirt at the front create a center panel that gives lengthened line.

The back is slim and straight.

It's an excellent all-day type. It's so suited to the crepy patterned woolens, plain woolens, feather-weight tweed and wool jersey.

Black canton crepe is very chic with self-fabric vest with rever facing and collar of white crepe.

A COUNTRY HOUSE-PARTY in the heart of the Canadian winter best describes the spirit of the winter sports days at the Log Chateau, Lucerne-in-Quebec. Canada's winter is at its best in the valley of the Ottawa and keen sport blends perfectly with complete leisure at the Log Chateau. The Log Chateau is a club hotel maintained primarily for members of the Seigniory Club. The mile bobsleigh run is flood-lighted at night, the ski trails stretch back into the Laurentians and the toboggan slide sweeps down on to the ice of the Ottawa River, while the skating rink is adjacent to the hotel. Communications should be addressed to the Manager, Log Chateau, Lucerne-in-Quebec, Canada.

Yankee Baby Christened in Vatican City

Daughter of Bellingers First Official Child So Honored.

Elinor, daughter of Commander and Mrs. Patrick N. L. Bellinger, was christened recently in the basilica of St. Peter's, in the Vatican City. She is the first baby of the American official family in Rome to have this honor, one, which very few American babies will have.

Miss Marion Lindsay, for many years a prominent member of the American colony in Italy, was godmother, and Master Frederic Bellinger, brother of the baby, was godfather. The ceremony was performed by Mgr. Burke.

Commander Bellinger is serving as Naval Attache for Aviation at the United States Embassy, a post he has held for over two years. Although he hails originally from South Carolina, he and Mrs. Bellinger are fondly remembered in the Capital among members of the Navy group, from the time Commander Bellinger was stationed here in 1927 in the office of naval operations. ## CAMPAIGN IS BEGUN TO DOUBLE TOY FUND body cares to the extent of "giving," these cases will be realities.

Everybody is joining in the movement to furnish a lot of happiness to a lot of children. Youngsters will really appreciate the things which The Post fund will buy. And parents will appreciate the load lifted from their minds and shoulders through the idea of caring for the children.

All in all, judging from the letters which arrive daily for the Editor of the Toy Fund, the plan to help the children is the best that has been advanced, and largely because the parents are not neglected in the giving of the Christmas cheer to their youngsters.

You can do your part any time between now and December 21, but the sooner the check or cash arrives, the sooner children are assured of a merry Christmas. A little help from all those who can afford to give, will mean happiness for those who can't.

No contribution is too small or too large for this fund. The fund is now more than $1,100 and by December 21 it ought to be doubled. Let's go.

Woman Adopts 137 Children For Christmas Holidays

Becomes Ally of Central Union Mission and Santa Claus in Filling Bags for Needy Youngsters; Also Aids 52 at Home for Aged.

Miss Louise Bush, 922 F street northeast has "adopted" 137 children for Christmas.

Hearing that the Central Union Mission still had many untaken bags to be filled with Christmas cheer and comforts for the boys and girls on its lists, Miss Bush straightway made herself an ally of Santa Claus and took away 137 of the bags. In addition, she made herself responsible for filling 52 bags for the inmates of the Home for the Aged and Infirm, at Blue Plains.

Mrs. John S. Bennett, who is arranging for the mission's annual Christmas party for poor children of the city on Christmas Eve, said yesterday there are still 198 bags for children that need to be filled with garments and toys and candy. Many others, like Miss Bush, who is working through the Epworth M. E. Church South, are taking over bags of which the Central Union Mission is preparing to distribute 1,500 at its Christmas party.

There are also 60 unfilled bags for destitute men and 27 remaining out of an allotment of 168 for women whom the mission seeks to aid on Christmas. All bags have the name of the person attached, showing that each case has been investigated and the needs for Christmas noted. The name and age of each child also is contained on each of the bags.

Most of the bags have been taken over by the churches. All the white inmates at the Blue Plains institution, 165 of them, will be provided with Christmas cheer through the efforts of the mission. Mrs. Bennett has made a special appeal for friends of the mission to take over these remaining bags.

KREISLER PROGRAM ENCHANTS AUDIENCE

Hearers Call Violinist Back for Many Encores at Concert's Close.

PLAYS OWN NUMBERS

Fritz Kreisler, premier violinist, kept a capacity audience enchanted yesterday afternoon at Constitution Hall in a concert which for beauty of interpretation, tonal quality and artistic presentation has seldom been equalled here. At the close of the concert ovation after ovation brought Kreisler again and again to the stage to play a number of encores including some of his own compositions.

The concert was given under the local management of Mrs. Wilson Greene, and the house was sold out hours before the program began.

The concerto of the afternoon was Mendelssohn's "Concerto in E Minor" which Kreisler played with true inspiration, his usual masterly technic, and rare sense of beautiful shading. His pure trills, harmonics, double stopping and phrase artistry gave new glories to the concerto.

The program was opened with Corelli's "La Folia" a number which gave Kreisler opportunity to display his luscious tone, agility with the bow and a delicate series of nuances and his abiding instinct for rhythm.

After this presentation came a Bach group in which his rendition did full justice to the classic music. One caught new and unexpected glimpses of the achievements of Bach as a composer for the violin, as he listened to Kreisler's playing of this master.

Kreisler included in the remainder of his program "Romance in A Major," by Schumann; Mozart's "Rondo in G Major," given with amazing verve and vitality, and "Three Caprices," compositions by J. Stamitz, J. B. Cartier and Wieniawski, novel in form and interpreted by Kreisler in an original manner.

The formal concert was concluded by two of Kreisler's own works, "Caprice Viennois" and "La Citana," in which his reputation as a composer was upheld in masterly manner.

Musical Art Club Gives Piano to Y.W.C.A. Body

The Phyllis Wheatley Young Women's Christian Association was recently presented with a new piano by the Musical Art Club.

Members of the Howard University staff and of District schools, through membership in the club, were responsible for the gift. The fund was started in 1925.

At the time of the delivery of the piano, an unknown friend of the association sent a check to start a fund for purchase of a radio.

IN THE PLAYHOUSE

—By JOHN J. DALY—

ONCE in a lifetime it happens: Scouts from the Erlanger offices and from the headquarters of the Shuberts, in New York, are reported to be in town to have a look at "The Sting of Deborah," the play by Lois Compton Fuller which will be presented tonight in Pierce Hall, All Souls' Church. While this sounds like an amateur production, the cast is really professional—so the New York theater men will not be disappointed in the acting, at least. As a matter of fact, the play was tried out a season or so ago, under the title "Gypsy April," with Margaret Anglin in the title role.

TO keep track of players and plays is a task that besets—if not upsets—the dramatic desk. Here, for instance, is Miss Valerie Taylor, playing this week at the Belasco Theater in "Petticoat Influence"—with Helen Hayes. 'Twas written in these columns that Miss Taylor is a newcomer to the American and, ipso facto, the Washington stage. Lo and behold, Mr. Stoddard Taylor, a namesake of Miss Taylor, rushes to set the records straight.

It seems that Valerie Taylor played here last season in that remarkable play, "Berkeley Square." That was her debut in local theatricals—after a journey across the ocean.

ALL sorts of artists are in town. On Sunday night last, lovers of the dance were thrilled with the remarkable performance of Lisa Gardiner, at Wardman Park—and on Sunday afternoon next, in the Mayflower Hotel, Washington will hear for the first time the remarkable tenor voice of Alfred O'Shea, the Australian song bird who sang with Melba. Some one has suggested that these two artists should get together, Lisa Gardiner to charm with her toe-dancing and Al. O'Shea to bring back memories of Caruso and John McCormick, when they were in the heyday of their powers.

MISS MADELEINE McMAHON, erstwhile star of "The Gingham Girl," and now finished with "New Moon," came back to her old home town yesterday to spend the holidays at home with her parents. Thus two Washington girls famed on the boards are with their families this week, the other one being Miss Helen Hayes at the Belasco. They represent two different branches of the service—the straight dramatic and the musical comedies—and they are Washington's gift to the stage.

SATURDAY morning at 10:30, the National Junior Theater will present its third production of the local season, "The Prince and the Pauper," in the Belasco Theater. Henry Hull, jr., son of a very well known thespian on the big boards, shares the title role honors with young David Orleans, another professional player, who recently joined forces with the Junior Theater Acting Company. Incidentally, these Saturday morning performances, with young children taking their parents to the theater, is one of the sights of this man's town.

ROBERT SISK, press representative of the Theater Guild, claims that New York will rave over "In the Meantime," the play by Clair and Paul Sifton now on the stage at the National. Because this is a new play, because its authors are not as well known as some other playwrights, people are apt to believe that here is something to avoid; which is just the opposite, according to Mr. Sisk, who is backed in his statement by the reviewers. They, too claim, that here is a play worth while. Well, if it isn't, the suits are to be directed against the Theater Guild.

WEATHER FORECAST METHOD IMPROVED

New Discovery May Permit Reports Week in Advance, Abbott Says.

SMITHSONIAN CREDITED

A discovery by the Astrophysical Observatory that offers promise of weather forecasting nearly a week in advance was listed by Secretary Charles G. Abbot as one of the year's outstanding achievements at the Smithsonian Institution, in his report yesterday to the board of regents.

Observatory workers discovered "an apparently considerable influence of short period polar variation on the temperature of the United States," he said.

Although he described the relation as "complicated," he explained that in Washington, for example, an average change of 0.8 per cent in the sun appears to cause a temperature change of 5 degrees centigrade. The secretary said this knowledge may make possible longer range weather forecasts.

Authorization by Congress of an appropriation to add wings to the Natural History Building of the National Museum, at a cost of $6,500,000, "is certain to make possible a greater number of such achievements in future years," the report stated.

Besides increased exhibition space, the new wings will mean many new laboratories for the preservation and study of the collections, Abbot said.

The report cited the institution's support of Dr. R. H. Goodard's experiments in designing a rocket to explore the unknown upper layers of the atmosphere. Automatic recording devices are seemingly all that is necessary now to insure a successful flight of the rocket and its return to earth, it stated.

During the year the Smithsonian sent out 28 major expeditions to widely scattered regions. They included expeditions to remote Alaskan Eskimo and Indian tribes, along the Amazon in Peru and Brazil, and several expeditions to Africa.

LEVIATHAN MASTER RESIGNS COMMAND

Cunningham Surprises Shipping World by Quitting Attractive Post.

SEEKS MORE HOME LIFE

New York, Dec. 11 (A.P.).—A new skipper, perhaps Capt. George Fried, hero of several rescues at sea, will walk the bridge of the world's largest liner, the Leviathan, in February, for Commodore Harold Cunningham resigned today.

The resignation of Commodore Cunningham, who is still in his forties despite his thirty years at sea, came as a surprise to his friends. It was understood that after taking the Leviathan across the Atlantic three more times he would take an executive position with the Standard Shipping Co., of New York. He wants, for one thing, to spend more time with his wife and family at the Cunningham home in Edgewater, N. J.

In announcing receipt of Commodore Cunningham's resignation, Joseph E. Sheedy, executive vice president of the United States Lines, said no successor had been named. The name of Capt. Fried and Capt. A. B. Randall, of the liner George Washington, were mentioned in shipping circles as most likely for consideration for the vacancy on the Leviathan's bridge.

Commodore Cunningham, generally regarded as a strict disciplinarian, has been master of the Leviathan three years. Among several ships he commanded before that was the George Washington. During the war he was chief officer of the Momus, a troopship, and later he was in charge of the Leviathan when she was converted into a troopship following her seizure from the Germans.

Design Approved For Statuary Work

Contract for Group to Be Set Up on Bridge End Soon to Be Let.

The final design of the statuary group to be erected at the Washington end of the Arlington Memorial Bridge has been approved by the Fine Arts Commission, it was announced yesterday.

Contract for execution of this group will be let in a few days, Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d, executive officer of the Arlington Memorial Bridge Commission, said. Leo Freudkander, New York sculptor, will make the models of the statues, which are to be called "Valor" and "Call to Arms."

James E. Fraser, also of New York, has been chosen to make the statuary work on the group at the entrance to the Rock Creek and Potomac parkway approach. Tentative plans call for the carving of all groups in white granite.

MINORS VOTE BASEBALL WAR AS DRAFT PARLEY FAILS; ARMY AND NAVY CONVERGE ON GOTHAM AS GAME NEARS

$750,000 Profit Is Seen Despite Seats Yet Unsold; Price Reduction Vetoed

Coin Used in Toss to Be Auctioned as Well as Ball.

Service Foes Arrive; Weather Promised Fair Tomorrow.

By TED VOSBURGH.

NEW YORK, Dec. 11 (A.P.)—For the first time in three years the athletes and supporters of the Naval and Military Academies converge upon New York tonight for the most colorful football show on earth.

Amid a barrage of ballyhoo worthy of the occasion, more and more of the football public of this and other cities dug into the bankroll to boom the ticket sale, aid the unemployed and gain admission to a game that promises to take rank with the best in Army-Navy history.

Although business conditions somewhat slowed the sale of the higher priced seats, the Salvation Army-Citizens committee headed by Grover Whalen announced there would be no reduction in the rates, which range up to $50.

Warns of Waiting For Cut Prices.

"Even if there should be a block of unsold seats," said Whalen, "the citizens committee has ruled that there must not be any price reduction. Such a reduction would be obviously unfair to the early purchasers.

"We have a record football gate receipt total if we stopped selling tickets right now and we are under no necessity of cutting prices. The person who waits for a price cut is going to miss the game."

Indications today were that the net gate would exceed $500,000, with a possibility of realizing a total of $750,000 when the additional funds received from various other sources, such as concessions, programs and voluntary contributions from radio listeners-in are added. Between 16,000 and 17,000 of the 78,000 seats remained unsold.

Coin Used in Toss-Up To Be Auctioned.

No possible chance to increase the sum that will go to aid the unemployed is being missed. Not only will the souvenir football, autographed by President Hoover and Army and Navy notables, be auctioned off. Even the coin to be tossed by the referee at the start of the game will be sold. It is a gold medallion bearing a likeness of the Army mule on one side and the Navy goat on the other.

A big parade tonight with military units in line was arranged to increase public interest and sell more tickets.

Even the weather man smiled on the occasion, predicting the conditions would be favorable for both players and spectators, with no rain either Friday or Saturday.

The Navy squad, arriving tonight, will be quartered at a midtown hotel until game time. The Army encamped tonight at Briarcliff, a short distance outside of the city.

Cheering Sections at Ends of Field.

This thirtieth annual service game, scheduled as a post-season attraction for charity's sake after a three-year break in relations, finds the teams fairly evenly matched. Although the Army has the more impressive record, the Navy is considered far more powerful than at any time this season.

The Army and Navy undergraduate cheering sections at the Yankee Stadium will be at opposite ends of the field, having volunteered to sit behind the goal posts so the higher priced seats could be sold. In addition to the corps of cadets and the regiment of midshipmen, 11,000 seats have been sold to old Army men and 14,000 to graduates of the Naval Academy.

GOLF FOR SPORTS WRITERS.

Seymour Dunn will stage a sports writers indoor golf championship at his course on the third floor of Madison Square Garden on Friday, December 19. The tournament will consist of 36-holes medal play.

MRS. MOODY TO PLAY.

Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, world's greatest woman tennis player, will play matches in Buenos Aires, under the auspices of the Argentine Lawn Tennis Association.

Westbrook Pegler Says

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—A lot of baseball persons, active, passive and passe, are hanging around the lobbies and corridors of the Commodore Hotel this week, blotting up heat, including steam heat, and it was at this fortunate time that his late Honor Francis X. McQuade, of the New York Giants' firm, chose to do the handsome thing by the national game. His late honor resigned his position as city magistrate and by his sacrifice dissolved an unpleasant situation.

After all, there were some lines of activity in which a major league baseball magnate, mindful of the good repute of the game, could not consistently engage, and you will readily understand that it was no boost to the baseball business that one of the important stockholders openly and notoriously occupied a bench in the city courts of New York.

There has been some pressure on his late honor from the other side, too, it being the contention of certain critics that a magistrate could not do justice to his position as judge while holding office in a private concern.

COURTS GAIN ADVANTAGE BY ACT

The baseball business, however, considering the reputation of the magistrates' courts, doubtless felt that the reflection, if any, was on them, and the resignation was a happy solution of an embarrassing problem.

His late Honor K. M. Landis, as commissioner of the national pastime, must have pondered the problem many hours. Many baseball players had been whispered out of the leagues under mere suspicion of activities or associations which were deemed inimical to the best interests of the sport. But here was a magnate, once an officeholder, in the largest firm in the league, who publicly sat up on the woolsack every day, some days, and, being a stockholder, not an employe, could not be ejected from the sport.

Now the magnates may hold their heads up again, and the fact that Francis X. McQuade chose to resign from the court instead of resigning from baseball may be regarded as just what it infers. However, a certain technical moral advantage rests with the courts, for his late honor was under charges before the appellate division which might have caused his removal from office if he had not moved voluntarily. The baseball business by some oversight neglected to charge him with conduct unbecoming a baseball magnate in occupying a magistrate's seat.

In the presence of this optimistic news, the announcement that the National League consumed 5,144 dozen baseballs and the American League 4,480 dozen in the season of 1930 was almost overlooked. Mr. John Heydler, the president of the National League, whose annual duty it is to ascertain and make public the precise number of baseballs used in his league's season, issued the statistics with that firm self-control which he has developed in years of experience. Originally, he fluttered a bit as he dealt out the little strips of flimsy, and the baseball reporters for the P. M.'s broke madly down the corridors to the phones to tell the figures to the rewrite men. But that was years ago and by now, after announcing the consumption of almost half a million baseballs, Mr. Heydler merely indicates the flimsies lying on the desk amidst the cigar butts and the secretary's pencils and says in a calm, low voice, "There are some figures there, boys, on the number of baseballs we used up last year."

MR. HEYDLER MAINTAINS CALM

The American League statistics on the baseball consumption were much fancier than Mr. Heydler's this year, another victory for the junior circuit, as it is called. Mr. Barnard, of the American League, who was reelected president for a five-year term, incidentally furnished a table not unlike the winter schedule of the Cos Cob locals on the New Haven, stating precisely how many baseballs had been fouled into the left field stands, how many had been fouled into the right

FORMER NOARE DAME STARS TO PLAY PROS FOR CHARITY

Coach Knute Rockne has mustered an array of his former proteges to oppose the New York Giants Sunday for the benefit of the unemployed. Among his back field men will be the four backs who figured in the 1929 campaign in which the Irish were unbeaten. ## YALE PAPER SEES NEED OF CHANGE

Big 3 Must Imitate Notre Dame or Lose Hope for Title.

Special to The Washington Post.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Dec. 11—Yale, Harvard and Princeton must decide quickly whether to continue the effort to imitate football elevens trained and coached similarly to the method so effectively shown by Notre Dame, of form another group which gives les stime to exactions of training life and which plays fewer games, according to an editorial published in today's Yale Daily News.

The News said that continued compromise between the systems will soon become impossible. It pointed out that efforts to produce an eleven developed along the Notre Dame lines means a highly developed coaching staff, bginning practice two weks earlier than at present, an extensive spring practice and daily practice through the season last about three hours, as well as a troupe of players who possess remarkable physical physical strength and calloused nervous system.

Abandoning Title Hopes Is Alternative.

The alternative, the News said, means a reduction of games, meeting natural rivals in the class of teams involved, and resignation of any hope of winning the mythical national title.

Adopting a similar attitude, the Yale Alumni Weekly will say editorially tomorrow that Yale must chose betwen continuing its present plan of playing a long schedule and meeting many of the strongest elevens of the country, with a highly specialized coaching staff, or stepping out of the intercollegiate national competition and arranging schedules on a different basis.

The Weekly believes that while small colleges have found advertising value in football, many have allowed the game to pass into the hands of professional coaches.

SCHEDULES 12 TOURNEYS.

Auto Racer Must Beat Hawks' Flight Mark

Can Capt. Malcolm Campbell, the English race driver, send his giant Bluebird II over the Daytona, Fla., sands early next month faster than Capt. Frank M. Hawks, holder of airplane speed records, recently winged his way from Washington to New York for a new record?

Capt. Hawks flew at a rate of 3.79 miles a minute. Capt. Campbell must move at a 4-miles-a-minute clip to better the mark of his fellow countryman, the late Sir Henry Segrave.

But since Capt. Campbell has already roared over the Florida beach at 214 miles an hour, with his tachometer registering 225 miles an hour when he crossed the finish line, 240 miles an hour is not impossible. Last year on the bed of a volcanic lake in South Africa the great British driver almost equaled the Seagrave mark of 231 miles per hour.

Rudolph and Taberski Score in Cue Tourney

New York, Dec. 11 (A.P.)—Erwin Rudolph, of Chicago, and Frank Taberski, of Schenectady, N. Y., chalked up victories in the world's pocket billiards championship tournament here this afternoon.

Rudolph scored his second triumph in as many starts, defeating Thomas Boatman, of Portland, Oreg., 125 to 80, in 20 innings. Rudolph had a high run of 31; Boatman one of 29.

Taberski, a former champion, beat Bennie Allen, of Kansas City, 125 to 62, in 17 innings. Taberski closed out the match with an unfinished run of 37, the best cluster of the duel. Allen's best effort was a run of 17. Takerski had lost his first two matches of the tournament. Allen and Boatman each has suffered three straight defeats.

22-18 VICTORY SCORED BY CENTRAL

Emerson Loses Thrilling Game in Closing Minutes.

TWO inaccurate passes from scurrying Emerson courtmen at the very close of the game yesterday sent their team down to defeat at the hands of Bert Coggins' Central High School Five, 22-18, after showing a brand of defense and offense equal to the winners throughout most of the battle. The game was played in Central's gymnasium. It was the third game for the Blue and White and the first for Emerson.

Led by Lewis and Rabbit the Emersonians carried the battle to their favored opponents from the start, holding their own at all times up to the very end and at one time in the third period leading Central by 3 points.

Central, without the services of Rice and Swift, two of the Blue and White's best courtmen, showed improved smoothness and finishing punch to turn back Coach Sanborn's charges.

Frank Cumberland, football and baseball luminary, playing his first game this season with Central, showed real speed and shooting ability in ringing up the majority of his team's points. Al Morgan, another brid star, played well in his first appearance this year in the court line-up.

Jakie Lewis, former Business High player, turned in the best individual game of the day, exhibiting good passing more than average guarding and scoring 8 points.

Washington-Lee Five Opens With Jefferson

The Washington-Lee High School Basket Ball Team opens its season tonight in a game with the Jefferson High School, of Falls Church, at Washington-Lee.

The game promises to be evenly contested as both schools have fast teams.

The Washington-Lee schedule this year is especially ambitious, games being scheduled with many of the high schools in the northern section of the State and with Eastern, Western and Central High Schools of the District of Columbia.

G. U. Prep Gridmen Elect Walsh Captain

Alexis P. Walsh was last night elected captain of the 1931 Georgetown Prep Football Team at a meeting of the squad and Coach Ralph Duplin.

Walsh has held down his post at right end for three years and is one of the most popular boys in the school.

Hailing from Pittsburgh, Walsh is not only a grid regular, but a first baseman for the Prepmen's ball team and right guard on the basket ball five. His sprinting specialty is the 220-yard dash.

CENSUS FIVE IN DEBUT.

The ball which marks the opening of the present Census court campaign will be thrown out by Arthur J. Hirsch, chief clerk of the Census Bureau. The Enumerators and the Army War College will match shots at Immaculate Conception Hall tomorrow night.

Four of the men who helped Irving "Bert" Coggins put Central High on the basketball map throughout the East will appear with the Enumerators. Mickey Macdonald, Pete Nee, Bill Banta and Earle Moser, Central immortals, form the Census nucleus. "Preacher" Adkins, Lester Singman, Lew Sheild and "Fats" Wiler are other prominent members of the squad.

WHICHONE TOPS WINNERS.

The largest purse ever won by a race horse was $105,730, first prize in the Belmont Futurity of 1929, won by the late Harry Payne Whitney's Whichone.

Compromises Rejected, Smaller Leagues Plan for Open Battle With Majors

Writers Will Continue Valuable Player Ballot

New York, Dec. 11 (A.P.).—Although both major leagues have discontinued the official selection of a "most valuable player" each year, the custom will be kept up by the Baseball Writers Association of America.

The association, at its meeting today, voted to name committees of experts each year to ballot on the most valuable performers in each big league. Each winner will receive a suitable token of recognition in the form of a medal or other memento.

This year, unofficial selections were made by the baseball writers, at the request of the Associated Press. The players chosen were Hack Wilson, of the Cubs, and Joe Cronin, of the Washington Senators. The Chicago Club recognized the selection by giving Wilson $1,000, the amount of the award previously given by the National League.

Split Wide Open on Draft Price and Option Terms.

Minors' Spokesman Says Result Will Be New Big League.

By EDWARD J. NEIL.

NEW YORK, Dec. 11 (A.P.).—Relations between the majors and the minor leagues were blasted far apart today by the controversy over the universal draft, and organized baseball faced its first open warfare since the days of the Federal League, 15 years ago.

Bubbling over with wrath, the committee of nine representing the American Association and the Pacific Coast and International Leagues, stormed out of a joint meeting with representatives of the National and American Leagues late this afternoon determined to carry on business in the future without any relation whatsoever with the majors. The break-up brought an end to three days of negotiation here and left no prospect that the big and little brothers of organized baseball could hope to settle their differences peacefully in the near future.

Split Definitely On Option Plan.

The two branches of baseball split definitely on the proposition of optioning out players for seasoning and the price to be paid for athletes drafted by the majors. The majors, headed in the conference by Presidents Ernest S. Barnard of the American League and John A. Heydler, of the National League, insisted they be allowed to select players from class AA teams—teams of the American Association, Pacific Coast, and International Leagues—who had had four years of experience in leagues of lower classification. On this point—and the question of price to be paid for these athletes—the committees could reach no agreement.

The majors offered $7,500 for each drafted player, a drop of $10,000 from their offer at the recent Cleveland conference, while the minors asked for $10,000.

As a final resort the minor league committee, headed by Charles H. Strub, president of the San Francisco Club, of the Pacific Coast League, offered to place settlement of the controversy in the hands of High Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis with the understanding that both sides would agree to stand by his decision. The major league committees refused to accept this offer and the minors thereupon marched out of the meeting in war-like formation.

The minors, offering several compromises, agreed to permit each major league club to send fifteen players out on option for three years apiece instead of the eight players now permitted each club for two years. The little brothers demanded, however, that the same consideration in developing players be extended them by the majors.

The minors pointed out that universal draft of players with four years of minor experiences, at a cost of only $7,500, would rob the Class "AA" clubs of stars just coming into their own and prevent the big minors from regaining sums spent in developing

CONFERENCE FOES PLAY TONIGHT

Ben Franklin, Bliss Fives Make Debut at Silver Spring.

THE second game of the Washington Collegiate Conference basket ball season will be played tonight between the Benjamin Franklin University and Bliss Electrical School fives on the Silver Spring Armory floor, beginning at 8:30 o'clock. A preliminary game between two Bliss teams will start at 7:30.

Benjamin Franklin is a slight favorite on account of its advantage in experience, but conference followers anticipate a closely contested game. The Bliss squad, coached by N. S. Almony, is big and rangy and employs a midwestern style of basket ball. Benjamin Franklin is an exponent of the short-pass Eastern pro style.

Winner to Tie for Lead.

The winner of tonight's game will go into a tie with Columbus University for the conference lead. Columbus gained the front by defeating Southeastren University Wednesday night by a 20-19 score.

A meeting of conference officials will be held next Tuesday night, at which time any protests will be heard. A protest developed in the inaugural game when Southeastern charged that Columbus used a paid coach in its line-up. The player in question—Tommy Connor—contributed vital points in Columbus' winning rally late in the game.

According to Raymond J. Walter, Columbus athletic director and acting president of the conference, the status of Connor is that of a player-coach, but that Connor does not receive compensation in any form.

MADES NEW CAPTAIN AT EASTERN

Coach Kelley Praises Team at Annual Grid Dinner.

CHARLES MADES, guard, was last night elected captain of the 1931 Eastern High School grid team at the football dinner given in honor of the squad in the dining hall of the school.

Mades, injured in the Western game of the high school series, was out for the remainder of the season, but his play up to that point was of high caliber. His blocking and tackling were especially noteworthy and gave first intimation that Eastern was developing a line of more tha naverage power. Mades received his letter from Coach Kelley, using his crutches to reach the speaker's table.

Attended by Mr. Charles Hart, principal of the school, the entire faculty, members of the alumni, the football squad, many students and the press, the occasion was a gala one.

Mr. Hart, the keenest follower of sports among the school officials, commended the team highly on its good showing in the interschool series and for its good sportsmanship on and off the gridiron throughout the season.

Coach Kelley spoke on the rise of the team to a point where he was nearly satisfied with it. He said, however, that the big mission in life of Eastern, and for the other high schools, was to beat Tech, present grid champs. He intimated that that was not out of the question, although it would entail serious work.

Kelley and "Chief" Guyon, popular mentors of Eastern's major sports, were presented with a radio and chair, respectively, for their services to Eastern.

Kelley presented the following men with their "E's" and a special gift of engraved billfolds: Davis, Campbell, Chalkley, Shorb, Wolf, Taylor, McAboy, Wells, Corridon, Wade, Palmer, Calevas, Sansbury, Mades and Manager Woolard.

Students of the school gave special vaudeville performances lampooning the various institutions of the school.

STRIBLING AND GRIFFITHS AWAIT IMPORTANT CLASH

Georgia Star Made 2-to-1 Favorite

Schmeling Bout Aim of Rivals Tonight at Chicago.

Both Men on Edge; $100,000 Gate Is Prospect.

By WILLIAM WEEKS.

CHICAGO, Dec. 11 (A.P.).—Just how much business Gerald Ambrose Griffiths, the tough youth from Sioux City, Iowa, has in the heavyweight championship scheme will be determined tomorrow night when he meets W. L. (Young) Stribling, of Macon, Ga., in the Chicago Stadium.

Stribling, by his quick triumphs over Otto von Porat and Phil Scott, has built himself a position among the heavies that only a good, sound licking can destroy. Griffiths, however, has been an in-and-outer, going well against some good fighters and going into reverse against some not so good.

The National Boxing Association has hinted that the winner will be its choice for a heavyweight championship fight with Max Schmeling, and both Stribling and Griffiths are eager to be first in line in case it goes through.

Griffiths at High Pitch Of Belligerency.

Griffiths, usually phlegmatic, has worked harder for the bout than for any other and today had reached such a pitch of belligerency as to be unapproachable, even by his manager, Jack O'Keefe.

Stribling has done little in the gymnasium. He was in shape when he reached Chicago and sought only to retain his fighting edge. He worked with light-heavies and middleweights for three days developing speed and is satisfied that his condition could hardly be improved. He also has become surly, an indication that there will be plenty of fight.

The fact that the Georgian has taken it easy in training has not caused him to lose the favor of the wagering gentry, who have made him a 2-to-1 choice. He worked very little before he met Von Porat in his last Chicago appearance, and some of the experts were inclined to go for angular Otto and his devastating punch. The fight lasted less than one round, with "W. L." knocking Otto stiff with a left hook to the chin. The left hand was supposed to be in bad condition, too.

Stribling Has Greater Experience.

Griffiths will depend on speed, his left hand and his defensive ability. Stribling has greater experience, considerably more punching power and unlimited confidence. The Sioux City youngster probably will weigh around 188, with Stribling coming in a couple of pounds heavier.

The clash has aroused the imaginations of Chicago fans, and Sidney Strotz, president of the stadium corporation, tonight said he expected a gate of "well over $100,000," which would mean an attendance of around 20,000. The advance sale had reached $70,000 today, with the less expensive seats going fast. Prices are from $2.20 to $10.80.

2 Capital Boys Win Letters at Lehigh

Special to The Washington Post.

Bethlehem, Pa., Dec. 11.—Among the members of the Lehigh University football squad who were awarded major Ls by the board of control of athletics of that university were Frank A. Jones, of 125 B street southeast, and Frank A. Stutz, of 413 Quincy street northwest. Jones was a regular in the back field and Stutz alternated at center with Capt. McLernon. Both are members of the senior class.

Jones has also won two letters previously in baseball, starring in the outfield. He will again be a candidate for the next spring.

McDaniel Is Engaged As Widener Trainer

New York, Dec. 11 (A.P.).—Joseph E. Widener, Philadelphia sportsman, today announced he had signed Henry McDaniel as trainer for his stable of thoroughbred race horses.

McDaniel, who was trainer for the late Gifford A. Cochran's stable, replaces Pete Coyne, who will remain with Widener, campaigning a small string on Western tracks next year.

McDaniel will remain in command of the Cochran stable until settlement of the estate.

TITLE CONTENDERS CLASH TONIGHT

Big League Clubs Scramble Setup Of "Grapefruit Loop" in Florida

ORLANDO, Fla., Dec. 11 (A.P.). For rent: One baseball park, slightly used. Apply Sidney Weil, president, Cincinnati Baseball Club.

Reason for vacancy: The Reds will do their 1931 spring training in Tampa.

The moving of the spring headquarters of the Redlegs after six years at Tinker Field here leaves empty the only baseball park owned by a major league club in Florida and marks the second shift in the 1931 "Grapefruit League" line-up.

Detroit's decision not to return to Tampa was the first shuffling of the spring layout in Florida. The Tigers were in Tampa last year, replacing the Washington Senators. But the Bengals announced they would not return this spring.

The New York Yankees already have ordered players to report to the St. Petersburg headquarters early in March. Connie Mack and his world champion Athletics will be back in Fort Myers for the training season while their National League fellow-townsmen will be in Winter Haven.

Gabby Street's Cardinals will be on deck at Bradenton and St. Louis' American League entry, the Browns, will be in West Palm Beach.

The Boston Braves are expected back in St. Petersburg for an early start. The Red Hose went through their paces in Pensacola last spring.

Uncle Robbie's Brooklyn machine may spend a portion of their time this season in their old haunts at Clearwater.

Several minor league clubs will make up the roster in Florida. Toledo's Mudhens will be newcomers, making headquarters in Miami.

Sinclair Will Continue Stable, Despite Sales

New York, Dec. 11 (A.P.).—Despite the sale of nearly half of his racing and breeding stock of horses, Harry F. Sinclair, wealthy oil operator and turfman, said today he had no intention of retiring his stable from competition.

For the past year since the death of his trainer and partner, Samuel Clay Hildreth, Sinclair's horses have failed to occupy their usually conspicuous position on the turf, but the master of the Rancocas Stable intends to continue, in part, his racing activities. Already he has outlined a program for 1931, starting with the opening of the Hialeah Park meeting at Miami, Fla., where the Rancocas silks will attempt a comeback.

At the sale today, Sinclair said: "I just had too many horses and, although this is my first sale, I have no intention of forsaking the sport that I love."

SPORTS GAIN FAVOR.

Athletics play an important part in the Fascist regime in Italy and athletes are now making plans to try out for the Los Angeles Olympic games in 1932.

War Instigator Gets Home in Front of Hot Time.

JEFFERSON PARK RACE TRACK, La., Dec. 11 (A.P.).—Frank Seremba's War Instigator, better than 11 to 1, carrying 108 pounds, won the Blue and Gray Purse, 5½-furlong feature, here today when he stepped the distance in the fast time of 1:07.

The race was run in a light drizzle and the time was very fast. Hot Time was second, with Elizabeth Bolla third.

Chimney Sweep, in the silks of C. V. Whitney and favorite in the betting, was a poor fourth. He had speed for half a mile, then stopped badly. The track conditions might have been against him showing his best form.

The start was good, Elizabeth and Chimney Sweep leading from the barrier and to the turn, where Chimney Sweep tired. War Instigator, which was far back early, began to close on the field, and in a long stretch drive won going away by half a length. Hot Time beat Elizabeth Bolla a length for the show. The winner paid $25.

Storm Bolts to Outside, Losing Fifth Race.

Dark Abbott, paying $24.80 for a $2 ticket, was an easy winner of the fifth race, mile and 70-yard gallop. Thistle Fyrn was second and First Mission third. Storm, even money favorite, had the race won when he bolted to the outside fance and pulled up last.

Storm led the field to the far turn by a wide margin, but passing the 3-furlong pole he bolted to the outside and was eliminated.

Dark Abbott then took the lead and won by three lengths. Thistle Byrn beat First Mission a like distance for the place. The time was 1:46 3-5.

West Virginia paying $13.20, scored by half a length in the opening event, which was run over the six furlongs route. Wig Rose was second and Chehalis third.

Light rain fell just before the horses went to the post for the first race but the track remained fast. The field ran in a bunch to the stretch where Riley brought West Virginia up on the inside and, closing with a rush, won going away in 1:13 4-5.

Negro Jockey Scores With the Abbot.

The Negro jockey, R. Simpson, scored his second victory of the day when he piloted the Abbot to victory in the third race, a gallop of six furlongs.

The Moon finished second and Focus third.

Simpson showed real ability when he brought the Abbot home. The horse lacked early speed to race with the Moon and the boy was content to rate his mount back of the pace cut out by The Moon to the stretch, where he called on him, moved up and into command to win going away by a length and a half.

The Moon beat Focus a length for the place. The time was 1:13 4-5.

Jockey D. Dubois was suspended ten days by the stewards for striking Jockey C. Pegg with his whip during the running of the fifth race Wednesday.

Gallaudet Five Invades Philadelphia Tonight

Gallaudet College's veteran court array steps out in competition tonight for the first time of the season, meeting the Haverford College Quintet in Philadelphia. Tomorrow night Coach Wally Krug's tossers will oppose the Drexel Institute Team.

Every member of the Blue five that won ten of its sixteen games last winter is again present, while in addition Coach Krug has a most promising recruit in Jimmy Rayhill, a forward.

The probable starting line-up is composed by Capt. Del Cosgrove and Rayhill, forwards; John Wurdemann, center, and Rabbit Ringle and Paul Brown, guards. Rayhill is filling the berth occupied last winter by Konrad Hokanson, who also is available. Hokanson will get into the game at some stage.

SAYS PEGLER

field stands, how many had been hit for home runs and how many had been snatched out of the bags by the athletes to be autographed and presented to admirers. Two-thirds of the 4,480 dozen American League balls, or precisely two-thirds of 4,480 multiplied by 12, were knocked among the customers of the American League in pursuance of the new major-league policy of "a baseball for every mantel shelf and back-bar in the country."

Mr. Heydler also announced the attendance statistics of the National League, saying: "There are some more figures there for you boys; about the attendance last year. It was a pretty good year."

These slips, being distributed after a disorderly struggle in which the AP kicked the UP in the shins, revealed that the league drew a total attendance of 5,500,000 in eight cities, or about 500,000 less than the population of New York City, and 500,000 more than the 1929 attendance and 136,000 more than the previous record established in 1927 by Charlie Paddock in the National A. A. U. indoor attendance championships.

RABBIT BALL MUST GO, IF HIT

The Cubs drew the largest trade at home, 1,463,624; the Giants drew 850,000, the greatest number, on the road; Brooklyn drew 1,100,000 at home, exceeding 1,000,000 for the first time, and the National League used up 5,144 dozen baseballs, a fact which can not be emphasized too strongly.

Mr. Julian Curtis, of the Spalding firm, the manufacturers of the balls, spent a long time showing that the ball was no more frisky today than in 1913, and at the end of his oration the athletes and ex-athletes in the jobbies adopted a resolution to the effect that the jack rabbit ball must go, if hit.

Uncle Wilbert Robinson, the manager of the Brooklyn Daffiness Boys, not being invited and prepaid by his employers, who are having a spat with him, did not appear, so the congestion in the hotel was not as bad as it might have been. Probably it was just as well for him, as there was a room understood to be a sort of social hall and lying-down room near the Brooklyn suite, and from this room there came frequent tinkles of ice and glass, and, in a left-handed voice, cries of "Who says I'm cock-eyed?"

BHIMA'S RATH was carved in rock by sculptors who started working from the top. It is one of five shrines at Mamallapuram, near Madras, India. Each one is totally different but were all carved from solid blocks of granite. Bhima's Rath has been standing since the seventh century.

The fossil forests of Yellowstone Park are found over extensive areas in the northern portion of the park. The area forming Yellowstone has been buried time and time again under lava down through the ages. There are many such petrified forests under the ones now standing and who knows that within a few thousand years the forests of Yellowstone will not again be buried by volcanic lava

Boots and Saddle's

(Reg. U. S. Patent Office)

—Jefferson Park Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS.

THE fourth race, a purse for all aged horses, features the card today at Jefferson Park, and is at six furlongs. BOB ROGERS beat Rain Or Shine and Nicheison a few days ago, and should win back. That was on a heavy track and his time was 1:15 1-5. The contender should be JACK HASKELL, which won from Celtic Prince and Chianti Monday in 1:12 3-5, on a fast track.

Under the conditions the race of BOB ROGERS was slightly the better. CHIANTI, which was third in the JACK HASKELL race, starts in this and should be third again. CHENE a two-year-old, ran with good horses in the East and with 99 pounds, may be dangerous. Six horses are to start in the feature sprint. A light rain fell last night, with the weather cloudy.

FIRST RACE—All aged maidens start in the first race, also at six furlongs. TRULY MOVING and POISON IVY are expected to fight it out in this number. The first-named ran a good race recently, and is selected to win, but in the race of last Friday, POISON IVY was second to Macenas and TRULY MOVING was unplaced. That was on a heavy track. Difference in weight and track conditions appear to give the edge to TRULY MOVING. ROYAL CAUSE an older horse than either, should be a contender, and may outlast the others.

SECOND RACE—SUN PORTER should win the second race for two-year-old fillies. In her last start she was beaten a half length by Fast Life. PETABIT may be a dangerous rival for the purse. She was second to Justiciary, a long shot, and she was second choice in the betting. She was beaten a short half length. AGNES SORRELL was third to Busy Ven, and Some very good two years were back of her last week, and she may get the short end of the purse. She was 71 to 1 in that race, but her price will not be long in this race.

THIRD RACE—The third race also is for two-year-old fillies. GALLOPETTE was third to GENEROLA last week and she was in the lead to the stretch and on her New York form, she is selected to win. She beat a large field at Empire City on November 3, but failed to score in Maryland. GENEROLA should be the contender, but on her entire racing record she does not appear to seriously threaten GALLOPETTE. FALMOUTH BELLE which was third to Justiciary Tuesday, and second to GALLOPETTE at Empire City, has a chance and should share in the purse.

FIFTH RACE—There is speed in the fifth race, at a mile and a sixteenth, with KADIAK, DELMONICO and FRANK FULLEN, all winners of their last starts, the contenders. KADIAK is picked to win. He beat Bozo in his last start by two lengths, in 1:46, mile and a sixteenth. DELMONICO beat Spanflow and Wood River at a mile and a quarter. FRANK FULLEN beat Madcap Marvin by four lengths last out. He is entitled to third and no better on that race. KADIAK seems much the best of the three, and he is a consistent horse. COCKRILL is best of the others.

SIXTH RACE—AVIATOR and BROKER probably will fight it out in the sixth race at 9 furlongs. AVIATOR'S last race will have to be thrown out in order to pick him. Going back last week, when he was third to Betty Bux, he has a chance in this contest. BROKER was heavily backed last out but was beaten two heads by the $289-to-$2 Clapper, but should get back to his best races in this event. He is rated the contender. MISS MARYLAND has been picking up in her racing and has a good chance for third money, and apparent show horses are winning at Jefferson Park.

SEVENTH RACE—SUN ROMAN looks the the best in the seventh race, which has the largest field on the card. Dante has been running well and is probably the contender. BARDALID should improve. LUKE JUNIOR, on the eligible list was second to The Orleanian last out, and has a chance if he gets in the race. SUN ROMAN was beaten by a head by Clapper earlier in the week. He has run better races than that, and is fit.

Girls to Test New Rule Planned in Basket Ball

The practicability of the proposal by the national committee of girls basket ball to eliminate the center toss-up will be demonstrated tonight by two teams from George Washington University at a meeting of the District basket ball rating committee to be held at the Y. W. C. A. at 8 o'clock.

The proposal of the national body follows these lines, and is planned to eliminate unfair advantages of tall centers: After a goal has been made the ball shall not be put in play by a toss-up, but awarded to first one team and then the other and put in play from the center circle.

Eline Van Borries, national chairman of basket ball, will be present to discuss the proposed changes in the rule book for next year.

G. U. BASKET BALL HOPES DIMMEST IN FOUR YEARS

Opening Fray Tonight to Be Test

Morris, Shea, Dillon Certain to Oppose Gettysburg.

Graduation Hit Team Hard; Colrick May Select Gridmen.

This is the fourth of a series of articles dealing with the basket ball prospects of local colleges.

FOR the first time in four years the beginning of a basket ball season finds Georgetown uncertain of is prospects. The Blue and Gray, stripped by graduation of a majority of an all-star cast, opens its campaign tonight, meeting Gettysburg in Tech High Gymnasium at 8 o'clock.

So unsettled is the court situation at the Hilltop that Coach Johnny Colrick does not expect to determine the make-up of his first-string team until after the first three or four games have been played, which means just before January 1.

High-Ranking Quintet Insured Success.

For three years, or as long as Freddy Mesmer, Maurice McCarthy, Don Dutton, Hal Meenan and Johnny Dunn were available as regulars, Georgetown always looked ahead confidently to its activities on the court. These five players formed one of the fastest, smartest, smoothest-functioning basket ball teams in Eastern college circles.

Their loss does not leave Georgetown entirely devoid of capable talent; not by any means, but the Hilltop now has only the makings of a basket ball team instead of a team already "made."

Coach Colrick, beginning his career as a basket ball coach, has been wrestling with his problem for two weeks. He has cut the squad from 27 to 19 and will make further reductions until he has what he regards his best 15, whom he will designate as the "home" varsity squad. When Georgetown plays away, he will depend on a certain eight or ten.

Colrick's basket ball background consists of three years of competition at St. Benedict's (N. J.) Prep and four years at Notre Dame. He was coached at the former by Ernest Blood, who gained Nation-wide recognition during a five-year regime at Passaic High School, and at the South Bend institution by George Keogan, who ranks high among the collegiate mentors.

Plans for Improvement Made by Colrick.

At this early date Colrick already has concluded that Georgetown must have a tighter defense and a faster-breaking offense than it had last year. The new coach watched the Hilltoppers in several games last winter.

Having seen room for improvement in the work of the veterans who performed last winter, Colrick is fully aware of the difficulty involved in achieving his ends. His material, for the most part, is untried.

Walter Morris, captain and forward; Bill Shea, forward, and Paul Dillon, center, are the most experienced players in the squad. All three were regulars on the team that finished the last season. It is unlikely that they will be supplanted as regulars, although Colrick has declared that every position on the team is open.

In order to strengthen the defense, now that the clever Mesmer and McCarthy have gone, Colrick is considering the switching of Shea from forward to guard. It is possible, also, that Morris will be changed similarly, as the Washington lad has played both at forward and guard.

Opponents Outscored G. U. Five in 1929-30.

Georgetown yielded more points last winter than it scored itself. The records show the Hilltop collected a total of 760 points as against 776 by its opponents. In spite of this, however, Georgetown won 13 of its 25 games.

Colrick's defense plans involve the development of a five-man shifting defense in which the team lines up in "three-two" formation, as in zone defense, and then breaks up to guard each opposing player individually.

The fast-breaking attack desired by Colrick is explained fairly well by its title. Detailed, it is the rapid movement of the ball toward the opponents' basket with the elimination of the criss-cross passing in midcourt. Colrick believes that midcourt passing consumes too much time.

Colrick may select his guards from a group of candidates representing the football team. Promising among them are Bill Maczees and Dick King.

Jack McHale, star of last year's freshmen quintet, is fighting for a varsity berth as a forward. He has plenty of competition on his hands, which is not alone in the persons of Morris and Shea. Johnny Scalzi is present to bid for basket ball honors comparable to those of his football season.

Legion Backs Boxing Bill for West Virginia

Special to The Washington Post.

Martinsburg, W. Va., Dec. 11.—Another effort to legalize boxing in West Virginia will be made at the approaching session of the Legislature, it has been learned in this city. Sponsored by the American Legion, and backed by several other young men's organizations, a bill will be presented shortly after the solons of the State convene in Charleston next month.

Two bills making boxing legal in the Mountain State have been passed but both have received the executive veto. Gov. John J. Cornwell, West Virginia's war-time head, and Gov. Howard M. Gore, Gov. William G. Conley's predecessor, both expressed displeasure at the attempts of the boxing supporters' plans and vetoed them.

Two Football Captains For Staunton in 1931

Special to The Washington Post.

Staunton, Va., Dec. 11.—Unique, to say the least, will be the status of Staunton Military Academy's football team next season. It will have two captains.

When this year's team held its annual banquet and business meeting, attended by more than 30 players, a tie vote was cast for the captaincy.

Rodney Ball, of Ohio, and William W. Gibbs 3d, of Staunton, will be cocaptains of the 1931 grid squad.

AMERICAN U. IN OPENER TONIGHT

Maryland Normal to Test Untried Eagle Quintet Here.

WITH four of last year's regulars in the line-up, the American University Basket Ball Team makes its 1930-1931 debut tonight in a game with the Maryland State Normal five from Towson, Md., on the A. U. courts. The toss-up is scheduled for 8:30 o'clock.

As an experiment, Coach Walter Young has shifted George Olsen, one of last year's stellar guards, to a forward position, and the keen-eyed redhead will pair off with Johnny Woods "up front." Young believes that the team's offense will be improved with Olsen performing in his new position.

The only newcomer in the Eagle regular array is Bob Fuchsle, a freshman, who takes the place left vacant by the departure of Orville Targee, who, with Olsen, figured prominently in the Eagles' last campaign.

Fuchsle's running mate is Warren Colison, who played regularly last winter at a forward position. The center job will be taken care of by Oscar Sells, another veteran.

Little is known here of the strength of the Maryland five. Last year the Towson Team made three appearances here and showed a fighting brand of basket ball, although it lacked something in finesse.

Coast Charity Contest Draws Football Coaches

Seattle, Wash., Dec. 11 (A.P.).—Three University of Washington grid coaches will play on Jimmy Phelan's all-star Western football team, which will meet an eleven of former and present Notre Dame stars in Los Angeles, December 27.

Phelan, Washington grid coach, said he had invited his assistants, Ralph "Pest" Welch, Clarence "Cotton" Wilcox, and Bill Woerner to play against the Notre Dame line-up and they had accepted. All are former Purdue players.

Welch is a full back, Wilcox a half back, and Woerner an end.

Large Devitt Squad Out for Basket Ball

While Devitt Prep has deemphasized basket ball in favor of its return to track and field later in the year Coach Jim McNamara put a large squad of courtmen through the paces yesterday in preparation for the impending season.

Among the group were such performers as Tangora, Craig, Harvey, Cohen, Willis, Webb, Connoly, Negroni, and Cook.

Word from Devitt has it that no attention will be given to the formation of a varsity team, with the basket ball playing confined to intramural boundaries, but nevertheless games have been scheduled with Georgetown Freshmen, G. W. Freshmen and Leonard Hall Academy.

COLLEGE DROPS BASKET BALL

Sioux City, Iowa, Dec. 11 (A.P.).—Basket ball has been dropped from the athletic program at Trinity College in an effort to economize, the Rev. Walter Tredtin, president, said today.

Soccer Head Here Planning Best International Series

American-Born Players Seen as Serious Contenders in Play; Games With Germans, Scotch, Irish and English.

By RICHARD S. TENNYSON.

IF plans of Robert Bruce, president of the Washington and Southeastern District Soccer Association are not remiss, the local International series, which starts in a few weeks, will be the best in the history of these unusual contests. For the first time it is assured that five nationalities will be able to place capable teams on the field.

In previous years Scotch kickers have triumphed with comparative ease, but such will not be the case this season. Mr. Bruce expects to have represented in the games England, Germany, Scotland, Ireland and America. And for the first time America is apt to figure prominently in the final result.

Two of the strongest teams in the city, Rosedale and Marlboro, are composed of American-born boys and aside from these the native sons have Gaithersburg, Silver Spring, Rockville, Fashion Shop and Army to select a representative eleven from. So far Mr. Bruce has not named the individuals who will select and handle the various teams, but whoever gets the assignment to pick the American club will have a real task on his hands in selecting the best of the material.

German Material Abundant.

The Germans also have abundant good material to select from. Numbered on the D. C. Kickers and Washington Concord are some of the best players in Washington who are Germans. Aside from this source of German players there are numerous natives of the fatherland here who are not at present connected with any team, but who are capable soccerists.

Naturally the Scotch booters will again have a strong team, although some of the dependables of a few years ago are feeling the passing years and are not as agile as once. Several young players have come here from Scotland recently and may fill the shoes of the vets.

The manager of the English team will have a little difficulty, no doubt, is getting all of the capable Britons out, but if he succeeds England will be represented by an eleven that will make any of the other clubs hustle for the honors. Numbered among the Englishmen here are some of the best-known players in Washington. Jack Turner, Reggy Burton, Jess Burton, P. C. Thompson, Life and Billie Smith are some of the outstanding players from the British Isles.

The Gaelic-American Team could be used intact and make a good showing in the series, but there are several Irish players of exceptional ability scattered around among the teams that will give Ireland a real chance at the cup.

City League Schedule for Sunday Changed.

Merton Duvall, president of the Capital City Soccer League, stated last night that after a conference with league officials it had been decided to play the games regularly scheduled for next Sunday on that day. At the association meeting the other night the league representative state that games of last Sunday, when cup matches caused postponement, would be played, this causing the publishing of the wrong schedule.

The corrected schedule is as follows: Silver Spring vs. Fashion Shop, at Silver Spring; Gaithersburg vs. Army, at Gaithersburg; Rosedale vs. Rockville, at Rosedale. The Referees Association will meet tonight and appoint officials to handle the games.

Champion Athletics Nattily Dress In a Manner Fitting Winter Jobs

Mickey Cochrane, catcher, and Jimmy Foxx, slugging first baseman, two of the natty members of the Philadelphia world champions, look like anything but ball players off of the field.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 4 (A.P.).—The Athletics look like ball players on the field, any American League club painfully will admit.

But in the hotel lobbies and railroad coaches where Connie Mack's champions are exposed to the public without their uniforms the thing seems less certain.

In fact, many of them don't look like ball players at all. Those who hold down jobs during the winter carry over their dress habits into the baseball season.

The peppery Gordon ("Mickey-Himself") Cochrane has a winter job that requires pepper and snap. He sells automobiles here.

Just as his catching role requires a mask and the other protectors, his selling job requires natty clothes. And his attire has the same general effectiveness of his this season's .375 batting average.

Jimmy Foxx, the home-run-hitting first baseman, has a rather easy sartorial role to fill during the winter. He is a Maryland farmer and a great deal of ploughing isn't required then.

Consequently he dresses as a gentleman farmer—rather like a Princeton man just after he has taken his first job.

Of the whole group of the A's, the biggest enigma perhaps is "Bing" Miller, who last year struck the deciding blow of the world series.

The ferocious "Bing," always a .300-hitting outfielder, in his civvies wears a lodge pin in coat lapel, and the contented smile of the prosperous small town burgher.

As Edmund Miller, Esq., he farms in Iowa in off season.

$25,000 OPEN MAGNET FOR GOLF ACES

Agua Caliente Play to Draw Nation's Leading Pros.

Special to The Washington Post.

AGUA CALIENTE, Baja California, Mexico, Dec. 11.—Just about every professional golfer of note and many leading amateurs have forwarded entries for the second annual $25,000 Agua Caliente open golf tournament, world's richest event in golf, which will be held here January 13, 14, 15 and 16.

Leo Diegel, professional of the Agua Caliente Golf Club, has received entries of most of the "first 25" of the professional golf world and many others who rate right back of the top-notchers.

Most of the leaders, of course, will not appear until January, but the rest of the field will compete in a two-day qualifying round, December 23 and 24. A field of 100 players, 90 of them professionals and 10 amateurs, will tee off in the battle for the $10,000 first money and other prize awards.

Every Golfer Has Chance.

Of this number some 50 places have gone to automatic qualifiers, while the balance will be filled from the low players in the qualifying round. This system was devised to give every golfer a chance to get into the field.

Gene Sarazen, of New York, who carried home the $10,000 first money last year, will, of course, be on hand again for the 72-hole test. He will have just as strong a field to battle against, over the 6,900-yard course, Mortie Dutra, professional of the Virginia Country Club, Long Beach, and his brother, Olin, of the Brentwood Country Club, Los Angeles, who finished right behind Sarazen, have also sent in their entries for the second event. MacDonald Smith, another to keep in the running last year, up to the final nine holes, will be on deck. Smith, twice winner of the Los Angeles $10,000 open, is already on the Coast, getting ready for the major events.

Star Pros Included In Entries.

Among other entries received are those of Johnny Farrell, New York; Horton Smith, the Joplin wizard, one of the most popular tournament figures today; Tommy Armour, Detroit professional, and a former United States open champion; Al Watrous, Detroit; Frank Walsh, Appleton, Wis.; Charles Lacy, one of the leaders of both the 1930 United States open and P. G. A.; Al and Abe Espinosa, the golfing brothers, of Chicago; Willie Hunter, president of the Pacific Southwest Professional Golfers' Association, of Los Angeles; Fred Morrison, long-driving Midwick professional; Lewis Scott, Hillcrest Country Club; Chet Beer, Bakersfield, and others.

Yale's mighty little man of the gridiron, who throws himself furiously into each season's sport, is now preparing for the basket ball season in the Yale Gymnasium.

Gotham to Greet Rockne Before Battle for Charity

Notre Dame Coach and Team of Stars to Arrive Today for Benefit Game With N. Y. Giants; Carideo vs. Friedman.

NEW YORK, Dec. 11 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—One of the strongest Notre Dame football teams of all time will arrive here tomorrow for the special game between Knute Rockne's Irish Stars and Benny Friedman's New York Giants for the benefit of the city's unemployed this Sunday at the Polo Grounds.

Doubt as to whether Frank Carideo and Bucky O'Connor would line up with the South Bend team on Sunday was swept away when Rockne definitely stated that both Irish players will be available for the game.

Marty Brill and Burt Metzger, two other stars on this season's Notre Dame eleven, who were injured in the Southern California battle, are coming East with the newly organized team, and if their condition warrants it they will also be in the line-up.

Mayor James Walker is planning an official welcome for Rockne and the Notre Dame squad when it arrives here. The Police Band will meet the former Irish football stars at the station and accompany them to the City Hall.

It will be quite a colorful spectacle to see the famous stars of many years playing opposite each other in what is expected to be one of the toughest battles that the New York Giants have had this season.

Chris Cagle, former Army star, now with the Giants, has recuperated from last Sunday's injury and will be back at his back field post.

Much may depend upon the toe of Frank Carideo, Notre Dame's outstanding punter and placement kicker, when the Rambler stars get going against the Giants. Carideo will be matching strategy with a worthy rival in Benny Friedman.

Lonaconing Honors Lefty Grove at Dinner

Special to The Washington Post.

Lonaconing, Md., Dec. 11.—More than 200 citizens of Lonaconing and the Georges Creek territory sat at a roast turkey banquet tonight in honor of Robert Moses "Lefty" Grove, of the Philadelphia Athletics, leading American League pitcher. Last year Grove was honored in a similar way.

The Rev. Dr. U. S. Wright, pastor of the Midland Methodist Episcopal Church, and former pastor at Lonaconing, was toastmaster. Among the speakers were County Commissioner Nelson W. Rusaler, Cumberland, president of the Community Baseball Club, Inc., owner of the Cumberland franchise in the Middle Atlantic League; the Rev. Melvin E. Lederer, pastor of the Lonaconing Methodist Episcopal Church, and the Rev. Patrick J. Bradley, pastor of St. Mary's Catholic Church.

The banquet was sponsored by the Business and Professional Men's Bowling League, of which Grove is a member.

Congreve Jackson, New York, and Kenneth N. Gilpin, Boyce, are joint masters of the club. It was said a number of members of the Golden Bridge Hunt Club, New York, probably would join their Virginia friends for hunts during the Christmas holiday season. Fixtures for the remainder of December are:

December 13, Red Gate, breakfast for the field by Mr. and Mrs. P. R. Drury; December 15, Woodley Hall; December 17, Federal Hill; December 20, Scaleby, breakfast for the field by Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth N. ## GLASS HIGH PREPARES.

Special to The Washington Post.

Lynchburg, Va., Dec. 11.—Sixty high school boys responded last night to the call of Coach T. M. Funk for basket ball material at Glass High School here. Included in the squad are ten men who were on the squad a year ago. Several teams of B class high schools are to be played before Christmas, but the regular schedule will not open until after the holidays.

ON THE SIDELINES by BRIAN BELL

A TRAVELING salesman who knows his football and has seen many of the Southern Conference teams play on his travels through Dixie, reports on some of the star players he watched during the 1930 season. He writes:

"The South has been full of good football players this season—Roberts, center; Dalrymple, end, and Zimmerman, back, all of Tulane; Sington, tackle, and Suther, half back, of Alabama; Dodd, quarter back, of Tennessee; Roberts, full back, and Smith and Maffet, ends, of Georgia; Steele, guard, of Florida; Maree, tackle, Georgia Tech, and two of the Jones boys, both ends, one at Georgia Tech and the other at Clemson; Berger, half back, Maryland.

"There are some others almost as good in my opinion—Clement, tackle, Alabama; Holland, end, Tulane; Cain, full back, Alabama; Schwartz, end, Vanderbilt; Gressette, end, South Carolina; Downes, quarter back, Georgia; Kelly, half back, Kentucky; Spicer, quarter back, Kentucky; Welsh, quarter back, Clemson; Branch, quarter back, North Carolina; Dunn, full back, V. M. I.; Hooper, half back, V. P. I.; Poppleman, half back, Maryland; Thomas, half back, Virginia.

"AND there are some crackerjacks outside of the conference. There is Green of Presbyterian College at Clinton, S. C., one of the greatest teams the S. I. A. A. has had in a long time. They used to call him "Little Jimmie Green" but he has put on some weight and now is one of the best backs in the business, in spite of his size. He is very shifty.

"Now here are two men I have seen on three occasions who will stack up with the best—Halligen, end, and Clarence "Red" Maxey, half back, both of William and Mary. Halligen is as nice a looking end as I have seen all year. I like him better than any end I saw in the conference.

"He is rangy, weighs about 190 pounds and is fast. He is good on both defense and offense. What more can you ask an end to do? Well, among the things he can do is throw forward passes, receive passes in sensational style and punt about as well as any player in the South.

"Maxey is one of the best backs I have seen. He is quite a boy any way you take him. He is as good as any of the Southern Conference backs in my opinion. No one can go wrong on him, no matter how much credit is given. Ask some one who saw his work in the Harvard and Navy games. He is truly great."

THE football traveler seems to have made out a fine case for the South Carolinian and the two Virginians and although he does not go into detail as to the work of the Southern conference stars they must be all right, too.

Possibly he feels that the boys who play on the bigger teams get all the credit they need in the newspaper headlines from week to week while the others need a helping hand from the passer-by.

Maybe there are some other great players with their lights hidden under a bushel. If there are they should show their stuff to a football fan on the move who likes to give credit where credit is due.

FIVES IN N. C. PRIMING FOR OPENERS

State Hopes to Atone for Poor Showing in Football.

Special to The Washington Post.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Dec. 11 (A. P.).—With the 1930 football season a thing of the past, North Carolina schools are preparing to open the basket ball season shortly after the Christmas holidays.

Duke is priming itself to repeat the championship fight staged last year, while the University of North Carolina Tar Heels, once peers of Southern basket ball, and North Carolina State are rounding up excellent material in the cage.

Reports from Wake Forest and Davidson, the two smaller schools of the Big Five, indicate those schools also are taking basket ball preparations seriously.

North Carolina State completely flopped in the football season, and word from the Raleigh campus is that Dr. Ray Sermon hopes to bring Wolfpack athletics to the top with a winning five.

The State boys have passed the fundamentals stage and are down to regular drills. The preseason line-up places John Gammon and Sam Gurneau at forwards; Morgan at center, and Bud Rose and Clark at guards. Gammon and Gurneau started off as centers, but lack of forward material caused Sermon to shift the big Indian and Gammon to forward berths.

Bob Hays takes up the coaching task at Wake Forest, and with Doc Sermon, who succeeds Bus Tebell at State, are new basket ball mentors in the State.

Jim Ashmore and his Tar Heels have until January 8 before their first game and many, many practices and drillings are on tap at the hill.

Little has come from Eddie Cameron at Duke other than that the Blue Devils "will have a winning team."

Lynchburg Scheduled By Rollins for 1931

Special to The Washington Post.

Winter Park, Fla., Dec. 11.—Several newcomers will be found on the Rollins College football schedule next season, according to plans being developed by Coach Jack McDowall and the facfulty athletic committee, it is reported.

Already, it is announced, negotiations have been closed to bring Lynchburg College, Lynchburg, Va., to Winter Park for a game December 5, 1931, while arrangements are being made to include Millsaps College, Jackson, Miss., and Hampden-Sidney College, Hampden-Sidney, Va., on the list of 1931 opponents.

Games have also bene closed with South Georgia State College, Douglas, Ga., for October 31, and with Southern College, Lakeland, Fla., for November 14. Both of these teams, which were met this season, will be played at Winter Park, according to present plans. It is likely, it is reported, that the University of Miami will be played next season at Miami, as usual.

Wolverines-Cardinals Clash in Preliminary

The Wolverines, who figured as a contender for 150-pound class honors in the Capital City Football League, will meet the National Press Club Cardinals Sunday at Silver Spring Field at 12:30 o'clock in a preliminary game to the Seamen Gunner-Mercury clash which will decide the opponent for the Apaches on December 21.

Despite their failure to win honors in the Capital City League, the Wolverines are unbeaten in games outside the circuit and are seeking revenge over the Cardinals for a 12-0 defeat suffered at the latter's hands last year. The Cardinals boast several former Western High School stars in their line-up.

Alexandria Sports

Special to The Washington Post.

ALEXANDRIA, Dec. 11—The Anacostia Eagles basket ball team will be here on Friday night for a game with the R. F. & P. Railway five. In the preliminary encounters the Montross A. C. will mix with the Alpha Delta Omega tossers. Both games will be played in Armory Hall, with the opening attraction beginning at 7 o'clock.

Manager McDonald, of the Railroaders, stated today he had scheduled the Mercury A. C. for a game here on New Year's. In the preliminary attraction the Alpha Delta Omega club will oppose the Washington DeMolays.

It is stated that a series with the Warrenton A. C. has also been arranged, while games are pending with the Quantico Marines.

Manager Caroll Rush, of the Del Ray Athletic Club Basket Ball Team, today announced he had scheduled the following games: Mercury A. C., December 19; Central High School, December 31, and the Saks & Company five in a return tilt on January 8. Two games will be played with Warrenton A. C., one here on January 16, with the other away on Feburary 11.

"Doggie" Hamilton, football coach of the Del Ray Athletic Club, issued a challenge today to the Iroquois Athletic Club for a tussle to decide the 150-pound title of the city. Hamilton wants this game to be played next Sunday on Edward Duncan Field. He states games are sought with fast Washington clubs and that the gridiron season will be extended until the first of the year.

The Eagles and the Comets, two local insect football teams, will clash Saturday afternoon on Haydons Field for the 100-pound football title of the city. This fray will begin at 3 o'clock.

The St. Mary's Lyceum Basket Ball Clubs, under the direction of "Jake" Preston, yesterday won two games at Warrenton. The Lyceum Buddies defeated the Warrenton sextet, 19-14, while the Saints "Big Five" won from the Warrenton A. C., 28-23.

The Pirate Athletic Club will mix with the Meridian A. C., of Washington, in a game on the gridiron Sunday afternoon here at 2:30 o'clock. Special drills for the locals have been called for each night this week.

The Iroquois A. C. basket ball tossers opened their court season at Fort Humphreys last night, succumbing to the attack of the Company F team, 37-32. Potter and McDowell were the best bets for the locals.

The annual football banquet of the Alexandria High School Pep Club to the members of the varsity squad will be held Friday night in Lee Camp Hall here at 7:30 o'clock. An elaborate program has been prepared. It is expected around 75 will be present for the festivities.

RALLY AIDS STOCKS AFTER EARLY DROP

Leading Shares Regain Good Portion of Losses; U. S. Steel Off 1½ Points.

BROKERS' LOANS DECLINE

New York, Dec. 11 (A.P.).—The general level of share prices dipped into new low ground for the bear market today, but failure of U. S. Steel common and a few other pivotal shares to venture under their previous lows brought a swift change of trend in the last hour, and net losses at the finish were mostly narrow.

Bonds were again under pressure and cotton futures lagged 65 cents to $1.05 a bale to new lows for the season. The wheat market, however, held virtually stationary, and corn eased but slightly. Silver was again slightly firmer, after recording its new historical low on Tuesday.

The stock market seemed to be still under the influence of the wave of persistent selling which has been in leisurely progress for the past several days. The taking over of an uptown bank by the State banking department was regarded in Wall street as the elimination of a sore spot, which had been an aggravating psychological factor for several days, and some observers thought that it alone might have caused a rally.

Trading was the heaviest in the early afternoon. On the basis of 1 o'clock prices, the price average of 90 leading shares touched a new low for the past three years at 129.9. At the close, however, it was at 123.5, or one tenth of a point above the low established on November 10.

2,888,910 Shares Traded.

The net loss for the day was only 1.4 points. Trading slackened in the last hour, and the day's turnover was only 2,888,910 shares, or somewhat less than yesterday's.

Despite the current gloom in Wall street, substantial holiday cheer is being provided here and there. The third bank to announce a Christmas salary bonus within the past few days informed its employes that they may expect 10 per cent of their year's salaries. Stock exchange seats, however, are distinctly not in demand. The price dropped today to $205,000, the lowest since 1927, when the price went as low as $170,000.

For the eleventh successive week brokers loans declined. The latest drop was $12,000,000, comparatively small, but about as expected, in view of the dull trading in the period covered by the compilation. This reduces the total to only $2,099,000,000, which makes a deflation of $1,129,000,000 since the downward trend started at the end of September.

Out of town banks increased their funds on call by $27,000,000, while local banks reduced theirs by the same amount. The account of others showed a drop of $12,000,000. The weekly Federal Reserve condition statement showed moderate seasonal gains in bills bought in the open market and currency in circulation.

Call Money at 2 Per Cent.

Call money was firm at 2 per cent, but held officially at that figure, although outside loans commanded 2½ per cent late in the day. Foreign exchanges were inclined to ease. A notable development was a drop in the Canadian dollar to a discount of five thirty-seconds of a cent, which resulted in a shipment of $5,000,000 in gold from Montreal. Canadian exchange normally sags after the closing of St. Lawrence navigation.

Business and trade news was meager. The Department of Commerce reported that department store sales gained 2 per cent in November, but that this was less than the normal seasonal upturn in that month.

International Telephone declared its regular quarterly dividend of 50 cents, despite uneasiness in some quarters. Southern Railway declared its regular quarterly payment of $2, and announced a plan to continue these payments during the next few quarters, at least.

Some of the widest breaks again occurred in the rails. New York Central dropped 5 points to the lowest in five years, then recovered all but 1½. Atchison tumbled 8 points, then recovered 6. American Water Works, Johns-Manville and Baltimore & Ohio sagged about 5 to new lows, and recovered moderately. General Electric and Westinghouse dipped about 2 points to new lows, but recovered most of their losses. U. S. Steel sold off 3 to 138, its November 10 low, but would go no farther. It later regained half its loss. American Can and Standard Oil of N. J. kept substantially above their lows.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, Dec. 11 (A.P.).—Record low prices for this season in July wheat requited today from dearth of demand and from sympathy with weakness in securities. Grain values were depressed also by downturns in cotton and hogs, the latter being the lowest in several years. Traders sold corn and oats on account of mild weather, which tended to curtail seasonal use of feed.

Wheat closed irregular at yesterday's finish to 1¼ cents lower; corn nervous, unchanged to ¾ to ⅞c down; oats, ¾ to 1⅛ off, and provisions, at 15 to 35c decline.

Selling of wheat other than for July delivery was checked by purchase orders from Government sponsored sources. Price downturns of July wheat, which is not subjected to stabilization measures, were in the face of 1,000,000 bushels decrease of Russian wheat shipments this week as compared with the week previous. However, crop reports from the Southern Hemisphere were favorable, with word also of substantial offerings of new wheat at Rosario, Argentina, and of increased wheat offerings in France.

Corn gave way at times, stop-loss orders at one stage, tumbling values 1⅜c a bushel in some cases. A rally took place later on announcement that a comprehensive survey of Illinois and Iowa indicated there would not be an overlarge movement of corn during the next 30 days unless prices advanced. Corn receipts at primary centers were 991,000 bushels, compared with 1,071,000 last week and 1,121,000 at this time last year. Oats went lower with wheat and corn.

Provisions dropped with hogs.

FOREIGN LIST DROPS AS BONDS STILL SINK

Reduction by Banks of Their Holdings Seen as Basis for Continued Slump.

GILT-EDGED RAILS FIRM

New York, Dec. 11 (A.P.).—Pressure on the bond market continued unabated today.

Losses of one to three points and more, liberally sprinkled through the domestic and foreign lists, recalled the days immediately following the crash in stock prices a year ago, when holders of coupon-bearing obligations dumped their holdings without regard to intrinsic merit in order to obtain ready cash for share market purposes.

The current weakness of bonds may be partially attributed to similar circumstances, but investment circles find a more likely cause in the apparent sudden desire of banks to reduce their holdings. Also the broad declines of the past few days have apparently frightened private investors into selling at sacrifice, thereby displaying, in the opinion of conservative investment bankers, an unjustified lack of confidence.

Bargain Offerings Broader.

The bargain hunter in the bond market, who profits by the nervousness of investors with shorter visions, found plenty of opportunities in today's market. Issues on which neither principal nor interest are regarded as even remotely endangered, declined almost as broadly as less attractively situated bonds, and at their closing prices offered the best yields in some time.

A handful of the highest grade mortgages showed a little more steadiness than yesterday, but their performance was exceptional. In many instances the market was very thin and large losses appeared in sales involving only a couple of bonds. Except for the foresighted bargain hunters the market seemed to be virtually without supporting bids.

Foreign obligations were particularly weak, and the largest losses came in the South Americans. Bonds of Chile, Argentina, Colombia and Peru dropped 1 to 4 points, although there were slight recoveries at the close. German 5½s, steady for a time, finally gave way and lost a point. Scandinavian, Japanese and French government issues, however, were firm.

Domestic Rails Hard Hit.

Domestic rails were hard hit and scores reached new lows. There was considerable firmness in such gilt edge bonds as Santa Fe general 4s, Baltimore & Ohio 5s, Union Pacific first 4s, New York Central 5s, the Canadian Pacifics and Pennsylvanias, but secondary carrier loans were weak with few exceptions. An example of the thinness that prevailed here and there was the drop of 7½ points in New Haven Railroad 4s on the sale of a single $1,000 bond.

American Telephone debenture 5s had another relapse and each issue lost about a point. American & Foreign Power 5s turned over actively, making a new low with a decline of more than a point. International Telephone 5s moved sharply against the trend and were up 1½ as the regular quarterly dividend was declared on the stock.

The industrial and stock privilege harbored some acutely weak spots. Philadelphia & Reading 5s lost 6 points, Richfield Oil convertible 6s sagged 5, and Kendall 5½s dropped 8, although sales in none were large.

Liberty bonds were firm in large turnovers, but considerable heaviness developed in the Treasuries, the 4¼s losing 12-32s.

KEYNOTE SOUNDED FOR BANK MEETING

Better Management Will Be Stressed at Conference Here in February.

ACACIA TO HOLD DANCE

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Announcing the second bank management conference for the central Atlantic States, sponsored by the American Bankers Association in cooperation with State bankers associations, to be held here February 26 and 27, Frank W. Simonds, deputy manager for the national association, said yesterday, the keynote of the conference will be better bank management.

It will have for its goal," he continued, "satisfactory profits for the bank, complete protection for the depositor and adequate service for the community. The conference will present a program of scientific study and actual experience—a study of conditions that confront banks today, with conclusions that have been thoroughly tested. Bankers who have met successfully inflation, deflation and all the other situations which have called for brains, judgment, tact and discretion, will tell how they have kept their position sound. The practical side of bank management, especially as applied to country banks, will be given preference.

Selling the income tax to the citizens is, in the opinion of L. K. Sunderlin, chief, rules and regulations section, Bureau of Internal revenue, one of the biggest and best pieces of salesmanship in history.

Bank Auditors Hear Talk.

Addressing a joint meeting of the auditors' section, District of Columbia Bankers Association, and the Baltimore Conference of Bank Auditors and Comptrollers at the National Press Club last night, he said that notwithstanding desultory attacks which have been made against the tax or certain features of it in the past, it has stayed solid. The tax, he said depends for its efficacy and the results obtained almost entirely upon the honesty of the taxpayer himself, as it is what is known as a self-assessing tax. The cost of collecting the tax for the fiscal year 1930 was $1.13 for each $100 collected as against $1.17 for the preceding year.

The operating statement presented to the directorate yesterday reveals net income for the eleven months as $421,687.87, or $73,046.39 less than the period in 1929.

Merle Thorpe, editor of Nation's Business, was named to the board of directors of the Capital Traction Co. yesterday to fill the vacancy on the board caused by the recent death of John S. Larcombe.

The association was formed the spring of 1929 and has made splendid progress, at the present time having more than 700 members.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, Dec. 11 (A.P.).—A further sharp decline occurred in cotton here today under a continuation of the recent selling movement which was evidently promoted by relatively easy Liverpool cables and the unsettled showing of the stock market. New December contracts sold off to 9.85 and May to 10.40, making net declines of about 19 to 20 points on the active positions. Closing quotations were at the lowest of the day. New December, but showed rallies of 4 or 5 points on late months, although the final tone was barely steady at the declines of 13 to 21 points.

The opening was barely steady at a decline of 3 to 7 points in response to the easier Liverpool cables, but seemed to bring in considerable buying around the 10½-cent level for May. It was said that trade buying limited the break reached at this figure and the demand proved sufficient to hold prices fairly steady at net declines of some 8 to 12 points during the early trading. The afternoon session gradually filled up, however, and the scattered selling in small lots which was supposed to come from the South, Wall street, commission house, and Wall street quarters, continued.

The pressure was not active or aggressive, but was sufficient to send prices gradually lower, with March selling off to 10.14 in the late trading. Continued trade buying and covering of scattered orders on a scale down and covering became a little more active toward the close when stocks were steadier, causing only a few points on the most active positions.

Liverpool cables reported hedging and general liquidation in that market and said that sales of cotton on the spot were unimportant with China business at a standstill owing to the decline in silver and low exchange. The estimated receipts from Alexandria showed comparatively narrow and irregular fluctuations, and the opinion was expressed in trade circles here that yesterday's reports concerning a suspension of trading in the Alexandria market, referred to restrictions on certain classes of business. Exports today, 11,424, making 3,496,180 so far this season. Port receipts, 19,461. U. S. port stocks, 4,181,599.

GEORGE BARNHARDT SUCCUMBS IN TEXAS

Brigadier General Served With Gallantry During World War.

ONCE LIVED IN CAPITAL

Brig. Gen. George C. Barnhardt, prominent in service circles here and veteran of major American engagements in the World War, died Wednesday at the William Beaumont General Hospital in El Paso, Tex., according to word received by the War Department yesterday.

Gen. Barnhardt, as a member of the General Staff Corps, spent much of his time from 1912 to 1921 in this city, excepting for service overseas. He was graduated from the General Staff School in 1920 and the Army War College here in 1921.

At the time of his death he was in command of the First Cavalry Division at Fort Bliss, Tex. Born in Gold Hill, N. C., in 1868, he entered the U. S. Military Academy from that State in 1888, being graduated four years later and commissioned a second lieutenant of cavalry. After service at Fort McKinney, Wyo., he commanded a troop in 1898 in the Santiago campaign of the Spanish-American War, winning a silver star for gallantry in action.

In turn he saw duty at Fort Leavenworth, Kans.; in the China relief expedition in 1900; in the Philippines as regimental quartermaster; at Santa Clara and Cienfuegos, Cuba, in 1907; with the provisional government of Cuba until 1909, and as adjutant of the Fifteenth Cavalry from 1909 to 1912.

He was on the Mexican border from 1913 to 1916, served with the quartermaster corps for another year, and commanded the 329th Infantry at Camp Sherman and in France. He commanded the Twenty-eighth Infantry, a Pennsylvania National Guard outfit, during the St. Mihiel and Meuse-Argonne operations. He commanded the Second Brigade in October, 1918, and was assigned to the 178th Infantry Brigade, serving with it in France and Germany. He was awarded the Distinguished Service Medal with a citation "for exceptionally meritorious and distinguished services." He also won the Croix de Guerre, with palm, and the French Legion of Honor award.

Since the war he served successively as commander of the Sixth Cavalry and the Twenty-second Infantry brigade in Hawaii before going to Fort Bliss.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Floy R. Barnhardt.

Under the direction of South Dakota State College the usefulness of ice wells for refrigeration on farms during summer months will be tested.

NEW GREEN GABLES MYSTERY UNSOLVED

Report of Resort's Wrecking After Beating of Policeman Denied.

DAMAGE NOT APPARENT

A new Green Gables mystery has arisen following the beating last Sunday night of a Washington policeman and his brother in the Maryland hostelry. The new mystery is: Was or was not the place entered and wrecked early this week?

Edward Tipton, who claims to be manager of the place, told Detective Joseph C. Waldron, of Washington, that the place was entered and damage was done, apparently with an ax. Tipton did not make any report to Prince Georges County police, however.

On the other hand, occupants of the resort yesterday denied that the house had been wrecked. A reporter was taken through the place and saw no signs of damage. A piano, which had been reported attacked, was intact and in tune. No debris was visible. Two windows, which were said to have been broken in a fight some time ago, had been replaced yesterday.

Although a warrant for nonpayment of rent was sworn out some days ago, it has not been served due to the constable's inability to find the alleged manager of the roadhouse. Dr. Charles M. Emmons, owner of the property, swore out the paper, alleging that the rent, $125 a month, has not been paid for three months.

Shoes, Stockings to Be Given.

A pair of shoes and two pairs of stockings will be presented to each of 125 deserving boys and girls at Christmas time this year by George D. Horning, he announced yesterday. The clothing will be given out through Saks & Co., with the aid of Central Union Mission.

SMALL'S FLOWERS and SERVICE
This Christmas
At 15% to 20% Less Than Ever Before

When the wholesale price declines, we believe that the retail price should follow as soon as possible thereafter.

By selling at the lowest possible retail price, we believe we help the grower to dispose of his surplus, and we make it possible to put more flowers in more homes—some homes which probably never had flowers in them before.

Our Home Flower Market

was opened to enable you to buy Small's Flowers at the lowest prices at which flowers are sold anywhere.

In our Home Flower Market you get the same quality of flowers we sell in "Small's," but the service and overhead have been reduced to a minimum. You must pay for the flowers when purchased and take them with you.

This summer we sold the finest roses and gladioli at 50c per dozen. This was less than the wholesale price paid by the grower for some of his gladioli bulbs.

Today we are selling fresh roses at 75c, $1.00 and $1.50 per dozen, many varieties of pompom chrysanthemums at 75c to $1.00 per bunch and all other flowers and plants at proportionate prices.

Our recommendation is that you send your Floral Christmas Presents from Small's, and then stop next door and take your own Christmas Flowers and Plants home with you from The Home Flower Market.
